

Cough Drops Under Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. government has moved to halt the future sale of all non-prescription antibiotic lozenges—cough drops sold to fight the pain and infections of a sore throat.

The Food and Drug Administration said it found that the lozenges—and some other antibiotic preparations also banned—do not do what their labels claim.

An FDA spokesman said the order applies to at least 250 products sold under some 500 trade names by more than 70 manufacturers. They bring an estimated $25,000,000 in sales annually at retail counters.

Since no question of danger is involved, an FDA spokesman said, drugstores and manufacturers of the antibiotic lozenges and preparation may use up stocks on hand which already have FDA approval.

"No recall of the product is planned," the spokesman said. No list of the products was available. The FDA order said some of the lozenges and other antibiotic preparations found to lack substantial evidence of effectiveness have been in use for up to 15 years.

Date Of Budget Expected Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp said he hopes to be able to make an announcement shortly on the date the 1966-67 budget will be brought down.

He was replying in the Commons to a question by Reid Scott (NDP—Toronto Danforth).
