

BARN Break In

IT HAPPENED AGAIN!!

by Frances Smits

The Barn was broken into once again. Clyde Bell, custodian of the Barn, noticed the break at 10 Sunday morning during his regular weekend check-up. Security says the breakin happened between 12:45 A.M. and 10 A.M. Sunday. The breakin was at exactly the same place as the one last spring. The vandals entered by breaking a window in the Lounge. It was only a small window and it appears almost impossible that an adult could have crawled through it. Just like last year, the basement door was needlessly broken. The strongest door in the Barn, the outside door to the storeroom was left unlocked. Why?? Who's responsibility is it to lock this door? Since the outside door was open, the vandals had only to break the inner door to get to the freezer. That made little difference because 15 cases of beer were left sitting out in the middle of the floor. Should they not have been put away?

Security investigated the breakin, but how well can they do it with less personnel? No fingerprints were taken, because, according to President Brown, security did not have enough concrete evidence to take in a suspect.

Both Clyde Bell and P. Brown suggested that Dobermans be placed in the Barn every night. Another suggestion is sonar sensing or an alarm system in the bar.

What it all boils down to is that something must be done and soon!
