

Are You Wearing a Skull-Cap of Dirt on Your Scalp?

Hair is "Catch-All" for Dust, Dirt, Smoke in the Air

Your hair collects more dirt in one hour than your entire body does in a day. Actual tests prove this.

You should wash your hair at least once a week to keep the scalp clean, healthy and free from that almost invisible film made up of scalp oil, perspiration, dried skin particles, dust and smoke. This waxy accumulation may fit as closely over your head as a plastic skull-cap—sealing the pores and cutting off nourishment from the hair.

Dandruff or an excess of falling hair often warn you of this—and tell you your hair and scalp need immediate attention. Simply dissolve and wash away all dirt and dandruff with Fitch Dandruff Remover Shampoo—the only shampoo guaranteed to remove dandruff. Fitch is stimulating and refreshing to the scalp—because it works right down into the thousands of tiny hair openings in your scalp. It leaves them antiseptically clean—able to breathe freely again so your hair can grow lustrous, healthy and alive-looking.

JACOBY ON Canasta

For Beginners — 5

Last time we left North putting down a red three and drawing a card to replace it. After the replacement, his hand contains the following cards:

A-A K Q-Q 7-7-7
The card at the top of the discard pile is a queen, and North remembers that the card under the queen is a seven. That seven cannot be seen, because each discard is put down in such a way as to cover the previous discards; but North can remember one card back. A good player can remember a lot more than that.

North would like to pick that queen up, but he cannot do so. He must meld 50 points to meet the minimum count requirement, and all he can manage at this moment is 45 points -- 30 points for the three queens and 15 points for the three sevens.

Notice that North would actually be able to meld four sevens if he picked up the discard pile, because he knows that the pile contains a seven. Nevertheless, North is permitted to count only the top discard and no other discard toward his minimum count.

Since North cannot pick up the discard pile he must draw the top card of the stock. As it happens, he draws a deuce.

Now the situation is changed, for North is now able to make a meld of at least 50 points -- if he wishes to do so. For example, he might put down ace-ace-deuce, counting 60 points. Or he might put down queen-queen-deuce together with the three sevens, counting 55 points altogether. Or he might even meld ace-ace-deuce and the three sevens, counting 75 points.

North is not obliged to meld anything at all. Actually, he does not meld at this time. He simply discards one of his sevens! This is an advanced play, so we don't have to go into his reasons at this time. We merely note that a player doesn't have to meld if he doesn't want to.

Save these simple installments.

Elmsdale and Vicinity

Mr. Ralph O'Brien, Tignish, was a recent visitor at his former home in Elmsdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Shea Jr., St. Louis, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. O'Brien.

Mr. James Currie, teacher, was a visitor to Summerside on Saturday and accompanied his father, Mr. Emerson Currie from hospital to his home.

Mrs. Roy Olohossey and young daughter of Tignish spent several days last week at her former home and on return was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. A. D. O'Brien who will visit with her daughter.

If you're a beginner, you'll soon be able to profit from the tips given in the second part of each article. If you're an experienced player, save the first half to teach the game to others.

For Experienced Players — 8

As experienced players we can discuss North's reasons for not melding with the hand given in the first part of this article.

The only meld North would consider is ace-ace-deuce, using up only three cards. It would be the height of folly to put down the three sevens also.

If North makes this meld, he must use his only wild card. He will therefore need pairs to take the discard pile, so that he can get the pile only if a seven is thrown to him.

If North merely discards without melding, he will still be in position to take the pile if a queen or seven is thrown to him. If he draws another deuce at his next turn, he can meld the ace with one of the deuces at that time. Moreover, if he draws another ace at his next turn, he can meld three aces and save his wild card to help him get the discard pile later on.

In other words, North should try to save at least one wild card in his hand after he has melded. If he cannot do so, he should not be in such a hurry to meld.

is L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

1950 MERCURY SETS AMAZING NEW GASOLINE MILEAGE RECORD IN GRUELLING 751-MILE GRAND CANYON RUN

OFFICIAL WINNER!
From an actual photograph of the 4-door Mercury Sport Sedan used in this 751-mile run.

1950 MERCURY WITH OVERDRIVE OUT-PERFORMS 30 OTHER ENTRIES

The 31 cars taking part in this run were 1950 standard models representing every major U.S. make except two. These cars were perfectly tuned for this critical run, and operated by expert drivers. They had to keep an average speed of 42 miles per hour.

NOW it's been officially proven! Pound for pound the big new 1950 Mercury is the most economical of cars made on this continent. For, in the 751-mile Grand Canyon Run conducted recently by the American Automobile Association, Mercury delivered grand-prize winning gasoline economy—over a rugged course which ranged from Death Valley with its 90° heat to 7000-foot icy mountain passes. This remarkable economy, made possible by the combination of Mercury's thrifty, V-type 8-cylinder engine, the "Econ-O-Miser" Carburetor and its gas-saving "Touch-O-Matic" Overdrive—came as no surprise to Mercury owners. For many Mercury owners had repeatedly reported gasoline economy far above average expectations. This 751-mile run conclusively proves Mercury's superiority in gasoline economy. To prove its superiority in comfort, handling ease, power and performance, take the wheel yourself and make your own demonstration run. See your Mercury dealer now.
