Island PCs Loyal To Diefenbaker

Island members of the last parliament will remain loyal to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, because he stood by P.E.I., Heath Macquarrie, Queens PC candidate, said last night.

Mr. Macquarrie was one of the principal speakers at a meeting at Afton in the Second Queens District, which kicked off the election campaign for Island Progressive Conservatives.

"I intend to stand by the Prime Minister and his government because I know what they've done for this province," Mr. Macquarrie stated.

He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker has been beset by members of his own party, his political opponents, and by "unjustified, unwarranted criticism" from the United States. Mr. Macquarrie referred to the latter as "an intrusion into our affairs".

"I don't believe in anti-Americanism," he said, "but I'm anti-U.S. interference in Canadian elections. The people of Canada will make their own decisions."

NO UNITY OF PURPOSE

Referring to the enforced dissolution of the last parliament, he said no unity of purpose among the opposition parties brought this about, as the parties were divided on major issues such as nuclear policy. "It was the desire for immediate power that brought the government—immediate because the reverberations of the last election are still in the minds of the people."

Mr. Macquarrie explained that the opposition wanted an election before the good results of the Diefenbaker government's measures, such as the devaluation of the dollar, were fully realized.

He stressed the need for a government with an over-all majority, as Canada could not stand up under long periods of minority rule.

Premier Walter R. Shaw called the coming election "the most serious election we've ever faced in this province." He said when the Liberal party was in power in Canada, it "did nothing for us," and refused economic aid to the then Liberal provincial government.

'KISS OF DEATH'

If Mr. Pearson were elected prime minister, it would mean "the kiss of economic death for P.E.I.", the Premier said. He added that the Diefenbaker government gave assistance to both Liberal and Conservative provincial governments here, including grants for schools, roads and resources programs, and health and welfare.

Hon. Phillip Matheson, minister of highways, stated that the Diefenbaker government was responsible for great benefits to the province, including grants to the roads to resources and winter works programs. He said industry, commerce, and employment on the Island were at a high level.

Premier Shaw and the Island's federal representatives were partners in a "forward-looking economy" for the province, he said.

LONG RECORD

Lloyd MacPhail, MLA, described the representation of Mr. Macquarrie and his running mate, Hon. Angus MacLean, as a "long record of achievements".

He said the Island was noted as a political thermometer for election trends, and once again, the province would be backing a winning party, which he said was "the only party with any prospect of getting an over-all majority".

Frank MacDonald, president of Queens County Progressive Conservative Party; Gerald Driscoll, Queens YPC president, and Frank Myers, MLA, spoke briefly. Present at the meeting was the president of St. Dunstan's University PC Club, Lee Gillis. Hector Currie of New Dominion acted as chairman.

Entertainment was provided during the meeting by vocal selections from Betty Yeo, Meadowbank; Donna and Carol Murphy, South Shore; Earla Moore and Inez Devereaux, New Haven, and a trumpet solo was played by Walter Stretch, New Dominion.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Headlining the list of speakers for the rally is Dr. Mark MacGuigan, PhD, JSD, of the faculty of law of the University of Toronto. His topic will be "Freedom and the state" and the address will be delivered at the close of the rally.

Teachers View Work Challenge, Adventure

Why do people become teachers?

This question was posed several leading Island educationists this week which is Education Week across the nation.

Their answers are revealing, reflecting their dedication to a noble profession. As one put it "no profession is more fully charged with power to change the world."

Following are the answers: Sister Mary Ida, CSM, St. Dunstan's University:—"To the dedicated teacher imbued with a true sense of human values the teaching profession offers a tremendous challenge. No profession is more fully charged with power to change the world than that which is concerned with the Christian education of youth. Teachers hold destiny in their hands as they mould the character of the boys and girls who tomorrow will control the world."

Leo F. MacDonald, Principal, Birchwood High School:—"To instruct, to stimulate, to inspire - in a word to teach is a rewarding task. I know of no other calling that so effectively develops confidence, poise and personality. To the dedicated teacher, blessed with a saving sense of humour, this is a marvellous life wherein one gives generously and, thereby, receives generously."

Helen M. Yeo, Prince of Wales College:—"Teaching is a fascinating vocation, for the challenge never ceases. The road is not broad and straight, the future not always clear, but each turn brings new vistas, new opportunities. Today the challenge in education becomes greater in scope, more vital to the peoples of the world. I choose to teach."

Frank Costello, Principal Parkdale High School, President of P.E.I. Teachers' Federation:—"To achieve success and satisfaction in any profession one must posses a keen aptitude for it and thorough knowledge of it as well as make it his first and most important business. Possessing the prerequisites above one can find no greater or nobler work than teaching. To me teaching is the most exciting challenging, rewarding, and useful work in the world. Its effects are eternal."

Alice Fraser, Prince Street School:—"Teaching primary children is an interesting, challenging and rewarding experience. It is a joyous adventure to introduce little folk to the wonderland of reading and to guide their footsteps into the mysterious realms of learning. One counts it a privilege to share in such a worthwhile task."

Acadia Captures Mar. Hoop Title

Stu Aberdeen's Acadia Axemen sewed up the Maritime Intercollegiate basketball crown at Saint Dunstan's last night by scoring a hard earned 65-44 victory over Varsity Saints.

The players set a slow pace in the first few minutes of the game but after ten minutes the teams were going all out. For a time it appeared as if Ed Hilton's cagers might be able to contain the stronger Nova Scotians and the large crowd roared its approval.

After eight minutes of play the Saints were leading 11-10 and six minutes later moved out front again, this time leading by a 17-15 margin.

From this point on however, the visitors retained the lead and at halftime were leading 33-26.

Richie Spears, a third year student, paced the winners with 21 points. Spears and Simmonds, a fourth year veteran with the team, each had a total of 995 points going into last night's game and Spears upped his total to 1015 while Simmons, with four points, brought his total to 999 points.

Bob Francoeur, playing one of his best games since joining the team, paced the Saints with 17 points and Frank Garrity trailed him with 10.

Following the game A.J. MacAdam presented Acadia team captain Jim Kreutzer with the trophy emblematic of Maritime supremacy.

The Axemen will now represent the Maritimes in Dominion Intercollegiate playdowns slated for Windsor, Ontario later this year. Competing in this championship tourney will be University of British Columbia, Assumption University of Windsor, the host University; and the winner of the Sir George Williams Carleton series. Montreal Area Investigation Follows 'Cocktail' Throwing MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal and suburban Westmount municipal police, the RCMP and the army provost corps Friday night were investigating the tossing of incendiary "molotov cocktails" at three Montreal area armories.

The incendiaries were placed or thrown by a group calling itself Le Front de Liberation Quebecois (FLQ) (The Quebec Liberation Front).

The home-made incendiaries —described by an army spokesman as "rather amateurish"— were beer and liquor bottles filled with kerosene. Each had a rag wick protruding from the neck.

Two burned themselves on outside two armories while two others burned in a third armory.

The Royal Montreal Regiment Armory in suburban Westmount was the first hit Thursday night. Shortly after a second cocktail was found at the Victoria Rifles of Canada Armory on downtown Cathcart Street, one block south of the busy University-Ste. Catherine intersection.

Two cocktails were planted Friday in the armory of the 4th Battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment on Lafontaine Avenue in northwest Montreal immediately adjacent to Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital.

Both the Royal Montreal Regiment and the Victoria Rifles are English - speaking units, while the Royal 22nd is French-speaking. All three are militia infantry units.

In announcing the incidents, the army said "appropriate orders" have been issued to protect army property.

However, the spokesman added that the matter was in the hands of civil police.

LEAVE LEAFLETS

Roughly typewritten leaflets were left at the armories by the cocktail-throwers.

The leaflets said the FLQ "is a revolutionary movement made up of volunteers ready to die for the economic and political independence of Quebec.

"The suicide commandos of the FLQ have as their main mission to destroy completely by systematic sabotage:

"A. All symbol and colonial (federal) institutions, in particular the RCMP and the armed forces.

"B. All information media in the colonial language which hold us in contempt.

"C. All enterprises and commercial establishments which discriminate against Quebecers (Quebecois), which do not use French as their first language, which have advertising signs in the colonial (English) language.

"D. All factories which discriminate against French-speaking employees.

"The FLQ will progressively eliminate all persons who collaborate with the occupant.

"The FLQ also will attack all commercial and cultural interests of American colonialism, natural ally of English colonialism.

"All FLQ volunteers, at the time of their action, carry republic of Quebec identification.

"We ask that our wounded and our prisoners be treated as political prisoners and according to the Geneva conventions covering war.

"Independence or death.

"The dignity of the people of Quebec demands independence. The independence of Quebec is possible only by social revolution. Social revolution signifies a free Quebec."

The leaflet finally calls on "students, laborers, peasants," to form "clandestine groups, to fight English-American colonialism."

Families From Ranch Country Greet Royalty

CABRAMURRA, Australia (Reuters)—Thousands of families from Australia's outback ranch country greeted Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip when they flew here from Brisbane Friday to visit the gigantic Snowy Mountains hydro-electric and irrigation project.

Most of the 10,000 population of Cooma, near the project, were at the airport to greet the royal couple. Some families from the outback had travelled 400 miles to be on hand.

The Queen drove from the airport to a lookout above the great lake formed by the $896,000,000 project, designed to increase crop production in vast areas of New South Wales, Victoria and South Australia states.

The royal couple toured the lake for 70 minutes in a converted torpedo boat. Both took movie and still pictures of emus and kangaroos on islands in the lake. Which are wild life sanctuaries.

They landed at the ghost town of Adaminaby on the lakeshore, but missed its most famous inhabitant, Paddy Kiernan, a bearded Irishman known as the "hermit of old Adaminaby." Kirnan, an original inhabitant of the now deserted settlement, didn't show up for the royal visitors.
