ELLEN'S DIARY

The Bluejays Rare Song Heard From River Grove

Exquisite moonlight this night gives at the moment, in the wake of a day that was pleasant, Summery, it was, to ripen the grain for the combines, and for us to make and bake our bread, and tend our household, not just more or less to idle about the yards.

In the small wheelbarrow, with Peter a willing assistant, and hoeing to his wishes over their arrangement, we bring sticks to the woodbox in the porch. We interrupt this at the least excuse, knowing that we have time in plenty for the chore. Maybe it is to watch the white rabbit stand erect on the small enclosure of wire in which he sojourns "so as to eat grass when he feels like it," in the yard of the house across the lane, in his owner's absence at school. This pen, of course must be moved at least once a day to fresh pasturage, a commission entrusted to Peter and his mother, with the sober reminder to "Watch out that no cat gets him then!"

We stop to listen to the sounds that come in over the top of our valley: those of the great and varied machines presently widening the TCH, items always of much interest to every last lad, who dreams one day of operating such giants.

We see drifts of blackbirds over the fields, or maybe a parcel of crows on dusky wings flying above a hilltop. And this afternoon gave us also the rare calls of the blue jays, from the spruces along the head of the river below.

The stream is clear and mirroring these days. You see fingerlings bob below the lane-bridge. And listening, you can hear its quiet song. It is a gen the music that which goes with September's mellowing days. You see a red leaf, which embarked up the creek, float by on a ripple of current. And there, close by, could it be for pretty winter bouquets, or for Hallowe'en's torches only, the cattails are wearing their freshest brown velvet gowns?

There are too the sedges, the same plumed grasses, that by way of "Everlastings" adorned parlor mantels in an era now gone. Where, we sometimes wonder, are the peacock's fine feathers that in handsome sprays were also favorites on parlor or sitting room mantels we knew? Gifts those were from the pair, that was among the delights at "The Doctor's at the Corner, in our young, remembered years. We recall how pretty they were as they posed on the top rail of a weathered longered fence on the opposite roadside, in a summery Sabbath morning, when folks, having come by horse and carriage or on foot, were gathered for worship in the "Old Kirk" close by.

In a move for added convenience in the chcring at Rob's, barn has been moved to new site, and is being repaired these days. At Alderlea, the fencing has been completed for the time, and pre-harvest preparations, which have to do with granaries and lofts, are being made.

Dusk drops earlier, now that the month is September — And now, exquisite moonlight this night gives, in the wake of a day that was pleasant.

Until tomorrow — — Diary—Goodnight. . . . .

MR. AND MRS. L. R. COOPER

Miss Gail Elizabeth McKenna Is Wed At Oshawa, Ontario

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Patrick McKenna of Summerside, Gail Elizabeth McKenna became the bride of Larry Ross Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs Ross Herridge Cooper of Oshawa, in St. Oshawa, in August.

The Rev. R. G. Brooks officiated and "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer" were the solos sung by John E. Francom, the organist, F. Alan Reesor.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white nylon sparkle over taffeta, featuring a full - gathered skirt flowing into a short train and a large self rose at the back waist. The strapless bodice was covered by a lace jacket with lilly - point sleeves and a crown of lace, pearls and crystals held her fingertip veil of French tulle illusion. She carried cream roses in a cascade.

Susan McKenna of Summerside, was the maid of honor and the senior attendants were Mrs. David Sharp and Bonnie Crouter, both of Oshawa. Patti Louise McKenna was the flower girl. They wore floor - length sleeveless gowns of shrimp pink satapeau over taffeta with scoop necklines and wedding headdresses to match. They carried pink gladioli and carnations with red roses.

Gary Bunner was the best man and the ushers were David Sharp and Stewart Sharp, all of Oshawa.

A reception was held in the Oshawa Tennis Club where the bride's mother received in a street - length, Empire dress of Dior blue with a white lace coat, white hat and accessories and corsage of blue and white roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a street- length sheath of pink chiffon, pink hat, white accessories and pink roses in her corsage.

The honeymoon was spent at Niagara Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Cooper are residing at 335 Saguenay Avenue. For the wedding the bride chose a silk dress with a pale pink linen coat, pink maribou hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Guests attended from Toronto, Belleville, Napanee, Whitby, Buffalo, New York and P.E.I.

Morning Ceremony Unites Couple At Indian River

A ceremony at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Indian River, on Saturday, August 22, 1964, at 9.30 in the morning, united in marriage, Leona Mildred Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Campbell, Kensington, and Daniel Bernard (Don) MacPherson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard MacPherson Vernon River.

The ceremony was performed and the nuptial mass celebrated by the Rev. L.P. Callaghan, Rev. Plus Murnaghan was present in the sanctuary.

Bouquets of white and mauve phlox decorated the altar, and pews were marked with a single rose.

The wedding music was in charge of Mrs. Edgar Hickey, who accompanied Mr. and Mrs Frank McCabe as they sang hymns during the ceremony. Nephews of the bride, Michael and Reggie Murphy, were altar boys.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white net over taffeta fashioned with fitted bodice and flowing floor length skirt, long fitted sleeves and scooped neckline.

MARY HAWORTH

Social Leeway Is Sought By Determined Teenager

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am the mother of three lovely children, the eldest a girl, 15. Recently she has become a cause of great worry and tension.

She says she is being deprived of "freedom and independence" which all her girl friends are alleged to possess.

For example, I won't let her date boys who can "borrow dad's car for the night," as I feel she is much too young for that kind of thing. She protests that all her girl friends have enjoyed this privilege for years.

She also insists that I am "old fashioned and impractical" because I've said that she may not telephone a boy to ask him to a school dance. Although she attends a private school for girls, I feel the initative should come from the boy. Am I right in my restrictions? Or is she really entitled to more freedom? A. B.

Dear A. B.: You are partly right and partly wrong in you attitudes outlined.

It is your rightful responsibility, of course, to be morally alert to safeguard your daughter's welfare, and to follow the lead of your own common sense, rather than take your cue from what she says her girl friends do, with their parents' permission.

However, it isn't very intelligent to assign your daughter to a special social group, as in sending her to a private all - girls' school, and then try to hold her to a pattern of mom - bossed behavior that puts her in a difficult position (as oddball or wallflower) in relation to the school "in" — a group's way of doing things.

The prudent, fair - minded, foresighted way to insure children's "safe conduct" through their adolescent years (insofar as can be done by parental contrivance) is by putting them in schools that afford the type of associations and the social values and disciplines (embodied in group example) that you approve.

During the adolescent season of life (ranging from 13-14 to 19-21 years of age), it is natural and indeed desirable for youngsters to be moving strongly outward to their so - called "peer" group, rather than clinging to family apron strings, inasmuch as adolescence represents (or should represent) the final phase of the weaning process.

Your daughter is giving evidence of wanting to follow this positive growth trend, in pleading for permission to keep in step with youngsters whom she looks upon as enviable pacesetters in the teenage society to which she is exposed.

Well, so much for preface Now for specifics.

All sensible adults realize that girls, 15, are simply inadequate in almost every respect to protect themselves from the myriad risks implicit in dating adolescent boys at night, who are out and about in their dad's cars.

Therefore we know that no matter how many foolish parents allow their 15 - year - old daughters that "privilege," it still is a wrong thing to do: wrong because potentially disastrous to a girl who doesn't know better.

On the other hand, it seems entirely correct for your daughter to invite some boy to her private school dance (as her partner or escort, I take it). I can't imagine why a boy would be expected to "take the initiative" (your idea) in respect to a girl he hasn't been dating more or less regularly. And your daughter isn't allowed to date, didn't you say?

Or is it the custom, perhaps, to your part of the South for neighbor boys to "take the initiative in squiring girls to such soirees? Even so, mannerly boys learn as they grow up not to do such sort from girls they barely know.

I would consider it a competent mother's business to discreetly devise a logical approach to rounding - up a suitable boy for the occasion, if the girl is so left-out of things, in the younger crowd, that she feels driven to use the phone to try to corral a partner for a school dance.

So, in sum up: you are missing the nub of the problem in asking (as you do) if you are "right in your restrictions," or if your daughter is "entitled to more freedom." Your policy, as stated, is well meant but almost and wisely responsive to the special circumstances.

Your daughter is entitled to intelligent family leadership and supportive guidance, rather than to a blank check (so to speak) of "more freedom." M.H.

MR. AND MRS. ALAN CARR

Honeymoon In New England Follows Burlington Nuptials

Roses, lilies and snapdragon decorated St. Stephen's Church, Burlington for the August wedding of Helen Jean Murphy of Sea View, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Murphy of Sea View to Alan MacGregor Carr son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carr of North St. Eleanor's. Officiating clergyman was Rev. W Eric Ingraham, rector of St. Margaret's of Scotland Anglican Church, Halifax. The soloist, Judith Woodside of Sea View sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" as the bride entered the church and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register. She was accompanied by the bride's great aunt, Mrs. Hazel Cameron.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length sheath gown of white peau de sole. The long tapered sleeves ended in points and buttoned at the wrist. Her headdress, a tiara of lace and seed pearls held a veil of shoulder length tiered tulle illusion. She carried a lace covered prayer book covered with red roses and ivy.

The matron - of - honor was the bride's sister, Rita MacAusland of Bloomfield. The bridesmaids were the late Lois Murphy RN, sister of the bride and Elizabeth Hiltz of Kensington. The flower girls were Carla Murphy, niece of the bride and Kimberly Murphy, sister of the bride. The brides maids and matron of - honor wore satin sheath dresses with lace overskirts in green, deep pink, and gold. Their headdresses were lace pill boxes in matching colors. Flower girls wore identical white nylon-over - satin dresses and white lace pill boxes.

The best man was Kenneth Carr, brother of the groom. The ushers were Lloyd Murphy, brother of the bride and William Parker, cousin of the groom.

For the reception at Irishtown Community Hall, the bride's mother received wearing a beige linen sheath dress with accessories of beige and white and corsage of rust; mother chose a blue two piece dress of pure silk with white and blue accessories and flowers of white carnations.

For a honeymoon to the New York's World's Fair and New England States, the bride wore a two piece walking suit of pale blue brocaded rayon and satin with a corsage of white carnations.

The newlyweds will reside in North St. Eleanor's where the groom farms and the bride at St. Eleanor's. Out of town guests included Mrs. Hayden Dixon and Marion Dixon, North Bay, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Alan Tate, Ottawa, Ont.; Rita A. Murphy, Bismark, North Dakota; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Murphy, Halifax, N.S.; Rev. and Mrs. Eric Ingraham, Halifax, N.S.; Lillian Tate and Mrs. Annie Tate, Ottawa, Ont.

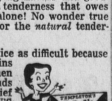
MONTREAL, September 17th — There isn't a gal I know who isn't pining for something or other, perhaps it's a new dining room suite, a new living-room rug — maybe, a dashing new fall outfit. If there is something you're yearning for . . . you can probably finance it through a low-cost BANK OF MONTREAL Family Finance Plan loan. This modern plan is life-insured for your protection and payments can be made in regular monthly instalments spread over two years or even longer. Talk it over with your husband tonight — then visit your neighbourhood branch of the B of M tomorrow to arrange for your B of M Family Finance Plan loan. —

IMAGINE wearing black gloves when you handle flour! Of course, you wouldn't actually do it — but it has been done just to prove how truly amazing new Five Roses MIRACLE INSTANTIZED FLOUR is! You see, it never sticks or clings — and you won't find any flour anywhere that dissolves as quickly in liquids for lump-free gravies and sauces. Nor will you find a flour that blends as readily with dry ingredients in your mixing bowl. That's because there's only one Instantized Flour—and that's Miracle. When it comes to handling (with or without gloves!) — believe me, MIRACLE INSTANTIZED FLOUR has no peer.



SOMETHING TO SING ABOUT . . . the meat you buy at DOMINION is tender for two very good reasons. First, because Dominion's own skilled meat buyers tour the packing-houses every day, carefully selecting the prime young sides that Nature has blessed with an extra measure of quality. But even the very best quality meat is not tender until it is properly hung. So Dominion waits patiently until time and Nature bring out the full, rich, satisfying flavour and goodness. The result is natural tenderness . . . tenderness that owes everything to Nature . . . and to Nature alone! No wonder true meat-lovers say: "There is no substitute for the natural tenderness you get at Dominion!"

DO YOUR HOUSEHOLD CHORES seem twice as difficult because you've spent sleepless nights with the pains of neuritis, rheumatism or arthritis? Then here's wonderful news for you. Thousands of men and women get long-lasting relief from such suffering by taking TEMPLETON'S TRC's, Canada's largest-selling medicine . . . specially made for the relief of such pain. And more good news! . . . you can get even faster, DOUBLE ACTION relief by applying Templeton's FLAME-cream Liniment externally at the same time as you take TRC's internally!

DON'T YOU JUST LOVE BEING PAMPERED? Most women do. That's how it is the minute you settle down on a CANADIAN NATIONAL train. Take the sleek Super Continental or Panorama, for instance, with their lovely lounge cars and other "Travelving" features. Ever "Sceneramic" cars between Jasper and Vancouver. And the special "play time" hour for the children, twice a day, when they play games and have fun. (And you can take it easy!) And babies get "tot-priority" service from CN, too, (friendly attendants will heat baby's bottle for you). Make it a family fun trip. You'll love the pampered feeling when you go Canadian National — I do!
