-The narrative stems from Book One of John Galsworthy's "The Forsyte Saga." -When June falls in love with the struggling architect, Philip Bosinney (Robert Young), she begs Irene to intercede for him against family opposition. But Irene's attempt to support their match takes a dramatic turn when Philip becomes infatuated with her. The resultant four-cornered impasse, climaxed by Philip's accidental death, is resolved when another member of the Forsyte clan enters the picture in the person of the family black-sheep (Walter Pidgeon), who proves himself to be the most admirable Forsyte of them all.

S'side Community College To Open; First Class Tonight

Community College at Summerside will again open its doors to the public on Monday and Wednesday evenings for the next four months. The first class will get underway this evening in the Summerside High School and its different departments are sponsored by clubs and organizations. The departments cover commerce (shorthand, typing, accounting), hobbycraft (leatherwork, glove-making and woodworking), public speaking, dramatics and sewing. The sponsors of the hobby club, the Y's Men's Club, have procured the services of three able instructors, Bill Garschick (leatherwork), Mrs. G. C. Robinson (glove-making), and John Leuty (woodworking). The woodworking is not a trades course but an opportunity for those interested in woodworking as a hobby to meet with other kindred spirits, using shop facilities, and instruction where necessary. Each student will bring his own wood materials. In leathercraft and glove-making materials may be bought in the hobby lobby. The leathercraft class will start on Wednesday at 7:15 but woodworking and glove-making will commence this evening at 7:30. Public speaking is sponsored by the Board of Trade and is under the direction of Harold Rodd, assisted by Clarence Mercer. This is a very practical course and opens on Wednesday. Sewing is conducted by the Home and School Association. A course in dramatics will be offered once a week if sufficient numbers are interested. Interested persons are asked to assemble in the supervisor's office tonight at 7:15. The commercial class will re-open again this evening and new students will be accepted if there is room. For further particulars as to the duration of each course and cost, contact the supervisor of the school or Mr. James Murphy, the registrar of Community College.

The idea of a community college is a unique one, and calling as it does for community participation, it promises to be successful. For the two months it has been in operation in its three departments, it has been most successful and it is invaluable in its aim of providing training in business and leadership, through its hobbycraft departments, a wise use of leisure time.-S.

honest and matter-of-fact. MacArthur in his Nov. 24 communique announcing the Eighth Army's Chongchong bridgehead offensive said, "The United Nations massive compression envelopment against the new Red armies operating there is now approaching its decisive effort."
In a communique Dec. 26, MacArthur reviewed the Chinese Communist intervention and U. N. escape manoeuvres. He said "political intelligence" had failed to supply information on "intent." Field intelligence was severely handicapped and aerial reconnaissance across the Manchurian border was forbidden. "No intelligence service in the world could have surmised such handicaps," MacArthur stated. "This left ground reconnaissance in force as the proper, indeed the sole, expedient."
So what Nov. 24 was called "a massive compression envelopment" against the Chinese Reds was measured one month later as a "reconnaissance in force."
The London Daily Mirror questioned particularly Far East air force estimates of enemy casualties inflicted by air. Air Force spokesmen replied that ground force estimates on plane-inflicted casualties often were double pilot claims. The air estimates are compiled from pilot claims and from observation by slow and low-flying spot planes.

Pretty Wedding At Trinity Chapel R. C. A. F. Station

Trinity Chapel R. C. A. F. Summerside, was the scene of an unusually pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock at which Charlotte Lorraine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Tompkins of Summerside, exchanged vows with Allan George Heal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Heal of MacLeod, Alberta. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Fee, chaplain, before an altar backed with bouquets of yellow and white mums against a background of ferns. The pews were marked with sprigs of pine tied with red and white ribbon. The music was under the direction of Miss Effie MacKay. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of brocade satin fashioned with dropped waistline and draped bodice slightly flared in back and with three-quarter length sleeves, closed in front with simulated pearls in the form of buttons. She wore matching lily point mitis and ballerina slippers. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a small satin cloche and she carried a shower bouquet of Pernet yellow roses. Miss Annabel Allen was her friend only attendant, wore a gown of scarlet dooby taffeta, ballerina length and similar in make to the bride's with matching cloche and gold slippers. Her bouquet was of Pernet yellow roses. P-O Vernon Emman of Craigs, Sask., was the best man and F-O. Kroy and F-O O.S. Banks were the ushers. The bride's mother chose a two-piece gown of black taffeta with black fur felt hat and a corsage of Better Time roses. Following the wedding rites, a reception for fifty guests was held in the Officers Mess, where the bride's table, with its artistic arrangement of lighted tapers and bouquets of mixed flowers, was centered with a beautifully decorated wedding cake. Flying Officer and Mrs. Heal left on a honeymoon trip to points of interest in Ontario. The bride for travelling donned a suit of grey mist flannel with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. They will reside in Ottawa, where the groom has been posted. Previous to her marriage the bride who is a registered nurse graduate of the St. John General Hospital Training School for Nurses, has been on the staff of the Welland County General Hospital, Welland, Ontario.-S.

EISENHOWER

near dawn, French Premier Rene Pleven and high-ranking French and American officers greeted him. In Washington Saturday, President Truman sent Eisenhower a check with assurances that he "the wholehearted backing" of the American people in his job of building defences against Soviet Communism. But at the U.S. capital there was disension over American co-operation in creating an international European army. Administration officials fear this debate, set off by Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep. O.) Friday, might weaken Eisenhower's position with the outset by raising doubts as to how far the U.S. is prepared to support them. Today, Eisenhower appeared as confident as if he had 100 divisions to command instead of the wobbly dozen or so he now leads. Gen. Alfonso Juin, the French soldier who fought for France before and after her surrender to Hitler, was at the airport. Eisenhower singled him out for clapping his hands on his shoulders said: "Well, well, well. It's good to see you again."

"This is now a fight for our very lives," he said, his voice shaking with emotion. "Our people now know that if the Chinese catch them they will be killed. "If the Chinese come in waves we want to kill them in waves." As the Eighth Army's retreating columns rolled along vehicle-jammed roads, Ridgway ordered a tougher policy toward refugees. Korean Communist agents were found Sunday in their midst. Also, the retreat in the west had been slowed to a snail's pace for two days by the throngs of refugees clogging the roads. Check points channelled the refugees into definite trails. They were not allowed to wander over the front lines as they often have done. The great exodus-both military and civilian-was taking place in miserable weather. It was still warm enough, however, to turn the over-worked roads into a sloppy, muddy mess by day. They froze again at night. AP correspondent Tom Lambert who left Suwon with U. S. troops, said Chinese forces were east of the town when it was abandoned. The Reds merely shadowed the retreat. Faster Timetable Shortly after the last jeep rolled south from Suwon, an enemy reconnaissance force occupied the town, AP Correspondent John Randolph reported from the western front. It took the invading North Korean Communists nine days to capture Suwon six months ago. This time it only took the Chinese invaders seven. The speedup was due to the orderly manner of this Allied retreat. Sunday's bitter fighting at Wonju was the first time since Seoul fell Jan. 4 that Allied units have counter-attacked. Wonju was not the only place where the Communists were rocked back with bloody noses. Also stopped were two columns which had by-passed Wonju, Saturday and smashed headlong towards Chechon, 80 miles south of the parallel. Purpose of the temporary allied stand in the east was two-fold. Gen. MacArthur's men intended to kill as many Communists, as

Subsequently, in 1933, he again ran as a member of the City Council for Ward Four, and was elected by acclamation to fill a vacancy caused by the retirement of Coun. Walter P. Doull. Elected in 1900 Mr. Whear was elected to the Legislature in the general election of Dec. 12, 1900, as a Liberal member for Charlottetown and Royal. He served on many legislative committees, and was appointed a Cabinet member in the Arthur Peters administration following the death of the Hon. Malcolm Macdonald of Cardigan. He was acting Attorney General for a two months' period in 1911, in company with Premier Peters, a delegate at Ottawa and Quebec on three occasions in consultation with the Premiers of the different Provinces in regard to the distribution of the fishery award and the obtaining of subsidy increases. Other members of the Legislature in Mr. Whear's time, all of whom have since passed away, include Messrs. John MacLean, Arthur D. Macdonald, George Gordon, John A. Matheson, later Chief Justice, who then represented Murray Harbour; James W. Richards of Bideford, Peter MacNutt of Malpeque, James H. Cummins, Hon. Ben. Rogers of Alberton, George Forbes, H. James Palmer, George E. Hughes, Charlottetown, and Robert C. MacLeod of Summerside. Mr. Whear resigned as a member of the House in February, 1924, on the expiration of the position of Postmaster of Charlottetown and Inspector for the Island, which he filled for several years until his retirement on superannuation. Fraternally, Mr. Whear was a veteran member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, in which he was honoured by the highest position in the gift of the Order of this Province, being a Grand Master. He also belonged to the Sons of England, and to the Independent Order of Foresters. Such a move, undoubtedly would be regarded as almost inevitable. Gov't Control Of Strategic Materials Moves Step Closer

OTTAWA, Jan. 7. (CP) - The Government has moved a step closer to control of many strategic materials for its defence program. With steel already under allocation, the Trade Department has set up a new directorate of non-ferrous metals, a move seen as possible forerunner to controls on such vital products as nickel and copper. The new branch, the Trade Department announced Saturday, will be headed by Frank Hewitt, 42, consulting mining engineer of Toronto who was deputy associate metals controller during the Second World War. Officials said his appointment does not mean immediate controls over non-ferrous metals have been decided upon, though they said the metals squeeze has reached the point where eventual controls must be regarded as almost inevitable. British Poultry Industry Menaced

LONDON, Jan. 7. (Reuters) - The British egg industry is menaced by a growing outbreak of fowl pest which is depriving the meat-short country of about 100,000 eggs a week. Besides losing the eggs, farmers are having to kill off poultry - 45,000 since November - in an effort to combat the disease. GOOD USE NEW DELHI - (CP) - Tractors bought under the land reclamation loan secured from the world bank have helped reclaim more than 40,000 acres of woodland. The target for the current year is more than 600,000 acres. they could while the terrain favored them; and a Red breakthrough in the east would endanger the roads of retreat into the old Pusan perimeter, south and east of the area around Taegu. The mountains east of Wonju offered a certain advantage in defensive positions. Although the fight there might not last long, it would be a costly one for the attackers.

Split Threatens In United Nations

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Jan. 7. (AP) - The split between the United States and the other non-Communist members of the United Nations on how to deal with Red Chinese intervention in Korea widened today despite a week-end of intensive conferences. The U. S. wants formally to brand the Chinese Communist regime as aggressors and go on from there to consider economic, diplomatic or military sanctions against it. Most countries, outside of Latin America, fear that such a course would lead to a general war in the Far East and perhaps a third world war. There is danger that if the breach is not healed, Russia may achieve her aim of splitting the anti-Soviet majority in the U. N.

Death Toll Reaches Five In Quebec Fire

QUEBEC, Jan. 7. (CP) - The death toll of an early-morning fire that swept through a lower town St. Malo district home Friday rose to five Saturday following death in hospital of two-year-old Guy Mainguy. The child was the last survivor of the blaze that swept through the home of Mrs. Rollande Mainguy, 24, she and three other children - Michelle, 4, Ginette, one year and Jeanne, five months - died in hospital late Friday of burns suffered in the fire. Firemen said the blaze is believed to have started from a spark from a wood stove. Neighbors and firefighters extinguished the fire shortly after it broke out, but the woman and her four children were badly burned. It was believed Mrs. Mainguy suffered her burns when she attempted to rescue the children.

Rosefish Seen Most Plentiful In North Atlantic

OTTAWA, Jan. 7. (CP) - Rosefish, or "ocean perch" as it is more popularly known, is possibly "the most plentiful fish in the North Atlantic." Dr. Wilfred Templeman, director of the Newfoundland Biological Station at St. John's, told the Fisheries Research Board final meeting here during the week-end that the known range in which rosefish can be profitably caught commercially has been increased in the last year by 600 nautical miles. He said good stocks of the tasty fish have been found at the Flemish Cap Bank and in most areas fished from the north-eastern edge of the Grand Bank to near Hamilton Inlet Bank. These fish possibly were the most plentiful fish in the North Atlantic. Dr. G. B. Reed of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., was re-elected to a fourth term as Board chairman at the final session of the Board's annual meeting. Dr. J. R. Dymond of the University of Toronto, was re-elected vice-chairman. Other members of the executive committee: Dr. W. A. Clemens and R. E. Walker, Vancouver; Dr. H. Thomson, Montreal; O. F. MacKenzie, Halifax. Among members elected to the Fisheries Board: Dr. J. H. L. Johnstone and J. H. MacKichan, Halifax; Dr. W. E. Argue, Fredericton; Dr. George Prefontaine, Montreal; Dr. Paul Gagnon, Quebec City; Dr. A. L. Pritchard, Ottawa; I. M. Fraser, Saskatoon; K. F. Harding, Prince Rupert, B. C. Dr. Templeman said that the Board's exploratory vessel Investigator II with a small otter trawl had made some excellent catches of rosefish. It had been found that fish caught in the northern limits of the rosefish grounds were taken from a greater depth than those farther south. At Hermitage Bay, on the south coast of Newfoundland, fish were caught in quantity at 140 fathoms. On the northeast edge of the Grand Bank and Flemish Cap the favored depths were from 150 to 190 fathoms with the best catches at 160 to 190 fathoms. Off Labrador the fishing depth for best catches was as much as 200 fathoms.
