Mr. Reid

Rates within the Maritimes are not affected by the recent ruling, but Mr. Reid noted that freight coming into the Maritimes will bear a higher rate. Under the proposed scale the first class rate between Toronto and Halifax will be raised from $2.02 per hundred pounds to $2.32, while the second rate will go from $1.70 to $2.07. This represents an increase of about 17 per cent.
He pointed out that though the plan appears feasible it must be remembered that too great an increase in the Central Provinces will have a tendency to divert traffic to competing methods of transportation. This would mean that the railways would still need greater revenue and eventually the cost would have to be borne by long haul traffic.

clashing a second time with the special detachments of law officers sent to this industrial town.
One Man Shot
One man was injured by a bullet wound in the jaw and neck. Other shots were fired over the heads of the milling crowd. Four more persons, whacked with police clubs, were sent to hospital. Those arrested were held in cells at Provincial Police headquarters.
Labor's big decision will be faced tomorrow when the full executive of the COCL meets in Montreal. President Gerard Picard and General Secretary Jean Marchand and vice-presidents from various Quebec areas will consider messages from locals suggesting a general work stoppage. The COCL has about 90,000 members in Quebec.
Support for the strikers came as well from the Canadian Congress of Labor and the General Council of National Syndicates in Montreal.

Says Shooting Accidental
The man who fired the shot that felled Adrien Dumas was identified today as Traffic Constable Benoit Casgrain of the Provincial Police. He said the shooting was accidental and that in attempting to fire over the heads of the "mob" he slipped on the icy road and the bullet went low.
The town of 3,500 continued quiet today, although the townsfolk still talked of the clashes and speculated on what action labor heads might take. Provisions of the Riot Act and a 9 p.m. curfew were still in effect.

ported on the application for aid under the Northumberland Ferries. He stigmatized the Maritime Commission as a "buffer commission" and said that such demands should rightfully be placed before the Minister of Transport and the Government on the basis of the act of 1873.

Mr. McLure praised the Borden-Tormentine Ferry but said it was still unequal to peak demands and that the CNR fixed its own subsidy according to its own book-keeping.

The Queen's member deplored the action of the government in refusing cabinet representation to Prince Edward Island. He felt that J. Watson MacNaught, Liberal member for Prince and parliamentarian assistant to the Minister of Fisheries was passed over in the latest cabinet shuffle for political reasons. He voiced the hope, however, that Mr. MacNaught might still be given the portfolio of Solicitor-General.

"Dame rumor says that the cabinet shuffle was really a cat and dog fight," Mr. McLure continued. "And the Prime Minister had a difficult time to restore peace and harmony in his party. The only way he could do it was by appointing two men from the one province."
Mr. McLure expressed pleasure at the visit to Prince Edward Island this year of the Governor-General, members of the Cabinet and House of Commons, and other prominent persons of many countries.

The preferred position was given the seaboard area because of its special status under the Maritime Freight Rates Act of 1927, which held that normal rates were too high for that region and that the Federal Government would pay the cost of 20-per-cent reductions on certain traffic. That statute also said these rates can only be boosted when economic changes warrant it.

May Take Case To Court

It is regarded here as possible that the Maritimes may take the equalization judgment to the Supreme Court of Canada for a broader interpretation of their protective clause.
At the time it was obtained, its sponsors were known to be of the belief that it gave protection all the way on all hauls to and from Maritimes points. They were particularly certain that it applied on all west-bound hauls which are specifically mentioned in the 1927 statute.

The board said the "broadcast" interpretation would be that traffic in and out of the Maritimes would be excepted.
"However," it added, "the 1951 amendments to the Railway Act (the equalization bill) were intended generally to implement by legislation the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Transportation."
"The royal commission realized and stated that exceptions to equality must necessarily be permitted. But the broad general principle of equalization was recommended—the goal was to equalize where possible—the exception was to be the rule, not the exception."
"If the broad interpretation was accepted, the result would be that the exception to the national freight rates policy would be much greater than if a more limited interpretation were accepted."

"We are interpreting the legislation in this respect in a more limited way. We think that what is excepted is not the whole throughput rate but a portion thereof."
An interesting event took place here on Saturday evening, December 6th, when Mr. Eye Burman and Miss Riemke Van der Beek, both of Holland, were united in marriage by Rev. W. B. Crowe, at the United Church Mansie. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. John Havenga and Mr. Havenga supported the groom. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Dawson, Central Bedeque. The newly-weds were also honoured by a "shower" on Monday evening, December 8th, at the home of Mrs. Wright Leard, when a goodly number of the neighbours gathered and met these new Canadians and gave them a cordial welcome to the community.—B.Q.

S'ide Y's Men Moving Building

Yesterday morning the Summerside Y's Men's Club undertook the very ambitious project of moving from Ellerslie to Summerside a building 31 x 34 feet, which will be used in future as the Y's Men's center.
The undertaking was a very difficult one as it meant moving the structure over at least one bridge, meaning that it had to be elevated high enough to move over the railing of the bridge.
The building was originally moved from the Mount Pleasant airport to Ellerslie, and recently was purchased by the Y's Men.
Using large flat trailers of Curran and Briggs Construction Company, the job was engineered by Mr. Allan MacDonald, of Inverness.
Work began at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and last night the building had been brought as far as the Allen Road, not far from Summerside.
It is expected that by this evening it will be placed on the baseball diamond where it will remain for a short time until the foundation has been completed.
The site on which the building will be placed is on Green Street, just next to the Orange Lodge Hall. When in readiness the building will not only be used as the Y's Men's center but will also be used as a place where the Boy Scouts of Summerside can congregate and carry on their activities.
The committee in charge of purchasing the site, the building and moving it to Summerside was headed by Y's Jock Hopkirk and Y's Frank Cameron. S

Interesting Talks At S'ide Assembly

Mr. A. C. Ross, regional supervisor of special placement and head of executive and professional division of the National Employment Service in the Maritimes, and Mr. Earl Cannon, in charge of the Summerside office of the National Employment Service, were guest speakers at the weekly Assembly meeting in Summerside High School yesterday.

Mr. Ross explained the purpose of the National Employment Service, and said there was nothing mysterious about vocational guidance because everyone receives vocational guidance from their parents, church and school from their earliest days.

He said qualifications were important in seeking a job but stressed that attitude was also very important.
He said people sometimes changed very little, and that often their attitude towards teachers was the same toward their employers.

A round table discussion followed when Mr. Cannon in reply to a question said that the only information the National Employment Office gets from the schools on the island is the grades and marks.

Mr. Clarence Mercer, school supervisor, said this should be remedied and that a school should be able to give more information than that about a former student, and that schools should have a more exact record of the characteristics of its students, from which employers could gauge adaptability and sociability of prospective employees.—S.
