

10,000 N.S. Miners Enjoy Holiday; Problem Unsolved

By DAL WARRINGTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Nova Scotia's 10,000 coal miners are scattered far and wide this week. The mines are closed for the annual two-week vacation. But a costly monument to their work stands in Sydney—the big pile of coal that has been piled up since the men another 25 days of unwanted vacation—without pay.

When the seaway opens and there should be a way to overcome this small differential," says one expert who declines to be named.
MAYOR ALSO OPTIMISTIC
Mayor Owen Hartigan of Sydney Mines, N.S., is a coal mine operator himself and a member of the Dominion Coal Board. He says the growing needs of electric power plants will boost the market for coal by 50 per cent in the next 17 years. But that isn't much consolation for miners out of work today.

Mayor Alfred Matheson of Westville, N.S., one of the hardest hit coal towns, says more than 24,000,000 tons of foreign coal were imported into Canada last year.
Maritime men have to pay higher prices for motor cars, television sets and refrigerators because tariffs protect Ontario and Quebec industries. So, in his view, why shouldn't tariffs be used to create markets for Maritime coal?

AGRICULTURAL NEWS

P.E.I. Department of Agriculture

AGRICULTURE ON PARADE
The gates will swing open on Monday announcing the commencement of the 1958 Provincial Exhibition and Old Home Week. Prince Edward Island's livestock will be on parade. Outstanding standard bred horses from many Maritime centers will be competing daily on the Race track for the top honors. This you know is the Kentucky of Canada.

In the Women's Institute building there will be displays of handwork, handicraft, artwork, food and flowers. This represents one of the best collections shown anywhere in the Maritime Provinces. According to the officials very large entries have been received in all divisions. On Monday the classes for handwork, handicraft and artwork must be in position before twelve noon. No exhibits will be received after that time. The exhibits of food will only be received between nine a.m. and twelve noon on Tuesday, the second day of the exhibition. The flower exhibits will not be received after twelve noon on Tuesday.

4-H CLUB DISPLAY
The theme for the 4-H Club display this year in the Women's Institute building at the Exhibition is called 4-H HORIZONS. It will very colorfully depict the various steps that a 4-H Club Member takes on the road to maturity.

Over two thousand boys and girls are actively engaged in the various 4-H Club projects on P. E. I. To mention only a few of the Clubs they are Calf Clubs, Poultry, Garden, Food, Garment, etc.

DEPARTMENT DISPLAY
The primary phase of any farm operation will be the scene for the Department of Agriculture display this year at the Exhibition. The care of the soil, the determination of its requirements and other essentials required will be depicted. Mr. David Rogers head of the Division of Agronomy of the P. E. I. Department of Agriculture will be on hand to answer questions.

As a Veterinarian I have frequently said that if more attention was paid to sick soils there would be a lot less sick animals in the Province. At this display will be an opportunity to get some of the facts concerning soil sampling and the care of the all important commodity the soil.

JUDGING
Horses will be judged on Monday by Mr. W. R. Shaw. On Tuesday the Ayrshires will be judged by Dr. Rene Trepanier, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for the province of Quebec. The Guernsey's will be judged by Arthur Benge from Merlin, Ontario. The Aberdeen Angus by T. C. Amos Moffat, Ontario. The swine by Donald A. Stewart, Puslinch, Ontario. Poultry by C. S. Scranton, Canada Department of Agriculture, Charlottetown.

Wednesday the Holsteins will be judged in D. S. Dunton, Brampton, Ontario. Beef Shorthorns by T. C. Amos of Moffat, Ontario. Hereford by G. C. Reicheld, Jarvis, Ontario and the sheep by Everette Mark, Little Britain, Ontario.
Thursday the Jersey's will be judged by Maurice Beatty, Milton, Ontario. The Dual Purpose Shorthorns by T. C. Amos, Moffat, Ontario and the Red Polls by G. C. Reicheld, Jarvis, Ontario.
Friday will be reserved for any unfinished judging.

Large entries have been received in all divisions from every indication the quality should be as good if not better than last year. At the close of entries in the cattle divisions approximately nine hundred head had been entered. In the horse division over one hundred and fifty horses had been entered. In addition to the Agriculture exhibits there will be many commercial and industrial displays.

Dry Weather Favors Aphids

The heavy rain of July 29 caused a slight advance in late blight infection in those fields in which a trace amount of disease had already occurred, reports the weekly potato bulletin issued by the Science Service Laboratory at Charlottetown. Since then the air in most of the forecast area has been dry, arresting further spread. The disease situation will change but little so long as the present dry conditions prevail, but the next moist period will bring on a further advance. This advance should be offset by the application of a protective fungicide now.
The warm, dry conditions, however, are favourable to the potato aphids and the populations of these insects are increasing. To control these, add Malathion to the spray mixture.
