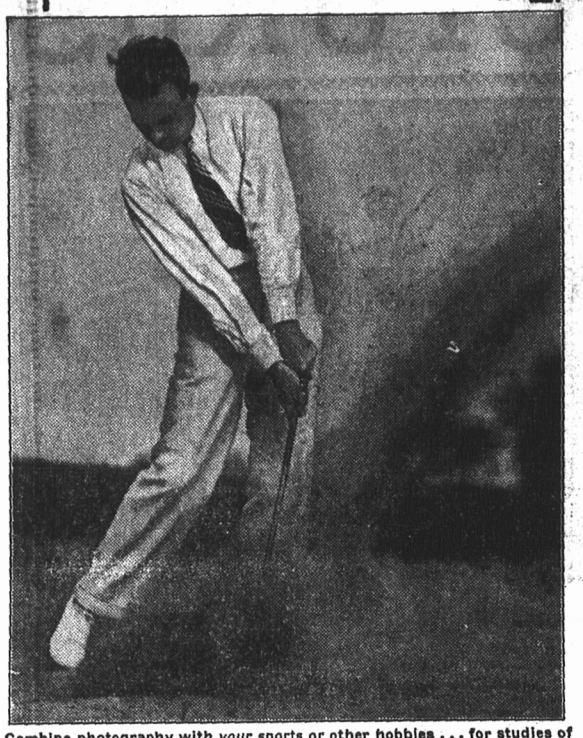
PICTURES AND SPORT



Combine photography with your sports or other hobbies . . . for studies of "form" in golf . . . wild-life studies if you are a hiker . . . and so on. Picture taking mixes well with almost any other hobby.

ONE of the fascinating features of photography, as a hobby, is that it fits in perfectly with almost any other hobby or interest. In particular, nowadays, outdoor enthusiasts are finding that picture taking harmonizes admirably with such sports as hunting, fishing, hiking, golf, and other open-air activities.

More sports enthusiasts are taking pictures because modern cameras are so light, compact, and easy to carry. Cameras taking fairly large pictures have been reduced in bulk in recent years, while many fine present-day miniature cameras are so compactly built that they can be carried in a pocket at all times.

Operation has been made more convenient, too, so that picture taking is quick and easy. Therefore, the sportsman can use his camera about as he would a notebook, "jotting down" in picture form each interesting detail of his trip or sport activities.

This is the modern way to use a camera. Instead of taking random snapshots, one here, one there, the wise picture taker tries to keep a full, well-rounded picture record of all the things he does and sees. And such "notebook" pictures add greatly to the pleasure of other sports and hobbies.

For example, the hiker or mountain climber may employ his camera for pictures of woodland plants and wild life—gradually building up a collection which is genuinely worth while. The hunter records his camps, his kills, the trails and waters he traverses—building up an enviable story of travel and outdoor life. The golf professional may use a home movie camera to make slow-motion pictures of his students, so that they can study their errors on the movie screen—or golfers may take movies of each other for the same purpose.

From these examples, it is easy to see how photography can enrich and broaden other hobbies. It fits in with any of them—and its great virtue is that pictures have lasting value. Therefore, by using the camera to record our other hobbies and activities, we can put them in enduring form . . . and enjoy them over and over again.

All Canadian Guides Here Tonight

A contingent of sixty-five All-Canadian Girl Guides and Guiders, is due here tonight enroute from the annual camp at Rothesay, N. B. In addition to this All-Canadian contingent, thirty P. E. I. Guides and Guiders return from the camp.

Arrangements have been made for the week-end visitors to see as much of the Province as possible in the short time at their disposal. The visiting Guides and Guiders are headed by the Dominion Commissioner, Mrs. H. D. Warren, C.B.E., LL.D., Toronto, assisted by Saskatchewan's Provincial Commissioner, Mrs. H. D. Cowdry. During their stay they will make the Charlottetown Hotel their headquarters.

On Sunday (tomorrow) morning the official welcome will be extended to them in front of the Provincial Building by a representative of the Provincial Government and His Worship Mayor Foster. They will afterwards be shown the Confederation Chamber by Mr. Bradley. Then Mrs. Warren will address the Guides and Brownies in front of the Provincial Building.

At eleven o'clock the Protestant Guides and Guiders will attend service at St. James Presbyterian Church, while the Catholics will attend Mass at the Basilica.

After luncheon at the Charlottetown Hotel the party will leave at a quarter to two in cars, kindly placed at their disposal by citizens, for a tour of the city, including Government House and then out to Cavendish to visit Green Gables and have a bathe and picnic at Cavendish Beach. Here a marquee will be erected for their convenience. From there they will drive along the shore to Tracadie where they will be guests of His Honor the Governor and Mrs. DeBlois at Lakewood, and will there hold their Camp Fire. Returning to the City they will spend the night at the Charlottetown Hotel, and leave at half-past seven on Monday enroute for Halifax. It may be mentioned that on the way to Charlottetown from St. John the party will stop off for three hours at Moncton, where they will have luncheon.

The programme follows:

9.50 A. M.—Official welcome by a Representative of the Government and Mayor Foster in the Confederation Chamber.

10.30 A. M.—Lineup of Guides and Brownies outside the Provincial Building and welcome extended to the Chief Commissioner, Mrs. H. D. Warren ,and guests.

10.50 A. M.—Church service at St. James Church and the Basilica.

12.30 P. M.—Dinner at Charlottetown Hotel.

1.45 P. M.—Leave for tour of city including Government House visiting "Green Gables" and having bathe and picnic supper on Cavendish Beach. A marquee will be the headquarters at the shore.

6.00—P. M. Leave for Tracadie.

7.30—9.30 P. M. —Campfire at Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. DeBlois.

Annuals which grow tall enough for background effects in borders include: Double helianthus (sunflowers); chrysanthemum coronarium, celosias, cosmos, tial African marigolds, tithonia, ornamental grasses, giant zinnias, and rainbow corn.

VISITORS WELCOMED—Among the visitors in Belfast district during the week was the Rev. D. H. Griffiths a former pastor of the historic church of Belfast. Mr. Griffiths, who was accompanied by his friend Mr. William McKay of Milltown, N. B., received a most hearty welcome from his numerous friends in the district.

LOSSES AMONG FOX PUPS—Many ranchers throughout the Province have reported losses of pups at various ages where the case seems to be due to digestive disturbances. In discussing this matter with Mr. Aloysius Roberts of Kinkora he was asked if he had lost any pups so far this year. "No sir," he replied, "I have been feeding Purina Chow according to schedule for the past three years and from pilling to pelting time I hav not lost a single pup during the entire period." "It's cheaper too," he added, "And from now on I'm taking the advice of Purina Mills on how to feed my foxes."

CONFEDERATION QUEEN—Invitations have been extended to the Queen of the Confederation Carnival, the Ladies-in-Waiting and the Princesses, with their escorts, to be the guests of honor of the Gyro Club of Charlottetown at the dance to be held at Beach Grove Inn, July 25th.

FUNERAL SERVICES—The funeral of Mrs. Leslie MacNutt was held from St. Paul's Church yesterday morning. Service was conducted by Archdeacon Raymond and Rev. Dr. Hunt. Interment Sherwood Cemetery, Archdeacon Raymond officiating at the grave. The pallbearers were: Messrs Noel DeBlois, J. Lester Douglas, J. E. Harris, James Macmillan, Judge H. L. Palmer, Mr. Arthur Belcher.

YOU CAN FEED YOUR PUPS to pelting time on Purina Fox Growing Checkers and water. If you have not tried it do not be afraid to do so, as others are getting excellent results from straight checker feeding. Foxes at five different ranches feeding Purina according to schedule were examined this week. All reported the same. No Losses, Splendid growth. "There must be something in this Purina Fox Feed," one man said, "when this feed alone produced the Grand Champion Pelt of the Prince Edward Island Fox Pelt Show." SOLD BY RELIABLE FEED DEALERS EVERYWHERE.

Flowers which send out branches from a main stem, on which flowers are borne may be made bushier and more prolific by pinching off the end of the main stem after several pairs of leaves have developed. This encourages the growth of branches, and the development of flowers on them.

C. N. R. Notes

We had the pleasure of seeing through two of the C. N. R's new air-conditioned coaches which arrived this week, carrying the, Massenet Choir from Montreal, who took a big part in our Confederation Celebration, these cars are very comparable to the best equipment in service, by railways, anywhere in North America.

Mr. Rodolph Doiron, sectionman, Charlottetown yard, is off duty with a sore finger, which was injured by a falling jack.

Miss Maud MacCannell clerk, accounting department, Charlottetown is on her annual vacation.

Mr. Joseph L. Plourde, roadway stockkeeper, is keeping up with the Issac Waltons of our day—Joe says there is no scarcity of trout in our Island streams.

The friends, and they are many will be glad to see Conductor William Essery out again, after his recent accident, which occurred some time ago when he was jacking up his car, the jack slipped, letting the car fall on William's shoulder.

Mr. Aenas Hennessy, 2nd cook S'S' Charlottetown, Borden, is spending part of his vacation at his home in Charlottetown.

Mr. John Ballem, operator, Port Hill, was in Charlottetown this week, relieving Norman Nicholson, who was on his holidays.

Mr. Harry Craswell, clerk, freight department Charlottetown, is on his vacation. He is being relieved by James MacLean Jr.

Mr. A. Claude MacKay, Agent, Montague, is on his vacation, he is being relieved by Ferdinand Gallant, Relief Agent.

Mr. A. P. Ceretti Master Diver C. N. R. Borden was in Charlottetown this week, with thirty of his Scouts attending the Celebration. Mr. Ceretti is Scoutmaster of this group, and believes in giving the boys a good time. They left Borden at 5 o'clock arriving in Charlottetown at six.

Mr. Horace Lyle, Freight Checker, Summerside, is on his annual vacation, he is being relieved by Herbert H. Bell.

Do you know, that more than 75 per cent. of the Canadian Railway securities are held by New York and London interests. Only around 13 per cent of the C. P. R. securities are held in Canada. By and Large the Canadian Railway securities are held by very wealthy corporations and people (and not by widows and orphans as is generally supposed) who can well afford to co-operate. They have received far more in total dividends and interest than the sum of their original investment anyhow. The C. P. R. securities holders have shared $1,-351,966,107 between themselves from 1881 to 1937 almost a billion and a half, the C. N. R. securities holders have done near as well.

COUPLE CONTEST IN TWO CAREERS

NEW YORK, July 21 — (CP) — Marriage and a career in a Broadway atmosphere can be combined with happy results, Florence Vandamn, English-born New York theatrical photographer has proven. She takes studio studies at home —her husband takes stage "shots" in the theatre.

Like Jack Spratt and his better half they never infringe on each other's specialty, yet between them they have licked the platter of many a Broadway success clean.

A portrait painter originally, Mrs. Vandamn changed to a portrait photographer when she arrived in New York 16 years ago. Since then she has held open house to age-old and modern characters from the stage between matinee and evening performances, who drop in to sit for their photographs and inevitably stay for supper.

And the Vandamns have brought up a son successfully to his 20th year. Following in his parental footsteps he has already begun his career as a painter.

Girl Guide News

WELCOME TO OUR VISITORS

It is a great pleasure for the P. E. I. Guide Family to have the opportunity of meeting the Guides, Rangers, Guiders and Commissioners from across Canada who will be our guests on Sunday en route from the National Girl Guide Camp at Rothesay, N. B. on a tour of the Maritimes. We are delighted to have them with us and only hope that the weather man smiles so that they may enjoy to the utmost the beauties of our province.

To Meet The Chief Commissioner

All Ranger and Guide Companies and Brownie Packs are expected to assemble outside the Provincial Building in full uniform at 10.15 on Sunday morning to welcome and be inspected by the Chief Commissioner, Mrs. H. D. Warren, and our sixty-five guests from the National Girl Guide Camp. Following this, the visitors will attend church services at St. James and the Basilica and Charlottetown Guides are welcome to join them.

Picnic At Cavendish

Rangers and Guides may attend the picnic being given for our guests at Cavendish Beach on Sunday afternoon. They must wear official uniform, and provide their own transportation and picnic supper. They also have been invited by the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. DeBlois to the Campfire at Tracadie in the evening When bathing at Cavendish. Guides are requested to go in the water with the main party which will be in charge of Guiders.

In Memoriam

MR. LESTER LAIRD

The death of Lester Laird took place at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, Monday June 26, after a serious operation. He was 40 years of age and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Laird. He was born at Winsloe. About 15 years ago he went to the Canadian West and for a number of years he was very successful at farming ,then the drought came. This forced him and his family to seek another home.

Mr. Laird then brought his family to P. E. I. and settled for a time on the Loyalist's Road, while there he and his family endeared themselves to all. About one year and a half ago they moved to Springfield where he settled on a farm.

Mr. Laird was a member of the United Church and took a keen interest in the best things of life, from which he received great comfort in his days of shadow.

He leaves to mourn their loss his wife four sons, Gordon, Douglas, Wesley, Stanley, and a daughter Conney, also his mother, four brothers, Irving, Russell, Roy, Lloyd and a sister Blanche.

The funeral service was held on June 29, and was largely attended by friends and neighbors. At the request of the deceased the service was conducted by his former pastor Rev. J. R. Skinner, assisted by Rev. Mr. Salter and Rev. Mr. Tilley. Interment was made at Cavendish.

Working Wife Branded "Chiseler and Deserter"

BY FLORENCE BIRMINGHAM
(Written for NEA Service)

Working wives are a menace to the general welfare, to the public health and to the morals of our nation.

The avenue of employment is a one-way street, cluttered with married women.

In America today are thousands of people on the dole with no member of their family unit working, while thousands of married couples on public payrolls receive double income.

A married woman's place is in the home if her husband can support her. Man was meant to be the protector and supporter of the home; women, the guiding spirit of it.

A married woman takes on a new legal personality with marriage. She does not retain her identity as does a man. There is a chance in her duties to the general welfare. In addition to new responsibilities, rights accrue to her in law: her right to support while her husband lives; on his death, her dower and homestead rights, known in the south and southwest as the community property law.

The single girl, on the contrary, has to look out for herself as nobody is legally bound to keep her when she reaches maturity.

Matrimony as a Career

Working wives should find the self - expression of which they prate through the career which they choose of their own free will — matrimony. They are a threat to the public welfare and morals by their own act in (generally) denying children to state and nation, and by forcing single girls and jobless graduates into wrong paths of life.

These young girls, denied their right to a job, are not permitted to develop their lives and have homes of their own, but are forced into degradation. There is no advancement for women while thousands are driven to prostitution through economic necessity.

Not being the superwomen they pretend, working wives can not do two jobs well. They neglect either home or job. As they bear a double burden, they are not as competent as single women. They can not be dignified by the name of workers. They are chiselers, deserters from their post of duty, the home.

In the federal government, as well as in every state, city and town, are thousands of childless wives employed at a salary sufficient to maintain an entire family, while their husbands also draw a handsome stipend from the public trough. Employment of both is a wrong allocation of jobs that can not be justified when there is so much unemployment.

Their "Duty" Forsaken

Economic conditions have changed due to thousands of women who neglect their main duty, motherhood and home making, for jobs. In 1930 there were well over three million married women working. Today there are well over five and a half million, based on the estimate of the job census of John D. Biggers, who claimed wives are working today who never worked in 1930.

In the nation there are more than 11,000,000 jobless and 26,-000,000 employed only part time, with 3,000,000 upon WPA and 300,000 young men in the CCC. Three million families in the United States are being supported by relief.

The life of the nation is menaced by selfish couples who marry merely to pool their salaries and cut down on expenses. Such marriages are based on complete materialism.

The Home Wife

"A married woman should be proud to give herself to her home"

A Return to "Savagery"

The American government should be striving to raise the wages of the husband, legally the head of the family, instead of encouraging wives to go into business and industry.

America must preserve the home by keeping there the wife and mother who should not have to work outside to supplement the family income. Civilization can only advance when married women are protected in their natural career of home making.

When married women, through economic necessity, are obliged to seek outside employment, we retrograde to the savagery, for example, of the Indians, who forced the squaws to do all the work.

A married woman should be proud of giving herself to her home instead of priding herself on holding a job in a little office.

No genius of the arts, sciences, literature, painting, sculpture mourned the infinite amount of time and strength expended in producing a masterpiece, and no really understanding, intelligent mother complains of her hardships. For a healthy child is the supreme masterpiece, and the supreme self-expression of any woman.
