All Competitors Faced Problems In Big Swim

By CARMEN SMITH

BORDEN — Although only seven swimmers out of a field of 12 completed the gruelling Northumberland Strait crossing Saturday, all of them had problems.

A majority of them came down with seasickness; and this was a major factor in one of the entries quitting after 8½ hours.

Ronald Burns of Cape Tormentine, N.B., was forced out of the water at 3.05 p.m. when leg cramps and stomach sickness got the best of him.

Herman Willemese's troubles began before he even entered the water. Saturday night after winning the race when asked how he felt, he answered "better than I did this morning. You know," he said, "I never got to sleep this morning until 4 o'clock."

CAPTURES RACE

This meant less than three hours sleep for the Flying Dutchman but he still captured the marathon in record-breaking fashion, finishing 23 minutes better than John LaCoursiere last year. His time for the race was 6 hours and 49 minutes.

Wendy Birch, Atlantic City's pretty blonde entry, was forced out by jellyfish after some 5½ hours. She said she had fought them for about two miles before giving up. "It was like a village of them," she commented, "and I couldn't fight them any longer."

Wendy said she plans to return here next year in the hopes of winning, or at least beating all the female entries to the finish line.

MITCHELL WITHDRAWS

Charlottetown's Morgan Mitchell, as last year, was forced out by leg cramps. He said his arms weren't tired at the time of leaving the water but his legs were cramped from the groin down.

"I didn't do enough leg exercises," he said, and added that he planned to attempt the Lake St. John swim on August 8 for more experience.

"I learned a lot in the swim today," he said.

Jean Anderson, the petite competitor from Toronto got only a short distance outside the breakwater before being taken out after 1¾ hours. Her opponent in this swim was a combination of cold water and strong tide.

George Park, the big, friendly Torontonian who finished fifth, ran into the same problem as at Atlantic City where he finished eleventh. As he emerged from the water Saturday after eight hours and twenty-six minutes he commented tiredly "those arms again."

ARMS GO DEAD

In Atlantic City he said his arms went dead on him and the same thing happened again yesterday "after two hours." He also had to contend with seasickness and said he was sick to his stomach through the ordeal. This was caused by the salt water, he said.

The two Argentines, Jorge Mezzadra and Carlos Larriera, who finished third and fourth, also were bothered by seasickness and continued to be sick for a short time after coming ashore.

Tides played havoc with the powerful Egyptian, Abou-Heit, who finished in second place behind Willemse, 18 minutes off the pace. The time was good enough however, to also shatter LaCoursiere's mark.

Heif called the Northumberland a training swim but said the tides didn't change at expected times, altering all original plans. When asked after the swim how he felt, he answered "no too tired." He proved this by swimming the butterfly stroke from the finish line to shore, 150 yards; one of the most difficult strokes.

By his second place finish Abou lost ground in the battle for the International Marathon federation championship with Willemse.

STILL LEADS

Going into Saturday's swim he was leading the Dutchman by six points with a total of 13. The second place finish and the victory for Willemse left Heif leading still by 4 points, 16 to 12.

Helen Carragher of Ebbsfleet, P.E.I., who threw in the towel at 1.20, said "I just couldn't buck the tides."

The oldest swimmer in the meet, 44-year-old Charlie Grower, appeared drawn and exhausted when he walked ashore after 9 hours and 45 minutes in the water. He said he was retiring after Saturday's swim. When asked if he had entered the swim because he thought it was a challenge he answered "Let's be candid about this. I entered for the money."

The youngest swimmer to complete the swim and the only amateur, 14-year-old Ralph Brooks of Hatfield, N.B., spent the longest time in the water, 11 hours and 23 minutes. He said he wasn't sick or bothered during the swim but as soon as he reached shore he was bothered by cramps.

His brother, who was his trainer and coach in the boat, said that although there were a lot of jellyfish in the water, they didn't appear to bother the youngster. "He just pushed them out of the way," she said.

Coffin Fires One-Hitter

MT. STEWART — Mt. Stewart defeated Morell 5-4 here Sunday to take over second place in the Kings County Ball League.

The game was a pitching duel between Art Coffin of Mt. Stewart and Louis Murphy of Morell.

Coffin threw a one-hitter for the win, striking out 16 while walking 3 innings. Murphy allowed 7 hits while striking out 15 and walking 2.

Top batter of the day was Gary Clark who drove in all Mt. Stewart runs with a double and 2 singles in 4 trips. E. Handrahan had 2 for 3 while M. Crane went 2 for 4.

Eddie Coffin collected the lone hit for Morell in 4 trips to the plate.

John MacEachern played a standout game scoring the winning run and making a tremendous catch to rob Joe McGuire of a home run.

Nagle Captures Tourney With Final 67 Round

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP) — Kel Nagle, 43 - year - old Australian, won his first tournament on the PGA circuit when he fired a four-under-par 67 in his final round Sunday and won the Canadian Open golf championship with a 277 total, seven under par for the 72 holes.

Starting the final round one stroke off the pace, Nagle slowly pulled ahead while Arnold Palmer and young Ray Floyd gradually fell off. Palmer had putting miseries, missing seven putts of less than four feet.

Nagle's win gives him $7,500 top prize money and the Seagram Gold Cup. It also runs his total winnings on the tour this year to about $22,000.

Palmer held on to take second place with a 279 total, shooting 70 on his final round.

Floyd shot par 71 for 280 and third place. Fourth spot went to Dan Sikes, Jr., of Ponte Vedra, Fla., with a final round of 70 for 281.

Bill Collins of Grossinger's, N.Y. co-leader with Palmer and Floyd at 209 going into the final round, lost his putting touca and took 273 for 282. Collins failed to get a birdie on his last round.

TIED WITH PLAYER

At 282 he was tied with Gary Player of South Africa, Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, Jay Hebert of Lafayette, La., Calif.

Palmer won $4,000, Floyd $3,300 and Sikes $2,900.

The five tied for fifth place collected $2,080 each.

Nagle shot a three-under-par 35 on the front nine of his final round and refused to crack under pressure. He played carefully but not over-cautiously, seemingly realizing he had the title won simply by steady play from there on.

ARNOLD PALMER
Comes Second

He missed par only once. At the par-four 17th he missed the green with his second shot, the only green he missed all day. He chipped up and missed a six-foot putt.

NEVER IN LEAD

Nagle was never in the lead at any time during the tournament until the final day. He had rounds of 73-71-66-67.

The new champion plays only part time on the tour, usually 15 or so tournaments but has stayed on longer this year. His best finish previously was a second-place tie in the Colonial at Fort Worth in 1961.

He won the British open in 1960 and has won four times in the Australia PGA. He has four children, and in his home country owns race horses.

"I had two of the best fishing rounds here at Pinegrove I ever put together," he said. "I'm not very spectacular. My second shots and putting are my strong points."

Nagle didn't get in a practice round at Pinegrove. He managed to get in a few holes Monday, following his arrival, but had to quit because of rain. He rested Tuesday and Wednesday.

He was playing ahead of Palmer and at one time was eight under par for the tournament while Palmer was five under, but Arnie weakened. Nagle said he didn't know how those behind him were faring until he reached the 12th hole.

NOT GOOD ENOUGH

Palmer's par 36 on the front nine wasn't good enough in the face of Nagle's play. Arnie had an easy birdie at the par-five fifth, but lost the stroke at the sixth when he three - putted from 10 feet. He came out of a trap nicely at the long seventh to get down for a birdie but the putting jinx hit him again at the ninth when he missed a two-footer.

Floyd was two under par on the front nine with 34, despite missing four greens.

Sikes started his final round with 211, two strokes away from the leaders and was still that close to Nagle and Floyd starting the final nine but took a one-over-par 36 coming home.

H. Carmichael captured the "President's Match" at Belvedere Golf and Winter Club over the weekend with 10 points in the last section of the three stage match.

E. Buchanan was runner-up.
