Mecca Ointment will do it. If you suffer from unsightly facial eruptions—try this. Each night rub Mecca ointment into the affected parts—then wash Mecca on an old, clean handkerchief and apply to the face before going to bed. The next morning wash the face with Mecca. The final action of Mecca will bring out the poison and at the same time the skin tissues will absorb the healing, restorative properties of Mecca. Mecca ointment "puts a new complexion" on your trouble.

Case Adjudged
Until Today

Just after the Charlottetown railroad crossing collision which brought death to Mrs. Mary Johnson, Mr. Russell Abbott, her companion in the automobile which was wrecked by a yard locomotive, had declared he was driving the car when the crash occurred. Three witnesses testified yesterday as Abbott's preliminary hearing on a charge of manslaughter continued.

Witnesses at the hearing yesterday were Russell H. Campbell and Henry D. Douglas, trainmen; C. Clark Gratto, C.N.R. electrical sign maintainer; Police Officers Cyrus Jay and Ben McEachern, and an onlooker Hilton McNeill.

None of the persons who gave testimony had seen the collision. Douglas told the hearing he had run to the rear of the backing locomotive after the collision and had seen Abbott climbing out of the wrecked automobile. Abbott did not appear to be hurt and he told Douglas a woman lay in the wreck, the witness said.

Trainman Campbell had also run from the pilot of the locomotive where he was standing when the crash occurred to the rear of the yard train. Climbing from the automobile Abbott had told him he was not hurt, he said. The witness told the court he saw Mrs. Johnson struggling beneath the wrecked automobile. He had telephoned for the police.

Mr. Gratto testified he had just inspected the signal light at Gratto Street crossing where the fatal accident occurred. Both signal light and bell were in perfect working order when he inspected them, the witness stated. He considered that they were in working order the night of the accident.

Other witnesses stated that Abbott had said just after the collision that he did not know how it had happened. He was perfectly sober, they told the hearing.

The court adjourned until today.

The members of the Chorus, in the quaint but beautiful and colorful French-Canadian peasant costumes of a century ago, were attractively picturesque in their clever interpretation of their respective roles. The numbers "Alouette", "En Roulant ma Boule" and "Rosa" by the chorus were cleverly rendered, not only speaking well for the talent of the young ladies but being distinctly creditable to Mrs. Miller's careful teaching. A most noteworthy feature was a group of recitations selected from the works of the late Dr. Drummond and her skilful handling of the dialect was especially appreciated. Miss Enid Morson very capably accompanied on the piano. The entertainment closed with the National Anthem.

Board Meets

The Prince Edward Island Missionary Board of the Churches of Christ met in a schoolroom of the Central Christian Church yesterday afternoon.

A full report was given by the Secretary Evangelist, Rev. George W. Titus, of the work done by him during the past eight months. Five meetings were held resulting in nearly 100 accessions to the church were reported in different parts of the field, and the church at Tiverton, N. S., was completely re-organized, the evangelist reported.

Rev. Mr. Titus is now to give four continuous months of service to the churches on the Island where evangelistic meetings are to be arranged. In the meantime he will supply for the Church in Charlottetown. An exchange has been arranged for next Sunday when Rev. Mr. Titus will preach in Summerside and Rev. C. Watterworth will occupy the pulpit in the Central Christian Church, Charlottetown.

Tentative plans for aggressive work among the Island Churches were discussed at the meeting. Arrangements will soon be made for the Young People's camp at Brudenell. Plans have also been laid for the annual convention of the Churches of Christ which will be held this year in Charlottetown in August.

opposition with political experience or more than ordinary debating ability and his ready repartee and aggressiveness won for him the titles of the "Bonny Fighter" and the "War Horse of Antigonish."

He was characterized by his chief opponent, Premier Rhodes, as "one who never allowed political differences to disturb the cordial personal relations and amenities which should exist between public men."

During the campaign of 1928 Mr. Chisholm's persuasiveness was widely credited with being the chief factor in cutting the Conservative majority from 37 to three. In it he won his seventh consecutive victory in Antigonish County.

In the last provincial election, the constituency was given a single seat representation through a redistribution measure passed by the Conservative administration and Mr. Chisholm retired. When Hon. William Duff was appointed to the Senate a month ago, William Chisholm's name was among the first mentioned for the honor, but ill-health precluded his acceptance.

He is survived by his wife and two sons and two daughters, Duncan, attending Dalhousie University at Halifax, John, Isabella and Anna May at home.

since his illness began.

Thereupon he dismissed the doctors and summoned Premier Aly Maher Pasha, who had appointed lieutenant-general of the realm.

The cabinet, together with Sir Miles Lampson, British High Commissioner to Egypt, convened shortly after the King's death to draw up the terms of a proclamation dealing with the problem of the succession government. The Crown Prince was expected to rule under a regency until his 18th year.

Informed sources said the regency would probably consist of former Premier Tewfik Nassim Pasha, Premier Aly Maher Pasha, Prince Mohammed Aly Fahky Pasha, Egyptian Minister to France, and the King's daughters.

Faou I, King of Egypt, was born at the palace of Ghiza on March 26, 1868, the youngest son of the Khedive Ismail Pasha. After his father's demise, Prince Ahmed Faou, as he then was, went to Italy, where his youth was spent. He returned to Egypt in the 'nineties and was appointed aide-de-camp to the Khedive, Abbas Hilmi. He found outlet for his energies by presiding over charitable and educational institutions and was largely responsible for the foundation of the Egyptian university of which he became president.

In 1917 his elder brother the Sultan Kiamel died, and as the latter's son, Prince Kemal of Din, renounced the rights of succession, Prince Faou became Sultan. After

John I. McFarland had talked for over a year about squeezing the shorts but had never done it, Mr. Murray said. He agreed there had been more options than there were visible supply of wheat in Canada.

Mr. McFarland had declined to make the shorts settle but had allowed them to transfer their options to later months.

T. Donnelly (Lib. Wood Mountain) said the chief reason for the investigation was the charges of Conservative Leader Bennett that the shorts were being protected. Mr. Bennett asserted he was prepared to stand by what he had said in the House of Commons respecting the protection given the shorts at the time the announcement of the minimum price for Argentine wheat sent the market up early in December.

OTTAWA, April 28—A protest against federal funds being used for farm rehabilitation work in the dried-out sections of the Prairies, was made in the House of Commons today by T. L. Church (Cons. Toronto-Broadview). If the money must be voted, he wanted equal treatment for Ontario and Quebec.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said the work was started by the Bennett government on a five year program. All he did was cut the appropriation from $1,000,000 to $750,000.

"I admit the farmers of the Prairies are suffering but they are no worse than the farmers of Ontario," the Toronto member said. He believed the money should be "bled by the provinces and not by the Dominion."

Weep not for him: in his spring-time he flew
To that land where the wings of the soul are unfurled;
And now, like a star beyond evening's cold dew,
Looks radiantly down on the tears of this world.

The shadow of gloom was cast learned of the death of Claire over the community when it was Wight youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wight, Sturgeon. The deceased was in his seventeenth year and by a pathetic coincidence his birthday was a week from his death.

About two years ago he contracted rheumatic fever and although he had not fully recovered, his friends and neighbors were confident that the summer months would bring him back to his former robust health, but God willed otherwise and despite medical skill, the kind and loving care of his parents brothers and sisters who spared no time or means to comfort and cheer him, the pure and spotless spirit was taken to Him that giveth it. His illness was cheerfully borne in loving resignation to God's holy will. He was an intelligent pupil, with a kind and pleasing manner, which won for him the esteem and respect of his teachers and classmates. At home he was a general favorite in the family circle and among his young associates who were ever thoughtful of him during his illness. Truly appreciable are the words of the poet, "None knew Three but to love Thee," none named Thee but to praise Thee."

His unexpected death in the flower of his youth is a great blow to the fond hopes and aspirations of those by whom he was dearly held. It would seem however, that his life was not decreed to be spent amid the confusion and the sorrow of this earthly sphere. He is gone we feel sure to a better and happier land, from where no doubt, he still communes to his loved ones that remain.

Besides his grief-stricken parents he leaves to mourn the following brothers and sisters; Mary, Mrs. Joseph Sinnott, Morell; Emmett of Calgary, who arrived home some days later to comfort and console his parents; Josephine, Toward and Patricia at home.

His funeral to St. Paul's Church on Saturday, March 14th was largely attended, notwithstanding the unfavorable condition of the roads. A High Mass of Requiem was chanted by the pastor, Rev. Father McCabe, who also administered the last sacrament. The pall bearers were Messrs. Harold Jamieson, Arch Wight, Aloysius MacDonald, Milton Reynolds, Howard Jamieson and Raymond Condon. Calling all Brownies! Brownies of the three Charlottetown Packs are reminded to be at St. Paul's Parish Hall at 8.45 o'clock on Thursday for the Revel, which is a joyous get-together. Singing, games, story-telling, will be part of the fairland programme. A good time is in store for all Brownies, so please be there with a Brownie Smile and bring your parents and friends. The Revel will begin at 7 o'clock.

1ST CHTOWN BROWNIE PACK

This Pack met on Friday evening and arrangements were made for the Revel. The Pack will meet as usual next Friday at its Headquarters, St. Peter's Cathedral Hall.

2ND CHTOWN COMPANY

The Guides of the 2nd Charlottetown extend best wishes to the new Brownie Pack which has been organized in connection with the 4th Charlottetown Guide Company. We are also very pleased to hear that plans for a new Guide Company in Charlottetown under the leadership of Miss MacAler and Miss Hughes, are well under way. These two young ladies were our welcome visitors at last Friday's meeting.

Surprise inspection was taken last Friday for posture and several girls were found who will need to show improvement before the Court of Honour will pass them on this part of their second class test. Discussion of these Guides are nearly followed in which each patrol gave its opinion of the importance of good posture. A lively game of dodge ball was then enjoyed by all.

Groups of tenderfoot Guides were helped with knotting and first aid by the Company's two Lieutenants and a class of would-be First Class Guides was taken by the Captain. Several of these Guides are nearly through these tests and the question is now who will be our First Class Guide?

Church said, "when Ontario and Quebec will have to find out what their place is in Confederation. They must find out if these two provinces, paying 80 per cent of the taxes, are to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for the other provinces."

The minister said the federal authorities were working in co-operation with the provinces and the work was proving successful.

The provinces had been asked to take a livelier interest in the conservation works. Mr. Gardiner told Conservative leader Bennett. It was hoped eventually the work would be taken over by the provinces but at the present they would not pay for them. The general rehabilitation committee, established by the Bennett legislation, still functioned and could be assembled if necessary.

The House, considering special supplementary estimates at the time, passed two votes. The first totalling $448,000 for water development projects and experimental work. The second vote was for $288,389 for water conservation works in Western Canada.

John I. McFarland had talked for over a year about squeezing the shorts but had never done it, Mr. Murray said. He agreed there had been more options than there were visible supply of wheat in Canada.

Mr. McFarland had declined to make the shorts settle but had allowed them to transfer their options to later months.

T. Donnelly (Lib. Wood Mountain) said the chief reason for the investigation was the charges of Conservative Leader Bennett that the shorts were being protected. Mr. Bennett asserted he was prepared to stand by what he had said in the House of Commons respecting the protection given the shorts at the time the announcement of the minimum price for Argentine wheat sent the market up early in December.

MR. CHURCH PROTESTS

OTTAWA, April 28—A protest against federal funds being used for farm rehabilitation work in the dried-out sections of the Prairies, was made in the House of Commons today by T. L. Church (Cons. Toronto-Broadview). If the money must be voted, he wanted equal treatment for Ontario and Quebec.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said the work was started by the Bennett government on a five year program. All he did was cut the appropriation from $1,000,000 to $750,000.

"I admit the farmers of the Prairies are suffering but they are no worse than the farmers of Ontario," the Toronto member said. He believed the money should be "bled by the provinces and not by the Dominion."

"The time is coming," Mr.

The Revel will begin at 7 o'clock.

1ST CHTOWN BROWNIE PACK

This Pack met on Friday evening and arrangements were made for the Revel. The Pack will meet as usual next Friday at its Headquarters, St. Peter's Cathedral Hall.

2ND CHTOWN COMPANY

The Guides of the 2nd Charlottetown extend best wishes to the new Brownie Pack which has been organized in connection with the 4th Charlottetown Guide Company. We are also very pleased to hear that plans for a new Guide Company in Charlottetown under the leadership of Miss MacAler and Miss Hughes, are well under way. These two young ladies were our welcome visitors at last Friday's meeting.

Surprise inspection was taken last Friday for posture and several girls were found who will need to show improvement before the Court of Honour will pass them on this part of their second class test. Discussion of these Guides are nearly followed in which each patrol gave its opinion of the importance of good posture. A lively game of dodge ball was then enjoyed by all.

Groups of tenderfoot Guides were helped with knotting and first aid by the Company's two Lieutenants and a class of would-be First Class Guides was taken by the Captain. Several of these Guides are nearly through these tests and the question is now who will be our First Class Guide?

Church said, "when Ontario and Quebec will have to find out what their place is in Confederation. They must find out if these two provinces, paying 80 per cent of the taxes, are to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for the other provinces."

The minister said the federal authorities were working in co-operation with the provinces and the work was proving successful.

The provinces had been asked to take a livelier interest in the conservation works. Mr. Gardiner told Conservative leader Bennett. It was hoped eventually the work would be taken over by the provinces but at the present they would not pay for them. The general rehabilitation committee, established by the Bennett legislation, still functioned and could be assembled if necessary.

The House, considering special supplementary estimates at the time, passed two votes. The first totalling $448,000 for water development projects and experimental work. The second vote was for $288,389 for water conservation works in Western Canada.
