Drew Says

give the government supreme authority to take over all hydro-electric development, control all highways, regulate transportation and affect the daily life of every Canadian if the government declares an emergency.

The government also could assume, by order-in-council, all the rights of private property and civil liberties reserved under the constitution to the provincial and municipal governments.

The Emergency Powers Act, originally passed in 1951 and extended for a year in 1952, is due to expire May 31. The government seeks its extension to May 31, 1954.

Says Renewal Necessary

Justice Minister Garson said renewal of the act is necessary because of "an emergency of apprehended war" faces Canada. If the act were not extended the government would be left with even wider powers under the War Measures Act.

Those who urged the upholding of civil and parliamentary rights and the curbing of government executive powers could not help but support renewal of the act where executive powers were specifically curbed.

Other Speakers

Spokesmen for all groups entered the debate before the vote to criticize the measure.

A. H. Jeffery (L-London) said he does not approve of the Emergency Powers Act under present conditions, but would not like to see any government forced to invoke the War Measures Act.

Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton) said the emergency in Canada was "largely of the government's own making" because of its taxation policies.

Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) said the act was unnecessary since Parliament could be called at any time within 48 hours to pass any emergency legislation that was needed.

"This kind of law would lead any government to inefficiency and carelessness."

E. G. Hansell (SC-Macleod) said Parliament is being asked to take the power of the people and "place it in the hands of 18 or 20 men who were not elected as a government." What was needed was legislation to strengthen the power of the people, not to strengthen the power of the executive.

the income tax bracket. A man making $2,000 a year would get a $1 reduction for the last six months of this year and $2 for a full year.

When the people realized just what was in the budget for most of them they wouldn't be fooled, Mr. Macdonnell said there was evidence of "outrageous waste and extravagance" in government operation. The Defence Department was the "sinkhole of government waste and extravagance." Yet the government refused an independent investigation and they could have no other reason than a fear of what might be disclosed.

No Sales Tax Cut

He said that on "the evidence of waste and extravagance" it is reasonable to say that the amount of savings that could be made would go into the scores and perhaps into the hundreds of millions of dollars."

The Minister was "still obstinate" about reducing the sales tax. Cuts could have been made there if it were not for the "waste and extravagance that prevails."

Anglo-Egyptian Misunderstanding Reported Cleared

By HAIG NICHOLSON

CAIRO, (Reuters)—An Egyptian spokesman says that Britain and Egypt have cleared up their "misunderstanding" on whether the Sudan will have the right to join the Commonwealth after it becomes independent.

His announcement Thursday cleared the air for talks on British evacuation of the Suez canal zone due to begin soone Egypt's request for a canal zone conference will be put forward next week.

The Foreign Ministry's statement on the Sudan did not explain how Britain and Egypt had settled their differences, which most observers regarded as academic.

It paralleled a similar announcement in London by the Foreign Office that "no misunderstanding between the two governments remains . . . to be resolved."

Abbott Gives

eminence was not likely to obscure entirely another silence in Mr Abbott's flood of words.

Election Hint?

He didn't say a word about an election, but Canadians could be forgiven for suspecting that the prospects of voting this 1953 were at least a silent partner in the provocations for their good fortune.

The income-tax cut, Mr. Abbott estimated, will chop $87,000,000 off federal revenues and leave that much more in Canadian pocketbooks in 1953. It would cut $151,000,000 off in 1954 compared to what Canadians would pay if existing tax schedules continued. It would slash his revenues in the 1953-54 fiscal year starting April 1 by $100,000,000.

Modest Sunshine

It was a modest return to sunshine, shadowed by the wait until July 1. Its colleagues in comfort for the average person were not particularly numerous or distinguished. For cigaret smokers there was a four-cent cut on 20 cigarets, offering the prospect of 35 cent packages. The stamp tax on cheques, money orders and similar documents will go, removing a nuisance from the Canadian way of life.

The $2.50 radio licence will vanish and be made up out of general revenues.

But over the great sweep of commodities — stoves, chairs, cars, boots and shoes and chewing gum—there was no tax relief. He'd like to do it, said Mr. Abbott, but he didn't have the elbow room.

No Developments In Quebec Fire Case

MONTREAL, (CP)—Quebec Provincial Police said Thursday they have been unable to determine who made two telephone calls to police indicating the possibility of arson in a fire at Lac Ste. Marie, 60 miles north of Ottawa, which took four lives.

The telephone calls were received at the Hull and Gracefield offices of the police two days after the fire, in which Mrs. Germaine Lachapelle and her three children were burned to death. Mr. Lachapelle, a daughter and a nephew escaped.

Det.-Capt. Leopold Trottier, head of the Provincial Police homicide squad, said two officers are still investigating, but have been unable to locate the informants or determine the exact cause of the fire, attributed to an oil heater explosion.

Captain Trottier said a coroner's inquest jury ruled the deaths accidental but the inquest would be re-opened if necessary. He said one of the callers made statements which, if true, would indicate arson.

Uranium Discovery Sparks Mining Fever At North Bay

NORTH BAY, (CP)—This northern Ontario city, with a reported uranium discovery on its doorstep, has taken on the aspects of a frontier Hollywood.

Crews from four newsreel concerns roamed its streets Thursday. The camera men "shot" everything from the frenzied activity in the downtown stock broker's office to the graceful spire of the pro-Cathedral of the Assumption. They even ranged outside for panoramic views of the city of 18,000.

Discovery Reported

Prospectors continued to stake property along the shore of Lake Nipissing and inland. Five miles offshore, on the five-island Manitou group, a discovery of uranium, tantalum and columbian was reported earlier this week by Inspiration Mining and Development Company. Uranium is a source of atomic energy, while tantalum and columbium are rare metals used in making highly-tempered steels. The lakeshore has been staked almost solidly. Property owners are checking deeds to ascertain if they hold the mineral rights. Some district landowners have found they don't.

Mining Speculation

Since mining fever struck this railway and tourist centre three days ago, the brokerage office has been crowded, mostly with small investors who never before took an interest in stock buying. Clerks, stenographers and business men follow the fortunes of Inspiration stock.

The stock, which opened Monday at 75 cents a share on the Toronto stock exchange and reached $5 by the opening of trading Thursday, closed later at $4.10.

Uproar As St. Laurent Leaves During Speech

OTTAWA, (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent created a minor uproar among Progressive Conservative members Thursday when he left the Commons for the second time in a week during a speech by an Opposition member.

Donald Fleming (PC - Toronto Eglinton) was criticizing the Prime Minister for previously leaving during a critical speech by David Fulton (PC-Kamloops) about the government's emergency powers legislation.

The Prime Minister made no reply but a little later got up and began to walk out.

Mr. Fleming said he noticed the Prime Minister again was leaving. Mr. St. Laurent turned in the aisle and said he understood Mr. Fleming was going to speak for a full 40 minutes and "I think I can use 40 minutes to better advantage."

There was an uproar on the Opposition side while the Liberals banged their desks.

The Prime Minister then disappeared behind the lobby curtains.

Mr. Fleming, almost shouting to make himself heard above the uproar, said the Prime Minister's remark was "a confession that he is impatient with parliamentary processes . . . that he has no time to listen to criticism in this House."

Sydney Wins N.S. Junior Curling Title

MONTREAL, (CP)—J. M. Bonin, general manager of the Granby Co-operative Society, said Wednesday night trade between Canada and South America has increased from $35,000,000 to $350,000,000 since 1939.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Quebec Federated Co-operative Society, Mr. Bonin said it is vital for Canada to increase trade with South America. He was a member of the recent Canadian Government trade delegation to South America.

While trade has increased, Mr. Bonin said there is still great scope.

"Canada wants to balance the commercial trade between the two lands and if this is done prices will be cheaper."

"OUTCASTS OF POKER FLAT" GOLD RUSH TALE AT CAPITOL, SUMMERSIDE

—"The Outcasts of Poker Flat," Twentieth Century-Fox's new suspense western based on the classic Bret Harte story, opens today at the Capitol Theatre, Summerside, with Anne Baxter and Dale Robertson in the starring roles.

A sharply-etched story of humans in conflict with the elements of nature and the sadistic brutality of a half-crazed gunman, "The Outcasts of Poker Flat" is one of the most frequently anthologized classics of American literature and is recognized as the forerunner of the modern western. Millions of copies of the book have been sold and the tale has been tanslated in nine different languages.

Set in the raw, lusty, violent California gold rush era, the Harte story narrates the gripping account of four outcasts — a misguided girl, a professional gambler, the dance hall queen and the town derelict — who are expelled from the mining town of Poker Flat only to become the prisoners of a heartless murderer. Forced to rely on each other, they set about to conquer their adversary.
