

would be disposed of without any ministerial opposition, that the short session would pass without any great factious struggle; and the King and his Council, in framing the royal speech, confined it to the subject of the lamented death of the Duke of Orleans and the Regency question. Subsequent advice, however, urged that the approaching session should be strongly contested. On the 26th ult., the King opened the Chambers and delivered his speech, during which his emotion was so great that he found it impossible to give utterance to the words. The scene is described as having been affecting in the extreme; and it is reported that when he came to the word "consolation," he burst into a flood of tears and laid down the document. The speech, of course, contained nothing beyond stating the object of summoning the Chambers so much earlier than usual. The translation of the Duke of Orleans from Neuilly to Notre Dame, where they are to lie in state three days, took place on Saturday. The spectacle appears to have been one of deep interest. After the various military bodies which preceded the funeral car, the Archbishop of Paris and a large assemblage of the clergy followed on foot—an unusual feature in such a ceremonial; vast bodies of persons occupied the line of route, and conducted themselves with the greatest propriety. The number of spectators is supposed to have amounted to half a million.

It is somewhat singular, and serves to illustrate the extreme length to which party spirit prevails at present in France, that a dispute arose between M. Laffitte and Marshal Soubert at Neuilly, at the forming of the funeral of the Duke of Orleans. M. Laffitte, president of the Chamber of Deputies, by right of seniority, demanded to occupy the place of honor in holding the cords of the pall of the Duke of Orleans. Marshal Soubert and other ministers repudiated this claim, on the ground that no place had been allocated for its temporary constitution, no place had been finally adjusted by President. This quarrel of etiquette was finally adjusted by putting eight cords to the pall, and giving one on each side in equal rank to be borne by the President of the Chambers and Peers and Deputies. The Times states that some fears were entertained in Paris for the stability of the ministry, as M. Dufaure and his friends had declined to support it. A division took place in the Chamber of Deputies on Monday, on the question of the admission or non-admission of a Conservative deputy, when there were—181 for his admission, and 205 for the adjournment of the subject.

The treaty of commerce between Belgium and France has been concluded. Belgium linen is to be admitted into France on the same terms as before, whilst that of England is not to be imported into Belgium excepting on the payment of the duties demanded by the French tariff. Belgium is to reduce the duties on French wines one-third, whilst an alteration is to take place in the Navigation Act, which will give to French salt an advantage over that produced or manufactured in England. The ratification of this treaty is very unpopular in England, and the feeling generally is in favour of retaliatory measures being adopted, by the increase of duty on French produce, particularly on Wine and Brandy, or what would be tantamount to the same thing, a reduction of the duty on similar products from other countries.

The news from Spain continues to possess but little interest. We have advices from Madrid to the 26th ult. A misunderstanding is said to have arisen between the Regent and the Infante Don Francisco de Paula, which will compel the latter personage to quit Madrid without delay. The Madrid Gazette publishes the law sanctioned by the Regent, fixing the amount of the Spanish active army at 90,000 men, and the army of reserve at 40,000. In the Chamber of Deputies, it had been remarked by Senor Sanchez Silva, by way of apology for Senor Gonzales, that that minister was not in accord with the British Minister on the subject of the treaty. An appearance of rioting took place on the 5th in the neighbourhood of Valencia, by mobs patrolling the streets, exclaiming "Vive la Republica." It is stated that the Cortes would be dissolved, and a new one elected about the month of November.

HER MAJESTY'S SHIP MALABAR.—All the guns thrown overboard from this ship when she grounded on Cape Bear Reef, P. E. Island, about four years ago, have now been recovered, principally through the enterprise of Messrs. Thomas and J. D. B. Fraser, of this town, who imported a Diving Machine for the purpose. Last fall they succeeded, during very boisterous weather, in recovering 11 guns, and last Sunday evening, the William Sprague, Captain Lyons, arrived in port with 16 additional guns, and 10 tons of shot, recovered within the last fortnight. We understand that the success of the enterprise has been a good deal attributable to the intrepidity of Mr. Alexander Munro, of this town, who has been employed in diving for and slinging the guns. A large quantity of the copper chafed off the Malabar has also been recovered.—Observer.

TO THE LICENSED TEACHERS OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

GENTLEMEN:—Animated by a desire to exalt that much injured class of which I am a member, I take the liberty to address you a few remarks, hoping, at the same time, that you will take the subject matter of them into your most serious consideration. The late Elections are now at an end, and it is to be hoped that our new House of Assembly will take our present School Act into consideration, and endeavour to afford us, at least, a semblance of justice. Gentlemen, our profession (despised as it is) is second to but one in the World; and although many of its members are said to be unworthy of being classed with gentlemen, yet in what profession will we not find some black sheep? Among the Clergy?—The teachers, for honour, honesty, and a love of the Law?—Alas! daily experience shews the contrary. Among the Lawyers?—The teachers, for honour, honesty, and a love of the Law?—Alas! daily experience shews the contrary. Among the Clergy?—The teachers, for honour, honesty, and a love of the Law?—Alas! daily experience shews the contrary. Among the Lawyers?—The teachers, for honour, honesty, and a love of the Law?—Alas! daily experience shews the contrary.

This, however, is not what I intended to write about, when I began. What is the reason that the large (I will say it, despite the sneers of the ignorant and malicious), the talented, the useful and the influential body of licensed teachers of Prince Edward Island, does not deserve a Representative in the House of Assembly? They certainly never will get one until they ask for it. The Town and Royalty of Princetown, if I am rightly informed, contain about seventy electors, and return two Members to the House of Assembly. Are not Teachers as well deserving of a Representative there? The question admits of but one answer. Perhaps it may be said, there is no precedent for this. The Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, and, I think, some others, send each a Member to the House of Commons; and although the comparison is more like a contrast, yet the distance is not greater than that between the House of Commons and our House of Assembly.

Gentlemen, O'Connell's advice to the people of Ireland, when he wishes to carry a favourite measure, is, "Agitate! Agitate!" If you seriously and sincerely wish to effect this great end, for your great it undoubtedly is, do not slumber. Turn it over in your minds—consult with one another about it—talk to your lay neighbours upon the subject; and as I have merely thrown out suggestions, I hope that some of you, more competent than myself, will take up your pens and advocate your own cause. If I perceive that this letter has any effect, perhaps you may hear from me again.

Your friend and brother,
A LICENSED TEACHER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE COLONIAL HERALD.

Sir, A most cruel practice, I regret to say, prevails in this town, which, from the comparative insignificance of the unfortunate objects upon which it is exercised, appears to have hitherto attracted but little of the public attention; otherwise it would, doubtless, have met with that deprecation which it deserves on the part of every feeling individual. I refer, Mr. Editor, to the custom of plucking live geese, for the purpose of selling their feathers, which their owners appear to regard as a source of legitimate profit. With the importance or non-importance of the animal—in itself—I have naught to do, if it be not to condemn in stronger terms such an act of cruelty, which appears to be but too frequent in the place. That any man, for the sake of the paltry gain derivable from such a source, should thus dare to insult one of the best feelings of our nature—humanity towards the brute creation—cannot be too much wondered at; and that such a practice should pass unpunished, would appear to me a matter of surprise, unless upon the solution suggested. Bearing in mind the principle that "the righteous man regardeth the life of his beast," our laws authorize the punishment of any who shall be convicted of cruelty towards dumb creatures. Why, then, should this practice—and it is a growing one—be allowed to continue? I would fain hope, Mr. Editor, that for the credit of this my all but native town a stop may soon be put to it—that our feelings may no longer be offended at the sight in our streets of these poor harmless creatures, shorn of their plumage, to glut the avaricious cupidity of their unprincipled owners, from whose heads, if one hair were extracted for each feather, I humbly think, we should soon see an end of the practice.

Yours, &c.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE COLONIAL HERALD.

Sir; A short residence in this delightful country has made me acquainted with one of the public characters of Charlottetown. You may often hear his voice, in strains melodious (?), sounding through the principal streets, accompanied by expressions of true English loyalty. But what mostly deserves notice is his suitability, in toto (?), for the situation he fills. What pleasant (?) sounds meet the ear, when some little urchin repeats his expression of importance to the subject in hand! Is he not well (?) calculated to assist in forming first principles in the infant mind!

Surely all parents residing in Town must feel indebted for his great ability and tact in assisting them "to teach the young idea how to shoot!" As he fills an important office (rightly considered), I should be glad to know in whose service he is employed. Perhaps a recommendation from the Ladies of Charlottetown would be likely to get him promoted!

AN OBSERVER.

TEMPERANCE PROCESSION.—On Monday last, the Roman Catholic Temperance Society, to the number of about a thousand persons, of both sexes, and of all ages, after High Mass and a Sermon by the Rev. Mr. Reynolds, in the Roman Catholic Chapel, walked in procession through the principal streets of this town, presenting a very novel and pleasing appearance. The procession was attended by Bands of music, playing appropriate airs, and displayed along the entire line a variety of beautiful banners, &c. suitable to the occasion, the foremost of which represented, we believe, the great Apostle of Temperance, Father Mathew, as large as life. After the procession, the members of the Society, together with a number of other individuals, partook of a lunch, which had been prepared in a garden adjoining the Chapel premises, and which was tastefully decorated for the occasion—after which the party dispersed, well pleased with the proceedings of the day.

THE ST. GEORGE.—The beautiful Steamer St. George made her first trip to Pictou on Wednesday morning last, having on board an overflow of passengers. The Directors of the Company and their families, with other principal inhabitants of Charlottetown, to the number of sixty, accompanied by a numerous Amateur Band, took a passage in her. The St. George left Charlottetown at half-past Nine o'clock, amidst the cheers of a large concourse of spectators, who had assembled to witness her departure, and arrived at Pictou at 3, having been 5 1/2 hours from wharf to wharf, and proving herself in every respect worthy of the high character which report gave her for comfort, superior accommodation and efficiency. Her reception at Pictou was exceedingly creditable to the liberality and good feeling of the inhabitants. Salutes were fired from different positions commanding the River, as she approached the Town, while crowds of people welcomed her with their cheers as she passed up to her destination, the Band playing the whole time with great taste and execution several appropriate airs.

The St. George returned on Thursday evening with the first August Mail, the party expressing themselves highly delighted with their trip, for which the weather proved most propitious. We hope that this auspicious commencement will augur favorably for the future prosperity of the Boat; and while the undertaking cannot fail to exercise an advantageous influence upon the future prospects of these Colonies, we trust that the enterprising Shareholders will be amply remunerated for the extensive outlay they have made for the public good.

The St. George sailed, on her second trip for Pictou, about half-past seven o'clock this morning. After proceeding some distance, it was discovered that the Mail had been left behind. Intimation thereof was immediately communicated to the Garrison, when several guns were fired, and a signal hoisted; but by this time the Steamer was at least two miles distant. She, however, proceeded on her way without seeming to take any notice of the firing, and was soon outside of the heads. The Schooner Margaret was immediately dispatched with the mail.

MOFFAT'S

VEGETABLE LIFE PILLS AND PHENIX BITTERS.

THESE superlative Family Medicines have long since acquired an established reputation for direct and invariable efficacy in all the prevalent and ordinary diseases, as well as in many others of a peculiar and aggravated character. Their virtues are proved by the voluntary testimonials of the persons they have cured, and who accompany their certificates with their names and places of residence. These certificates now amount to thousands, being hundreds to each particular kind of disease. They embrace the most frightful and inveterate cases of Scrofula, Piles, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Bilious and Liver affections, acute and chronic Rheumatism, Asthma, Bronchitis, Scrofula as well as Mucous Consumption, habitual Costiveness, Worms, Stomach and Bowel complaints of all kinds, headache, giddiness, nervous debility, eruptive diseases, and the clouded, sallow, unhealthy appearance of the skin, arising from various causes of ill health, Fever and Ague of every variety, settled pains in the side, back, organs and limbs, humors, ulcers, foul breath and inward fever, night sweats, and general weakness and loss of appetite, the rumps, swollen face and gums, affections of the bladder, kidney, spleen and many other maladies which cannot be here enumerated. The certificates of cure in all these diseases are immense in number, and clear, direct and explicit in description, and putable as they do, in every case, from the persons cured, they are indisputable and of conclusive authority. These inestimable medicines should therefore be kept by every family and grown person in the Union, as they will be found to be not only the best remedies for disease, but also its most certain preventatives, and the surest renovators of sound, cheerful and elastic health. They are singularly mild, never occasion even the operation, and though perfectly effectual, never allow the use of coarse temporary purgatives and nausea which always follow the use of coarse drastic purges and the use of calomel. Prepared wholesale and retail by Dr. Wm. B. Moffat, 375 Broadway, New York. For sale also by the agents—NEW YORK, May 30. COOPER & BREMNER.
