

Maritime United Church Men Plan Expanded Activities

A complete streamlining of Men's work which will co-ordinate activities from the conference level right down to the individual men's club was announced by the Secretary of the Board of Men, Ralph C. Young, speaking to a conference of Key laymen of the Maritime United Church Men at Talamagouche, N.S. over the weekend.

A uniform program, flexible enough to fit the needs of all clubs has been drawn up in the form of a Men's Work manual and will henceforth be used. Mr. Young explained that the manual has been compiled after two or more years of research.

He predicted that the new program would give an even greater impetus to the lay movement which has shown outstanding growth during the last five years.

The meeting was chaired by Allison MacKinnon, Charlottetown President of Maritime United Church Men. Presbyteries reporting were: Sydney Inverness, Guysboro, Halifax, Windsor, Pic-

Delayed Arrest Is Ineffective

An application for a writ of Habeas Corpus on behalf of Philip Gallant, mechanic of Charlottetown, was granted by Justice Mark R. MacGuigan Saturday.

Gallant was arrested last Wednesday and was committed to three months in the Queens County Jail for violation of the Temperance Act, on a warrant of commitment dated March 3, 1949.

After reviewing the case, Justice MacGuigan discharged the accused stating that the effect of the commitment had been exhausted by the length of time which had elapsed since the issuing of the warrant.

Mr. Lester P. O'Donnell appeared for the accused. Mr. J. P. Nicholson appeared for the Crown.

Re-Elected As President

Mrs. Eugene Cullen was re-elected President of Rochford Square Home and School Association at the annual meeting held in the school auditorium on Wednesday evening, May 2.

Other officers elected were Mrs. J. T. Place Vice-President, Mrs. Eileen Hynes, Secretary, Mr. Jack Duffy, convener of the Membership committee, and Mrs. Louis Doyle, Convener of Social committee.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Eugene Cullen who reviewed the activities of the association during the past year, and thanked its members of the executive and the parents for their cooperation in making the term a most satisfactory one.

Correspondence was read from the Provincial Home and School Association and plans were made to send five delegates to represent our Association at Birchwood High School on May 22.

On motion of Mr. Place and seconded by Mrs. C. R. McQuaid the sum of $20.00 was voted for the Provincial Home and School Association General Fund.

The audience enjoyed a very interesting and instructive talk by Sister Mary Peter, C.S.M., on Child Guidance. The meeting closed with The Queen after which lunch was served.

LONG LIVES

charges, he will still have to stand trial on a ninth accusation laid against him in England—for allegedly killing a Newcastle-on-Tyne cab driver last Dec. 8.

Numbers of the 2,500,000 Londoners who usually rely on the buses are finding the strike fun. Others are just enjoying a break in the old routine. And the inevitable eccentrics are busy devising preposterous ways of travelling to and from work—water scooters on the Thames, ancient bicycles and roller skates.

TAKE TO TRAINS
The strike has mainly hit short distance travellers around the centre of the capital. The bulk of London's commuting millions are coming in by train and subway from the suburbs and nearby towns.

RAYNHAM, Mass. (AP)—The death of Albert Roberts of Wareham, Mass., Thursday brought to three the number killed in the crash of two automobiles Thursday night. His wife, Adrienne, and Benjamin T. Hester, 40, of Boston, were killed in the crash.

Britain Fights To Keep Last Hold On Mainland Mid-East

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
LONDON (AP)— Britain is fighting to keep her last lonely mainland foothold in the Middle East.

This is the 119-year-old colony of Aden and a surrounding mosaic of 26 petty sultanates, sheikdoms and emirates living under British protection. The Aden protectorate lies on the southern shores of the Arabian peninsula.

Once Aden was a sort of imperial coal-shed serving British merchantmen and men-o-war that sailed to India and beyond.

Today it is the only foothold left in Arabia from which Britain can defend its vast Persian Gulf oil supplies.

And so who touches Aden touches Britain. President Nasser of the United Arab Republic knows this. He also knows Britain's vast oil interests could prop up the shaky finances of the state he leads.

The masters of the Kremlin, now entertaining Nasser on a state visit, have been waiting and watching. By hitching their policy to Arab nationalism they hope to oust Western influence from the Middle East.

Last March the kingdom of Yemen, the northern neighbor of the Aden protectorate joined Nasser's U.A.R. For years Yemen has laid claim to the whole of Aden and has supported her claims with desultory attacks on the territory.

Yemen irregulars and tribal warriors are being organized under Egyptian Field Marshal Amer. Red arms are flowing into this 75,000-square-mile kingdom.

An undeclared war grinds on in the shifting desert sands. Turbaned tribesmen loyal to Imam (king) Ahmed of Yemen are stepping up the tempo of their shooting - match with Aden levies and British soldiers.

Britain claims East European experts in Yemen are building harbor works, roads, airstrips, even a naval base.

At the same time U.A.R. political agents are busy within the Aden protectorate, Britain charges, offering guns, money and promises of power if the sultans, sheikhs and emirs will lower the Union Jack for the flag of the U.A.R.

Britain has rushed troops into the territory to double the British contingent to about 2,000 men. Jet fighters patrol daily along the borders. A British cruiser lies at anchor outside port Aden.

Underworld Hucksters Do Brisk Trade As Trial Nears

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Underworld hucksters carried on a brisk trade in phony souvenirs Sunday as this sensation - struck city prepared for the opening today of one of the biggest murder trials in British history.

Smooth-talking confidence men found ready takers for pictures, specimens of handwriting and locks of hair—all said to come from the jail cell where Peter Anthony Manuel awaits trial for the murder of eight persons.

Teen-aged girls, housewives and crime - struck juveniles also shelled out up to £3 for ball-point pens Manuel was said to have used in helping his defence lawyers prepare notes for the trial.

Most of the pedlars claimed they have just been released from Barlinnie prison and to "know Peter well."

The trial is expected to last a month or more.

250 WITNESSES
The prosecution is expected to call some 250 witnesses to back its argument that 31-year-old Manuel murdered three teen-aged girls, three women, a man and a boy of 11 between 1955 and his arrest on Jan. 14. The defence expected to summon some 50 witnesses.

The prosecution charges that Manuel began a wave of murders on Dec. 31, 1955 when he battered to death 17-year-old Anne Kneilands on her way to a dance. Other victims, the prosecution says, include Isabelle Cooke, 27, who disappeared last Dec. 28 on her way to a party. Her body was found buried in a field near her home 18 days later.

The last killings were early New Year's Day this year when Peter Smart, 45; his wife, Doris, and their son, Michael, 11, were shot to death while asleep in their bungalow.

On Sept. 17, 1956, when two women and a 16-year-old girl were killed in their beds.

WITH A ROLLEI FROM TAYLORS

These, as well as most of their photographic needs, were supplied by the Camera Dept. of Taylors Jewellers, Ltd., P.E.I. distributors for Rolleicord Rolleiflex cameras.

Truly a Rolleiflex or Rolleicord will photograph almost anything under the sun, and quite a few things even without sun. Yet it brings back more successful pictures than any other type of camera. In exhibitions and competitions all over the world Rolleiflex pictures again and again carry off the largest proportion of prize-winning pictures.

Taylors have a special display of Rolleiflex's this week and invite you to drop in and see them. You'll be interested in knowing that the prices of most models have been lowered.

Some Londoners Rather Enjoy The Bus Strike
LONDON (CP) — "The funny thing about this bus strike," mused Janet Caldwell, a pretty London stenographer, "is that I like it."

"Walking is doing wonderful things for my figure. I'm getting to work earlier than usual. Everyone seems friendlier. Do we really need to have the buses back?"

Something of the old devil-may-care spirit of the wartime blitz has infected Londoners after a week of doing without the big, red double-deckers that normally jam the streets of the capital.

It may sound crazy, but London is an outwardly gayer place since 50,000 busmen went on strike for higher wages a week ago Sunday midnight and forced many city dwellers to do a bit of walking.

Numbers of the 2,500,000 Londoners who usually rely on the buses are finding the strike fun. Others are just enjoying a break in the old routine. And the inevitable eccentrics are busy devising preposterous ways of travelling to and from work—water scooters on the Thames, ancient bicycles and roller skates.
