MONEY FOR THE BOYS.—Boys can make pocket money and earn prizes by selling THE DAILY EXAMINER. Send the toys along.

BOSTON COMEDY COMPANY.—Mr. Webber's theatrical company give an entertainment at Eureka, N. S., this (Saturday) evening.

BOY WANTED.—Apprentice wanted in THE EXAMINER Job Department. Good chance for an intelligent boy with fair education.

CANADIAN PATRIOTIC FUND.—Subscriptions towards this fund will be received at the Merchants' Bank of Halifax, and forwarded free of charge to the Deputy Minister of Finance.

GOSPEL MEETING.—Remember the Gospel meeting in Prowse's new block, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Strangers always welcome. Lesson, John 3-16 "For God so loved the World."

LARGE INSURANCE POLICY.—Mr. Geo. F. Fulford, proprietor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, has one policy of insurance on his life for $200,000, the largest single life policy in Canada. The premium was fully paid up in one payment, being $100,000.

TREASURY BOMB BLOWN DOWN.—The new Metropolitan Bank at Truro, built at a cost of $5,000, and the largest east of Montreal, was destroyed in the heavy gale of Sunday. It will cost $2,000 to repair it. —Moncton Times.

POULTRY MEETING.—A very successful meeting was held at Murray Harbor South, on Thursday evening. The attendance was good and great interest was taken in the proceedings. Mr. Gilbert's address was listened to with the closest attention. Speeches were also made by Messrs. McFarlane, Simpson and the chairman.

W. C. T. U.—At the temperance meeting in Zion Church on Tuesday evening, the 30th inst., Rev. J. J. Teardale will speak on Christian Citizenship. A silver collection will be taken, and the funds will be divided between the School for the Blind, Halifax, and the industrial work of the W. C. T. U.

SMALLPOX AT CAMPBELLTON.—The small pox excitement at Campbellton is not abating in the least. Some 18 houses are quarantined and business has been almost paralyzed. A war of extermination is likely to be commenced against dogs, in the effort to stamp out the disease. So far only one really bad case exists. —Moncton Times.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.—A sad accident happened at Upper Clifton, King's County, on Sunday, whereby Mrs. Pitt, an aged lady, lost her life. Her daughter-in-law had left the room where Mrs. Pitt was, but in a few minutes ran back, hearing a noise. A sight met her gaze never to be forgotten. In some way Mrs. Pitt's clothing had caught and was badly burned. The unfortunate woman died seven hours later.

CHANGE IN BUSINESS.—The grocery business of Grant & Co., on Queen Street, has been sold to R. F. Maddigan & Co., by whom it will be continued at the old stand. Mr. Maddigan has been in the employ of Grant & Co., for a good many years. He is a young man of excellent character and has many friends throughout the province who will no doubt do all in their power to promote his interests now that he has gone into business on his own account.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED.—The people in Upper Sackville are considerably excited over the case of the late Horatio Kinneer. Mr. Kinneer, a man in the neighborhood of seventy, died on the evening of Christmas Day very suddenly and under somewhat suspicious circumstances. Not long since his friends concluded that it would be well to have the matter investigated, and have the report sent away some of his internal organs analyzed for the purpose of ascertaining whether there are to be found any traces of poison.

A LARGE REWARD.—City Marshal Cameron has received notice that a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Emanuel H. Hershey, alias H. E. Henry, charged with the embezzlement of $65,000, public moneys, and with being a defaulter as Treasurer of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, U. S. A. Hershey is described as being 50 years of age, 5 feet 9 to 9 1/2 inches, heavy compactly built, robust and vigorous, walks rapidly with firm, strong step and swing of his body; weight 190 to 200 pounds, florid complexion, brown hair, dark brown mustache (which may be shaved off.) He is blind in the right eye, the eyeball being covered with a yellow-white opaque cartilage or ligament, eyelid of blind eye very slightly closed. He has always worn gold rimmed glasses. He was last seen in Philadelphia, December 24th, 1899. A reward of $1000 is offered for his capture.

The first day after a fire you can't coax a fireman away from the engine house, but the third day he goes a block away and within a week has forgotten all about his caution.

MSWAT'S TORTURE.

OR ONE CAN HAVE TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING.

The Horrible Story of a Sensitive Householder Who Lived on the Fat of the Land, but Could Not Properly Appreciate His Luck.

CHAPTER I.

"Lobelia," asked Mr. McSwat as he surveyed the enormous fowl that loomed up before him on the huge platter, "how much did this bird weigh—gross weight, I mean, feathers and all—as it came from its beautiful home in the country?"

"Twenty-seven and a half pounds," replied Mrs. McSwat. "The man said it was the biggest turkey he had sold this year."

After a few moments spent in a careful survey of the enemy, for the purpose of deciding the proper strategic point at which to begin the attack, he grasped his trusty weapons and sailed in.

CHAPTER II.

"I didn't order any meat for this meal, Billiger," said Mrs. McSwat as they sat down to dinner next day. "There is plenty of the turkey left."

"Is this the same fowl we had yesterday?" asked Mr. McSwat, surveying it critically, carving knife and fork in hand. "It looks larger than it did then."

CHAPTER III.

Saturday. Dinner hour in the McSwat mansion.

"How much did you say this majestic ruin weighed when in the pride of its full grown beauty, Lobelia?" said Billiger, making a gash on the left side of the turkey, hitherto untouched, and slicing off some of the white meat.

"Twenty-seven pounds and a half." "I had forgotten whether it was 27 or 37. Did you ever see a picture of an apyrnris, Lobelia?"

"No. What is it?" "It is a gigantic bird, of which some remarkably interesting fossil remains have been found. Its egg was several times as large as an ostrich's egg. The bird itself, I am happy to say, is now extinct—unless this is an apyrnris."

CHAPTER IV.

"The sermon this morning, Lobelia," observed Mr. McSwat, sitting down at the table Sunday afternoon and unfolding his napkin, "did not strike me as being in the preacher's happiest vein. What he said, though, about character being formed largely by the home life, with its quiet and refined influences—Oh, great Caesar, Lobelia! Is this that thundering old turkey again? Are we never going to have the last of it?"

"Now, you needn't make a fuss about that turkey, Billiger. It's nicely warmed over, and it will be just as good as ever. There's too much of it to throw away, and you know it as well as I do."

"Pardon me for asking the question again, Lobelia, but how much did you say it weighed in the raw?"

"Twenty-seven and one-half pounds. You ought to be able to remember it by this time."

CHAPTER V.

Early next morning, before anybody else in the house was stirring, Billiger McSwat slipped down stairs, took the remains of that turkey out of the ice-box and weighed them on the scales.

There still remained seven pounds and a half, including the skeleton. And the drumsticks, large, leathery and terrible, were yet untouched.

Thereupon Billiger McSwat, with a hunted look on his face, fled.

He took his dinner down town that day, and when he did return, at 11 p. m., he sneaked up stairs to bed.

THE END.

—Chicago Tribune.

Truly Polite.

Housewife—Clear out! I won't give you a thing!

Beggar (as a barrel organ strikes up)—Then, madam, may I beg you for the honor of a waltz at least?—Meggen-dorfers Blatter.

Rash Deduction.

"Poor thing!" exclaimed one young woman at the theater. "That girl is beautiful, but she is very deaf."

"How do you know?" "She has sat all through this French farce without blushing once."—Washington Star.
