

Hockey Player's Skeleton Found In Plane Wreckage Tobacco Planting Becomes General

Tobacco planting is fairly general in this province now as upwards of 20 farmers are seeding more than 300 acres for this year's production. It was largely last evening from David Peacock, who is in charge of the development for the provincial department of agriculture.

Actual acreage will depend on the number of plants that will be available before the planting season ends. Some of the tobacco producers lost a portion of the plants they were producing in their green houses and a few more had to be brought into the province anyway. Tobacco acreage listed in this story for individual farmers is approximate but it could run up to slightly more than 225 acres in all.

John Power, Greenfield, perhaps the island's youngest tobacco man, hopes to produce 20 acres this year. He now sows costally 13 to 14 acres last year.

A neighbour, Jim Ennis, produced seven acres last year and is back in business with perhaps a slightly larger acreage this year.

Don Nicholson, Upper Montague is going to grow 12 acres this year and Marcel Moyart, Upper Montague is aiming at 20 acres.

Albert Pauley, Ocean View is aiming at 15-18 acres and John McCabe, Iona and Tony Indevy, Summerville are each planting six to seven acres.

A Glen William neighbour told The Guardian that the Bohrens are aiming at up to 34 acres this year. Guy Gopos to plant 14 acres on the farm where he produced seven acres in 1961 and Max Be...

Star And Companion Disappeared In 1951

TORONTO (CP) — The skeletons of hockey star Bill Rallico and Dr. Henry Hudson were found Wednesday in an 11-year-old plane wreckage north of Cochrane, lands and forests minister J. W. Spence of Ontario.

Mr. Spence said members of his staff had identified the wreckage as the yellow Fairchild 24 position plane which disappeared with the two men aboard on a flight from Rupert House to Timmins Aug. 26, 1951.

Part of the plane's registration number—CFXT—was still visible.

Skeletons of the two men were found in the wreckage. A helicopter crew of the Ontario department of lands and forests, who spotted the glim of metal in scrubby wilderness, led searchers to the wreck about 45 air miles north of here.

K. Labor Party Wins From Tories

LONDON (Reuters) The ruling Conservative party's stock with voters took a fresh plunge in a by-election Wednesday when the opposition Labor party captured the parliamentary seat of Middleborough West, formerly held by a Conservative.

Labor won the election district with a margin of 2,270 votes in a field of five candidates.

Winning candidate Dr. Jeremy Bray led the field with 13,600 votes followed by Conservative candidate Bernard Goss with 12,300. The Labor candidate polled 9,220 votes and two independents each less than 200.

The Conservatives won the seat in the 1959 national election with a comfortable margin of more than 8,000 votes.

The verdict underlined the deepening of government by-election reverses during the last three months which has coincided with an increase of British voters' middle - of - the - road Liberalism.

HAVE STRONG HOPES

Liberals had not expected to win West Middleborough, but they have strong hopes of capturing another government election district — West Derbyshire — where another by-election is held Wednesday. Result of this vote will be announced today.

The main fear of government supporters is that the Liberals, heartened by recent successes — including the capture of the government stronghold of Crystal Palace in Kent and the near-capture of another seat at Blackpool — will have the outcome of the next general election with a big state of confidence.

Conservative supporters fear a large-scale Liberal intervention could, by splitting the pro-Liberal vote, result in a victory — or alternatively produce a stalemate between the two main parties with the Liberals in a balance - of - power position.
