It left the road went into a field and overturned. The driver was injured and was taken to hospital at O'Leary.

There is a sharp curve where the accident occurred. The regular coroner for the O'Leary district was away and Dr. W. E. Callaghan from Summerside was called. It was reported MacKenzie was not seriously injured. He was said to be suffering from abrasions and lacerations. His home is at the Brae.

Story Of Confusion Is Told By Woman In Kidnap Case

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Margaret Goede, 46, described by police as a disillusioned widow, left for Montreal Thursday to face a charge of kidnapping 2½-year-old Joel Reitman. Two Montreal detectives and a policeman accompanied her as she left the downtown Toronto police station where she was questioned for seven hours after her arrest Wednesday. Mrs. Goede told police she was testing her latest, three-month-old love interest when she left Toronto June 1 and began working for Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Reitman, son of millionaire dry goods chain store operator Sam Reitman, in Montreal. The German-born maid and waitress, who has worked for other prominent Canadian families, was charged with abducting Joel two weeks later and holding him 36 hours for $10,000 ransom. A woman left Joel with Ottawa taxi driver Edward Royer Monday saying she was going to do "a little shopping." She never returned. The boy had disappeared from his Montreal home Saturday night.

P. E. I. Premier Is Speaker At CMA Luncheon

HALIFAX, (CP) — Premier Matheson of Prince Edward Island said here Thursday that recent successes of the Atlantic Provinces can be attributed partly to annual meetings of the four premiers. Mr. Matheson was addressing a Prince Edward Island day luncheon of the Canadian Medical Association. He said the four premiers — two Liberals and two Progressive Conservatives, "get along very, very well together. We try to get together for our mutual benefit." Mr. Matheson did not mention the recent Atlantic Premiers' visit to Britain, but said later in an interview he was "very happy about our trip." The British press and public "seemed to pay us a lot of attention," he said. Mr. Matheson planned to attend a square dance Thursday night, sponsored by the P. E. I. Division of the CMA.

10 Downing St. Needs Overhaul

LONDON (Reuters) — The 10 Downing Street residence of British prime ministers is structurally unsound and a fire hazard, a government committee reported Thursday. The committee declared: "We have therefore reached the conclusion that the Downing Street houses need a thorough structural overhaul." The report said Prime Minister Macmillan and Chancellor of the Exchequer Derek Heathcoat Amory—who lives at number 11—should no longer use the buildings. Ten, 11 and 12 Downing Street are the only remaining houses in a square of private houses built in the late 17th century by the son of a London barrister, Sir George Downing.

30,000 Men Poised Ready For Trouble

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — This Mediterranean island Thursday night was packed with troops ready for trouble—here or in nearby Lebanon. Officially, the more than 30,000 troops—largest Cyprus concentration since the Anglo-French Suez intervention of 1956—were here to keep order in the event of fresh violence over the London government's new plan for the island's future announced Thursday.

But military experts spoke of a possible "double purpose" in the troop buildup. While the British government denied in London that the bolstering of its garrison here was in anticipation of possible intervention in revolt-torn Lebanon, the military experts pointed out the soldiers would be available to fly to Lebanon if the government there seeks Anglo-American military aid to end its civil war.

Military experts said that if and when Lebanon asked for help under a 1950 Tripartite Declaration and Britain decided to step in along with the United States and France, two plane-loads of paratroopers could be in the Lebanese capital of Beirut in an hour.

TWO POSSIBILITIES

Observers saw two possibilities under which Britain could intervene in Lebanon—as part of a United Nations force or under its obligations of the Tripartite Declaration in which Britain, the U.S. and France said they would take UN and other action against frontier violations.

Political quarters here said they believed that if and when Lebanon decided to invoke the declaration the British commitment for assistance would become unavoidable. Lebanon accuses the United Arab Republic of "massive interference" in its internal affairs in connection with the anti-government revolt.

Meanwhile, Governor Sir Hugh Foot urged the divided people of Cyprus to back Britain's new partnership plan for self-government.

He called it "the only one which can save Cyprus from disaster."

In a special broadcast, he said the plan gives Greek and Turkish Cypriots guarantees the rights of each community will be respected.

Foot declared the plan provides "a road which leads away from fear and despair." But he warned: "We shall not be deflected from it by violence or by any temporary setback or opposition."

Sales from Dominion Coal Company Limited and other Dosco colliery operations have been insufficient to dispose of the entire output. An estimated 1,400,000 tons of coal lie piled in Cape Breton.

NEW PLAN SEEKS END TO STRIFE

Almost on the eve of Britain's latest proposal to halt strife in Cyprus, clashes continued in Nicosia, the capital. Police and soldiers are pictured amid smoking ruins of Greek-owned property, with the destruction blamed on clashes between Turkish and Greek Cypriots.

Dosco Coal Miners In Cape Breton To Close Down For Five Weeks

SYDNEY (CP) — A Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation spokesman said Thursday company coal mines in Cape Breton will shut down for five weeks on a staggered schedule in an effort to reduce mounting coal surpluses.

H. C. M. Gordon, general manager of the subsidiary Dominion Coal Company, said the shutdowns would begin June 23 and end the week of Sept. 22.

Six collieries will close June 23. Glace Bay's big No. 26 and the old Sydney collieries will become idle a week later. Springhill's No. 2 mine, a mainland Dosco pit, will cease operations Aug. 18, the day company miners usually return to the mines after a two-week paid vacation which annually leaves the mines idle. The vacation period is in addition to the five-week shutdown order, making the overall period of closure in Cape Breton mines seven weeks.

The closing of the mines was foreshadowed in Montreal Tuesday by Allan C. MacDonald, chairman of the Dosco management committee and an executive vice-president of the parent A. V. Roe (Canada) Ltd.

Mr. MacDonald said it was necessary to curtail operations.

Sales from Dominion Coal Company Limited and other Dosco colliery operations have been insufficient to dispose of the entire output. An estimated 1,400,000 tons of coal lie piled in Cape Breton.

The production loss during the shutdown is estimated at 300,000 tons. The smaller pits hoist about 500 tons a day and the larger mines, as high as 4,000 tons. A less severe cutback is planned for Acadia Coal Company operations in Nova Scotia's Pictou County, Mr. Gordon said. The mines will work a four-day week schedule for at least the next seven weeks. The mines have been producing five days a week.

Ward Six Sewer Project Is Tossed Back To The Council

The Commissioners of Sewer and Water Supply are not prepared to pay "a cent" towards the cost of laying the combination storm and sanitary sewer planned to connect the systems already existing on Connelly Street and the Malpeque Road. Councillor O'Neill stated at the special Council meeting last night.

Chief Commissioner H. R. Bevan told him that this installation was considered "only a drain" and that in any case since there was no water main involved the Commissioners could not consider such a project since it would not bring in any revenue.

Councillor Gaudet remarked that the citizens had made themselves clear at the recent plebiscite, and placed the full responsibility for sewerage and water on the Commissioners. "This is not so much a storm sewer as a sanitary sewer," he said.

WOULD COST $47,488 Cost of this project as estimated by the Crandall Engineering Co. was $47,488. Councillor Arsenault, chairman of the new Water and Sewerage Committee reported, adding that this did not include the cost of the outfall from Government Pond.

"If the Commissioners have developed a master plan for the installations needed throughout the City I cannot see why they chopped out this small section," Councillor Gaudet observed.

Councillor Baker remarked that in his opinion the Council might be "putting the cart before the horse."

The site and type of the required outfall should be determined first he said.

Councillor Arsenault replied that the engineers had promised a complete plan but none had been submitted as yet.

Want Joint Effort Tried Seven Years

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain Thursday publicly invited Greece and Turkey to help run her Cyprus colony for seven years and eventually share sovereignty over the island.

Prime Minister Macmillan announced the proposed "adventure of partnership" to a crowded House of Commons and appealed for its acceptance. But only a few hours later, a Greek government spokesman said in Athens that the plan is "fundamentally unacceptable."

Sources close to the Turkish foreign ministry said the Turkish government also has rejected the British plan and still wants a tripartite conference involving Britain, Greece and Turkey.

Macmillan's long-heralded announcement was held up 48 hours while NATO's permanent council in Paris, acting as conciliator, sought to soften initial hostility to the proposals from Greece and Turkey.

Governor Sir Hugh Foot appealed in a Nicosia broadcast Thursday night for support of the plan from Cyprus's 400,000 Greek and 100,000 Turkish residents.

SEPARATE LEGISLATURES

The plan proposes a seven-year experimental period during which the two communities would elect separate legislatures. These assemblies would have full powers over their respective communal affairs.

Turkey and Greece each would appoint a representative to sit with Foot and help him run the administration. But the governor would have final authority on all matters dealing with internal security, foreign affairs and defence.

Macmillan disclosed he had forwarded a personal appeal to the Greek and Turkish prime ministers "to approach this policy in a spirit of co-operation and moderation."

He added that NATO's help in conciliation among the three Atlantic Pact powers "is proving to the highest value."

GOVERNOR WOULD RULE

The plan in detail proposes: 1. Rule of the island would rest with the governor and the Greek and Turkish representatives at his side. But the governor would hold veto powers over external affairs, defence and internal security.

2. The Greek and Turkish communities would have their own elected assemblies with full authority in communal affairs.

3. A council, equivalent to a cabinet, would conduct internal administration apart from communal affairs and internal security. Headed by the governor, the council would include the Greek and Turkish representatives and six elected ministers from the two communal assemblies—four Greek Cypriots and two Turkish Cypriots.

4. Greek and Turkish Cypriots would be allowed to choose Greek or Turkish nationality in addition to their status as British nationals.

5. If the plan is approved and violence ceases on the island, Britain would progressively relax emergency regulations to allow the return of those Cypriots now excluded from the island.

COUN. FOSTER REBUKED

Stringent standing orders agreed to by City Council last night will be changed each six months and that the security of the City tax office in future.

Drawn up by the Finance Committee, moved by Councillor Gaudet and seconded by Councillor Foster the order states that in future the combination of the City Vault will be changed each six months and that said combination will be continued to be confined to two civic employees only, namely City Cashier, Mary McQuaid and Assistant City Clerk, John Butler.

The City Cashier and Assistant City Cashier are instructed forthwith that no further advances, post dated cheques or I. O. U.'s or other loans are to be entertained from Civic funds.

It was also ordered: That no further use of City Hall facilities by Staff members after regular working hours be tolerated except when they are on the premises for the purpose of Official business.

Entertainment, both social and athletic, has been arranged for the crew during their five day visit to the P.E.I. capital. The visit will also enable a number of island boys aboard ship to visit their families and friends in the province. Included in this group are CPO Gillan of Charlottetown; LS John Millman of Alberton; LS James Dawson of RR 2, Albany; AB Carl Campbell of Summerside; AB Kenneth Gallant of North Rustico and AB Joseph Jeffrey of Borden.

That the main City Hall front door be similarly locked daily at the close of regular working hours, except on occasions of City Council, inquests, or other public meetings in the Council chambers or Police Court.

RAPS FOSTER

A strongly worded statement of censure from the Council regarding the statements of Coun. Foster was read by Mayor Johnstone. Coun. Gaudet said, "there was considerably confusion created in the minds of the public regarding the relatively simple resolutions passed at Monday night's meeting."

"The public got the theft and the retrivements all wrapped up in one bundle."

Coun. Gormley said that in the ten years he had been in the Council once a matter had been disposed of in Council it was dropped and not referred to again. From all this publicity, he added, "the citizens are suspicious that we are trying to cover up something."

Coun. Foster objected to the whole tone of the Mayor's statement asserting that "at no time was it his intention to mislead or injure." He admitted that he had in the first instance agreed with the majority but stated emphatically that he had made his charge in opinion known to the Mayor between two and three p. m. Monday.

TEXT OF STATEMENT

The following is the text of the Mayor's statement:

"I deeply regret that, as a result of the decision made at our last City Council meeting concerning our former City Clerk, Mr. James Fullerton, a great deal of misdirected publicity has ensued. "Councillor Foster, who is entitled to his own opinion, has intentionally or otherwise left the impression in the minds of the public that the Confidential Report contained sufficient evidence to deny the granting to our former City Clerk a pension, to which he has contributed for many years. # Humor And Wrangling As NORAD Debate Ends

OTTAWA (CP) — Debate on ratification of the Canada-United States air defence agreement ended Thursday in the Commons in an odd mixture of good humour and wrangling.

The Commons approved the agreement, which sets out the principles governing operation of the North American Air Defence Command (NORAD), by a vote of 200 to 8.

The Liberals voted with the Progressive Conservative Government, leaving only the CCF in opposition. The CCF contended that NORAD should be placed direct command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in winding up debate for the government, was the only speaker. But Opposition Leader Pearson and Paul Martin, former Liberal health minister, managed several interjections on points of order.

The good humor came when Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Martin's earlier speech in the debate was memorized in large part from an editorial in the Winnipeg Free Press.

ADMITS MEMORY WORK

Mr. Martin readily admitted this and flourished a copy of the editorial. The Commons dissolved in laughter. The prime minister said Mr. Martin must be congratulated for his ability to memorize. He had made only a few minor changes in the editorial "to improve the language."

But the wrangling set in a moment later when Mr. Diefenbaker maintained the previous Liberal government had conceived the NORAD agreement.

Mr. Martin said he had been a member of both the cabinet and the cabinet defence committee and the matter had not been discussed by either.

He added that under Commons rules Mr. Diefenbaker had to accept this statement without comment.

ACCEPTS DENIAL

Mr. Diefenbaker said he accepted the denial. However, the document said the Liberal government had said it was not able, on June 14, 1957, to "finalize" the NORAD agreement. (This was between its June 10 election defeat and its June 21 resignation.) Mr. Pearson asked what Mr. Diefenbaker was reading from. Mr. Diefenbaker said he was reading from a memorandum of the chiefs of staff committee. It comprises the chiefs of the armed forces and a chairman, Gen.

Charles Foulkes. He said earlier that the Liberal government "to all intents and purposes" had decided to go ahead with NORAD but had held off final action pending last year's election.

Mr. Diefenbaker accused the Liberals of trying to raise a "smoke screen" around the NORAD issue to arouse fears in the hearts of Canadians.

LIBERAL ARGUMENT

Main liberal argument in the debate was that the agreement should have been submitted to Parliament for approval before NORAD was established. Mr. Pearson said his party had no quarrel with the principle of collective defence.

Mr. Diefenbaker's reply to this was to cite a number of agreements—including dispatch of Canadian troops to Korea—which the former Liberal administration went ahead with before seeking Parliamentary ratification.

Mr. Diefenbaker said NORAD "will give muscles to NATO in North America." "It strengthens NATO, which is all that matters." He concluded by inviting the Liberals to vote with the government and thus strengthen "an alliance which they have ridiculed for six long months."
