LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Naufrage Harbor Meeting.

SIR,—I have often heard of a horse kicking over the traces. 'Tis precisely what the Patriot's correspondent (Naufrage) has done in the issue of the 16th inst. He has broken faith with the organizers of the Bear River Line Road meeting, and has basely used them to fire a shot at a political opponent over their shoulders. According to their notices, that meeting was declared strictly non-political, and in point of fact its deliberations were carried out on those lines. That was proper, for the matter under consideration was a purely local one, for the advancement of which it was sought to secure the utmost unanimity.

All the gentlemen who addressed the meeting spoke cheerfully and hopefully. Dr. Muttart included. But this valued correspondent, fired with just indignation over his country's wrongs and the duplicity of politicians, calls on Dr. Muttart to account for the contradiction in terms between the Engineer's private opinion as expressed to him and the subsequently furnished report. How this he asks.

There is no necessity for any fuss whatever. Dr. McIntyre cracked the nut at the meeting when he said that he had not much faith in reports—they were very often made to order. Unless "Naufrage" is a very obtuse dullard or a political crank, that information or explanation should suffice for him as it did for others. Any how, 'tis all we have to offer him.

Dr. Muttart's speech has advanced the cause this much—we see now that notwithstanding the unfavorable report, which by the way the secretary in his report of the meeting accounts for, there is high authority for us to prosecute our claims. viz., the Engineer's privately expressed opinion. In parliamentary phrase, our cause got at the time the three months' hoist, but now we're to the front again, stronger than ever.

This clumsy attempt to bring about dissensions in our ranks, even under the specious garb of political integrity, is by no means sanctioned by those who are most interested in this public work, and they are, let me state, in the proportion of ninety-nine to the hundred.

BEAR RIVER, Feb. 20, 1888.

Frank McNeally to go West.

HE WILL SETTLE IN THE BRITISH POSSESSIONS—WHAT HIS BROTHER SAYS.

Harry A. McNeally, brother of the defaulter, in an interview at Saco, Me., on the 16th, said he did his best to redeem his brother's crime, and he did not now care to discuss the matter. "I will say this, however," he continued, "Frank is entitled to a great deal of sympathy. The surrender of the bonds was a remarkable occurrence. He might have disposed of every negotiable bond within 15 minutes after he arrived in London, and could have lived like a prince without any fear of being brought to pay the penalty of his crime. I do not know where Frank is now. He was with me a part of the time in Europe, but I could not state where he is now. Probably he will never return to Maine. In a few years he could come back here without fear of arrest, but he seems to think the best thing for him to do is to go West and settle in some of the British possessions. He is young and has yet an opportunity to regain an honest name. He told me while in England that he had no fears about carrying his own living. As to the reward, the bank officials say I am entitled to it, but what I have done I have done without any hope or thought of that."

A Short Answer.

The influential deputation which recently waited upon Lord Salisbury to urge upon the Government the necessity of finding employment for the unfortunate people in Great Britain who are out of work, received from the Premier a very short and a very decided reply. He told Cardinal Manning and the other gentlemen "that any attempt on the part of the State to step into the place of the ordinary employer, and to establish a relation between it and the working classes similar to that between the employer and the employed, would only result in the long run in producing far more frightful, wide-spread and permanent misery than it was designed to remedy." Many people think that the Government, if it only tried, could easily find a solution for the labor problem, but we see that the British Premier, who is allowed on all hands to be a man of great intelligence and ability, is of a very different opinion.

The Toronto Empire says that "after several weeks spent in perambulating the country, and at the expense of considerable money and a great deal more brain power and wasting of the truth, the Toronto Mail has produced interviews with less than fifty Canadian manufacturers whom it claims are in favor of Commercial Union. About one-half of those interviewed do not declare openly in favor of the fad, a number of others claim that they have been incorrectly reported, and several deny that they were interviewed at all." The Empire publishes as first instalment the names of nine times as many of Canada's leading manufacturers who are opposed to Commercial Union, and suggests that its Toronto contemporary interview them.

From C. R. Wells, Furniture Dealer, Augusta, Me.—"Having been subject to a cough more or less generally more—I wish to add my testimony in favor of the celebrated Adams's Cough Balsam, which has given relief sooner, and cured a cough quicker for me, than anything else that I have ever tried for that purpose." The Woolen Manufacturers of the States have entered into a "combine."

Geo. W. Childs' Munificence.

THE MILTON MEMORIAL IN ST. MARGARET'S CHURCH, WESTMINSTER.

A large congregation flocked to St. Margaret's church, Westminster, on Sunday last, to hear the special sermon by Archdeacon Farrar, in connection with the unveiling of Saturday of the Milton memorial presented to the church by Geo. W. Childs, of Philadelphia. The congregation included Mr. Phelps, American Minister, and wife, Baroness Burdett-Coutts, and many leading American residents. The British aristocracy was also largely represented. Farrar said: "Once more we are indebted to an American citizen for the beautiful Milton window. The well-counselled munificence of Mr. Childs, who has already enriched Stratford-on-Avon with a memorial of Shakespeare and Westminster Abbey with a window in memory of Herbert and Cowper, has now erected this abiding memorial to the great Puritan poet. I myself am a debtor to American friends for great kindness. I cannot but rejoice that the church of St. Margaret should furnish yet one more illustration of those bonds of common blood and traditions, of language and affection, which unite England to the great republic of the west."

More About the Treaty.

A New York despatch reports that: "In stress of weather American vessels may go where they see fit and take shelter in the nearest Canadian harbor. By the terms of the treaty the United States specifically concede to Canada the right to exclude us from buying bait in any of her ports. No penalty is attached if any Canadian should sell our fishermen bait, but under treaty stipulations American fishermen will not be supposed to buy any Canadian bait. Our fishermen can go into any and all Canadian ports for all other supplies except bait, and to ship and tranship their catch to American markets in bond. Licenses must be obtained to enter Canadian ports, but they will merely be in the form of the Canadian authorities approving or writing "O K" on American customs officers' permits to touch and trade in Canada, and no fee will be charged for them. There is a reciprocal or retaliatory clause in the treaty. It provides that Canadian fishermen shall have every privilege in our ports that Americans have in theirs and no others. Thus for instance under the strict construction of the treaty, Canadian fishermen would no longer be able to buy bait in Portland. It also provides as a concession to Canada that the administration will strive to secure congressional action for free entry or full interchange of salt, coal and lumber from the Dominion, but this is not requisite to the perfection. The President's message practically recommends that these commodities be put on the free list, and a majority of the ways and means committees also favor this scheme. This promise will tend to secure popularity for the treaty in Ottawa."

Health Hints.

A little alum dissolved in sage tea sweetened with honey is an excellent gargle for a sore throat.
Label every bottle of medicine that comes into your house, and put poisonous drugs, like paregoric, laudanum, carbolic acid etc., out of the reach of children—and be sure that they are out of their reach.
Water cannot satisfy the thirst which attends cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea and some other forms of diseases; in fact, drinking cold water serves to increase the thirst and induce other disagreeable sensations; but this thirst will be perfectly and pleasantly subdued by eating a comparatively small amount of ice, swallowing it in as large pieces as practicable and as much as is wanted.
A French doctor recommends the following process for curing freckles: After the skin has been well washed and dried, the folds of the skin are drawn out with the left hand, and, with the right, carbolic acid is pointed on the speckle and allowed to dry. During some days the spots appear more evident than before the application of the acid, and a kind of epidemic scale is forced. In seven or eight days the scale falls; the skin then exposed is of a rose color, but afterwards becomes white.

American Combines.

The work of forming trusts goes merrily on in the United States. The distillers have formed themselves into a very strong combination under the name of "The Wines and Spirit Distillers Trust." There are in the United States seventy-two distillers of high proof spirits and alcohol. Seventy of these have entered into this new combination. This Trust is immensely rich. It issues $30,000,000 par value stock, divided into 100 shares certificates and pays monthly dividends. It is expected that the Trust will pay eight or ten per cent on its capital. The first move on the Trust has been to shut down 53 of the 70 distilleries. Twelve of them are now found sufficient to supply the demand, and if a further reduction is demanded, the Trust will not hesitate to make it.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.
