Paving Project Is Progressing

After being held up for several weeks because of unfavorable weather conditions, preparations for the paving of the Commercial Road section from Whim Road to Murray River is now making good progress.

Yesterday workmen of the Department of Public Work and Highways gave the Wood Islands hill in Montague a preliminary oil coat also. It is considered part of the same project.

A preliminary oil coat had been placed on the Commercial Road from the end of the pavement at Whim Road to Peter's Road, a distance of some six miles.

It is understood that asphalt for the cold-mix pavement will not arrive until the latter part of this week, so that actual paving operations will not begin until the first of next week.

The preliminary gravel coat has been placed all over the road a distance of some nine to ten miles.

Montague Street Paving Program Is Discussed At Council Meeting

It was reported last night at the Montague Town Council meeting by His Worship, Mayor B. H. Yeo, that the street paving program might have to be set aside for another year owing to the lateness of the season before the work could be done. He pointed out that committments on the Commercial Road would have to be completed before any other work would be contemplated. However, it was stated that light-top paving could be laid at the rate of about three-quarters of a mile a day, and that with good weather conditions the road to Murray River should be completed by the end of September. The mile of paving in the town proper would require approximately one week, including preparation. This would mean that by the end of the first week of October the program could be completed. The matter received a great deal of discussion, and it was felt that another effort to have it paved this year should be made.

The remainder of the session was taken up with routine business.

A motion regarding the removing of street culverts too small to carry of the water was amended by striking out "replacing with larger culverts" to remove any ambiguity that the town would replace such culverts removed. Payment of bills amounting to $261.34 was approved.

The resignation of Mr. Charles McLennan as police chief was accepted, and Mr. John White was appointed as police chief, with power to hire an assistant at any time required.

A petition was received from a private citizen to have the town take over the control of a private sewer line, collect all fees, and maintain it in proper working order. This matter was left in abeyance for further discussion.

Councillor Hessian reported that the finances were in good condition, and that the payment of the 1951 taxes was proceeding satisfactorily.

Councillor Reynolds reported that the town building had been painted as per contract, and proved to be satisfactory.

Councillor McGowan stated that there still remained a few places on the streets which required some gravel, but pointed out that it was somewhat difficult to obtain at this time. Mr. McGowan also gave a report on the Red Cross meeting he attended in Charlottetown. He stated that the officials were anxious to have a centre in Montague and required from the town a representative on the central executive. The clerk was instructed to forward the name of a competent candidate.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

The latest to come to our notice is Miss Jean Hemphill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hemphill, formerly of Georgetown and now of Pictou, N. S. Congratulations are extended to Miss Hemphill and local residents are indeed proud to hear of her achievement.

UNION ROAD W. I.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute of Union Road, King's County, was held Wednesday evening, Sept. 5th at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Mellish. The meeting opened in the usual manner, with the president, Mrs. Douglas Mellish, presiding.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Everett Moore and approved as read.

The correspondence was read and discussed. Roll call was answered with a silver collection.

A very interesting period was spent in the discussion of one of their educational projects. At the close of the meeting an auction sale was held and the members enjoyed a social hour. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Dorothy Dix Says—

vide him with a home to enjoy? Have you given him cheerful companionship, or is he nagged to death when he does enter the house?

If you were willing to contribute to the making of a home half the effort you are anxious to expend in an extra-marital love affair, your wandering husband would be well established at the family hearth. You long for love and affection, but has it ever occurred to you that these gifts do not come unearned? They must be returned in kind. Even your lover will soon tire of your selfish demands, and then you will need other diversion. Before you wander too far down this fruitless road, take stock of yourself. See where you have failed your husband and make an honest attempt to establish your marriage firmly and securely.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I were married over a year ago. We are keeping our marriage a secret until he gets settled — he is in the service. My problem is that there were no witnesses to the ceremony, which was performed by a justice of the peace. Everything seemed to be in order but I have been thinking about it and I am worried. Would the lack of witnesses cause our marriage not to be legal?

ANSWER: First of all, you have done a very foolish thing in contracting a secret marriage. It is unfair to your parents and your husband's. It is also unfair to yourself, as you will realize later in life. The glamour and importance of a wedding — no matter how simple — is something every girl should have. The wedding gown to show your children, the pictures to look at pridefully, are not things to be lightly cast off. There is a vast difference between a sneaky ceremony performed by a total stranger, and a pretty church or home wedding at which your family clergyman officiates, and to which friends and relatives come to wish you well.

The legality of your marriage should not be difficult to determine. As laws regarding matrimony differ in each state, I cannot tell whether witnesses are required in yours or not. If you have a certificate signed by the justice who married you, take it to a lawyer for his opinion. This may involve a little trouble and money, but I should think it would be worth it.

DEAR MISS DIX: The girls in the office where my husband works occasionally ask him to drive them to lunch. Sometimes they ask him to take them home in the car. He has done this a few times but I don't think he should. Some of the girls are married, some single. When he takes them to lunch he doesn't pay for their meals, but I still feel it isn't right.

G. E.

ANSWER: There is absolutely nothing wrong, or even questionable, in your husband's driving these girls to their lunching place, or home. A cameraderie arrives among people who work in the same office and friendly gestures such as offering a ride are taken for granted. In fact, your husband would be rather thoughtless if he were driving his car home and didn't offer the convenience of a ride to such co-workers as happened to live along his route, or near it.

Every young married man who is forging ahead in business or professional life has one gnawing fear — that accident or sudden health failure will take him "out of the picture" BEFORE he is able to adequately provide for his wife and kiddies' future.

The surest way of eliminating such fear is through ownership of an Excelsior Life "FAMILY INCOME" Policy which will guarantee his family:

- $300.00-A-MONTH from date of death to a date twenty years after policy is issued.
- PLUS $15,000.00 IN CASH at that time (twenty years hence) which may be used to purchase an annuity for his wife after the youngsters are grown up.
- $15,000.00 INSURANCE PROTECTION after 20 years—if he is still living.
- A SUBSTANTIAL "TURN-IN" VALUE at age 65, if he is living, which will add to his own "old age security".
