Befuddled Board Befouled By Barbaric Bovine Betting

MONTREAL (CUP) -

A winter carnival activity in which students bet on where a cow will defecate has come under criticism at Concordia University.

In the game, a real cow selected from an agriculture college is put on a football field divided in squares. Students bet about $2 per square on where the cow will relieve herself. Winners can earn from 300 to 500 dollars and profits are given to charity.

According to Joanna McLean, a executive for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty against Animals (SPCA), the game is dangerous for the animal.

"These particular cows are highbred and they are not supposed to be outside this time of the year," she said. "They could easily get sick and injured."

Carnival organizers say however that the game is played frequently in the Maritimes without any harm.

"You see a cow and you know that the carnival is going on and that's the point of having this game - to raise school spirit," said organizer Ian McLean. "I grew up on a farm and I've done a lot of work with animals. It's not dangerous."

The SPCA's McLean said the game would be "an embarrassment" for the university.

"What a stupid thing to do," she said, "to have students bet and then wait around for the cow to shit."

ELECTIONS!

YES! IT'S THAT TIME of the year again.

The excitement, the intrigue.

The shameless mudslinging.
