On Thursday, May 26th, a meeting was held in the Baptist Church, at which Miss Marjorie Windsor was guest speaker. Miss Windsor was in a concentration camp in China for six years, and told of her life there, and how God wonderfully protected them. She had great praise for the Red Cross food parcels, which meant so much to them as teen-agers. Miss Windsor plans to say on the Island for the summer months and will be one of the Counsellors of Emmanuel Bible Camp at Dundas Centre. A duet of Mrs. Straight and Miss Windsor, also a solo by Miss Margaret Lavers, added much to the meeting. A delicious lunch was served by the ladies after the meeting.

Having recently observed the feverish and unusual nest-making activities of a pair of large and strange birds, in an area bordering the Brudenell River, John Walsh and Allan MacPhee were sure the pair were of the eagle or hawk family and therefore likely to be destructive to certain species of wild and domestic animal and bird life. They were successful in shooting down one of the strange invaders. It was found to measure two feet from beak to the tip of the tail and had a six foot wing span. In colour the bird was of two shades of brown on the back, with a white breast and underside, which at the neck was flecked with brown. The large hooked beak and long, curved claws, gave it a rather fierce appearance. The legs were grey. The boys are still not certain of the exact name of their prey, but from all appearances it was an exceptionally large hawk or an osprey.

Mr. W. J. Fitzgerald, Postmaster attended the convention of the Maritime Branch of the Canadian Postmasters' Association held in Charlottetown on Thursday, June 2.

Wives Get Together As Husband Goes To Jail

By SONIA YOUNG

CHESTER, England (Reuters)—Donald Whiteford has gone to prison for bigamy. Now his two latest wives—Olive, 30, and Lydia Ann, 42—have decided to set up housekeeping by themselves.

After three months' residence here with the 23-year-old bellboy and his children, the wives found they had more in common with each other than with their common husband.

"We will never let each other down," they said after their former spouse was given three years in prison last week for being excessive about wives.

They added: "We are going to move away from all this gossip and 'lose' Donald as soon as possible."

Whiteford's two last mates learned the truth one day when one of them overheard the other ask whether he was "coming home." There was an all-night quarrel over jurisdiction. Whiteford settled it by inviting both women to his home.

During the next three months, the only quarrels the happily-married triangle ever had were when Whiteford wanted to "date" one wife and leave the other one at home.

The girls used a "union" technique: Both of them refused to go out with him. He had to go out by himself.

Whiteford used to sleep with his three children at night. His "wives" shared a bed in another room.

No Cheese Surplus In Canada Says Gardiner

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Tuesday there is no cheese surplus in Canada and all cheese produced in the country can be sold on the home market.

"I'm not saying that all of it is sold here," he told the Agricultural Press Association. "That takes some effort on the part of those who have it for sale."

Discussing the subject of Canadian butter, he said there probably would be a surplus this year of about 25,000,000 pounds due to good grass conditions.

Canadian butter production costs were highest in the world because of the constant winter demand for milk. This was one reason why Canadian butter had to be sold on the home market.

There was a constant demand for milk during winter months and to guarantee this need summer milk was turned into butter.
