A LETTER FROM CHINA.

Probably the last letter from the Canadian missionaries at Pekin was received at Toronto on July 3rd by the family of Miss Rutherford, the Evangelical Socilety's Missionary, one of the three Canadian women missionaries in the Chinese capital. The writer may be safe, as she mentioned a suggestion that the missionaries might go to the seaside, but as the letter was written just a week before communication with the outside world was broken, her friends fear that Miss Rutherford is among those besieged in the legations.

Miss Rutherford, writing under date of June 2, says that the Boxers announced that they had suffered the foreigners for a cycle, and that they were determined to mark the last of the feast season, which was then in progress, by their extermination. The destruction of the railway track, however, frustrated the object of the Boxers, and also proved the salvation of the missionaries and others at Pekin, for it awakened the legation ministers to the danger and caused them to send for foreign troops. The Chinese officials did not want the foreign troops to come up, and ordered that the railway should not be used to carry the troops. The ministers thereupon told the authorities that if there was a massacre of foreigners it would mean the end of China as an empire, and the authorities finally withdrew the order. A battle was expected at the city gates between the foreign troops and the Chinese soldiers; but the latter were ordered away before the troops arrived.

In concluding her letter, Miss Rutherford says—'There is a tremendously strong anti-foreign feeling all over China. and there is some good reasons for it, too. The poor Chinaman is being stripped piece by piece, and no wonder he thinks it is time to object. They connect foreigners with the religion of Jesus Christ; think it is a national religion, and so vent their fury on the Church and Chinese Christian, for joining them.

'When we go out on the street we hear, "Ha, ha foreign devil, the Boxers have come, and you haven't much longer to live," or, "There is one of those Christians. She will be killed soon." This has all broken out within the past few months, that is, in Pekin; it was as quiet as possible before that.'

AN OBJECT LESSON.

When the Boers shall have been subdued, they will have learned a lesson most impressively taught them by the massing of the colonial recruits upon the South African veldt—the lesson of empire. A trooper in the Canadian mounted rifles relates this experience in a letter, dated Bloemfontein, April 23, and describing the march thither along the main road from Springfontein:

Our troop left Springfontein as mounted guard to 800 of the City Imperial Volunteers. The third night my horse got kicked in the shoulder, and went so lame that she had to be left. The next day I had to walk a fifteen-mile march, and got on the railway track with the C. I. V's. At night we stopped near a farmhouse. Being separated from my troop, and so not under command, I asked the Dutchman who came out to see us if he would sell me some bread. He pointed to a section of Bombay Lancers who were in our detachment, and asked, "What nation those?" "From India," I said. "What nation you?" "Canadian." "And where the English?" he inquired. "Back there," I said, pointing to the 800 City Imperial Volunteers. His astonishment is not to be wondered at, for the Scotch in their kilts had gone up just the day before, and ahead of them were the Irish. To him they are all separate nations, coming from he knows not where, for Canada and India are places of which he has never heard. Yet he was one of the most intelligent, for he was a section man on the railway.

She Was Pale and Languid

Too Nervous to Sleep, and Daily Grew Weaker and Weaker—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Restored Health and Vigour.

Mrs. E. McLaughlin, 95 Parliament street, Toronto, states:—"My daughter was pale, weak, languid, and very nervous. Her appetite was poor and changeable. She could scarcely drag herself about the house, and her nerves were completely unstrung. She could not sleep for more than half an hour at a time without starting up and crying out in excitement.

"As she was growing weaker and weaker I became alarmed, and obtained a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. She used this treatment for several weeks, and from the first we noticed a decided improvement. Her appetite became better, she gained in weight, the colour returned to her face, and she gradually became strong and well. I cannot say too much in favour of this wonderful treatment, since it has proven such a blessing to my daughter."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a blood-builder and nerve vitalizer of most unusual merit. In pill form, 50c. a box, at all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.
