

Mrs. Guy Russell, Moore's Mills, N.B., 1951 winner at St. Stephen Fair, uses Fleischmann's Yeast exclusively.

Her Baking Wins Prizes For 27 Years

As you can see, winning prizes for home baking is an old story with Mrs. Guy Russell, of Moore's Mills, N.B. Her collection of prize-winning tags from the St. Stephen Fair goes back to 1924! She can give good reasons for her success, too. "I have baked bread as many as four times in a week," says Mrs. Russell. "But it isn't just experience or baking skill that makes you a prize winner. First you have to have the finest ingredients. For rolls and bread my choice is Fleischmann's Yeast. With Fleischmann's I'm sure of quick rising and fine results. That's just what they all say! Prize-winning cooks throughout the Maritimes depend on Fleischmann's Yeast.

Agricultural News

P. E. I. Department of Agriculture

The Hon. C. C. Baker, Minister of Agriculture, recently represented this Province at a meeting of the provincial Ministers in Ottawa.

The Conference was opened by the Hon. Mr. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture for Canada. He stated that action had been taken as quickly as possible to halt the spread of Foot and Mouth Disease in the Regina area; that at the present time all diseased animals and animals that had been in contact with diseased animals are under ground.

Mr. Gardiner further stated that one of the difficulties in handling and controlling the situation in Canada is due to some extent to the action of some provinces in setting up certain embargoes and restrictions on the movement of live animals and meats. It is also apparent that there would necessarily be a surplus of beef products in Canada. The main factor influencing this surplus will be due to the fact that the United States has placed an embargo on animals and meats going into that country.

Last year exports to the United States were over 400,000 head of beef cattle. This will represent about the quantity of meat for disposal in Canada over and above the normal requirements. This, coupled with the surplus quantity of pork products already existing in Canada, would constitute a problem in the disposal of the meat. A support price for beef has been decided upon and the announcement will come shortly from Mr. Gardiner. Livestock breeders are urged not to sell their cattle faster than the market would require the meat; that it would be better if all animals, instead of being sold at 1-2-2 years of age, could be retained on the farms for another year or so, or at least until the American market would open up and be available to take our surplus.

March 26th. Mrs. Harrison was the eldest daughter of the late Angus E. and Mrs. McDonald, Cornwall. Surviving are two sisters, Miss Jeanette McDonald, Omaha, and Mrs. Kate Warren, West River, P. E. I., and three brothers, John, Omaha; William, Vancouver, and Andrew, Winnipeg. Also mourning their loss are the following nieces and nephews: Mrs. Cleve Craswell and Mrs. Walter Bear, Charlottetown; Mrs. G. Inman, Montague; Mrs. M. Bagnall, Saint John, and Mr. McEachern.

Cleaning of Grain
Among the many odd jobs that can be done around the farm these days, cleaning seed grain is one that demands attention. Power cleaners can do a good job if the operation is done in the proper manner. Frequently too much is expected in returns from 100 bushels of dirty grain. In the first place no grain is so good that at least 1-5 won't be taken out. In order to clean out weed seed such as couch, wild buckwheat, and wild vetch, the small and light oats also have to be taken out. If the operator is rushed and has to run through more than 300 bushels a day he cannot possibly do a good job on your grain, so be fair to him and yourself by delivering your seed early.

There are still a great many hand fanners throughout the country, but good screens are scarce. Many of the companies that manufactured these cleaners are no longer in existence so it is difficult to obtain new screens. One alternative is to buy a screen for a larger machine and cut it down.

Regardless of the size or make of the machine the working principle is the same. All cleaners have three main parts: a top screen, a bottom screen, and a fan. The size of the top screen should be large enough to let all good grain through, but small enough to remove double kernels, straws, thistle heads and dead insects. The bottom screen is the one that takes out most of the weed seeds. The size of the bottom screen is governed by the kind of job you want.

In adjusting the wind, start off with maximum wind and gradually reduce it until there is the odd good kernel going out with the light stuff. This will remove couch seeds and the light kernels which make poor quality seed.

The rate of feeding is governed by the capacity of the bottom screen. If the grain is fed too fast a lot of small stuff and weed seeds will be carried over the screen instead of falling through. When we consider the time and expense we put into the production of cereal grains, it is then important.

Lenten Meditation

From The Columns of The Times, London.

THE GOD WHO CARES

A prayer will always be the natural utterance of any Christian belief in God. Yet in fact few things are harder, in such a world as men know today, than to hold to faith in that providential ordering of history and of individual lives without which the Christian life disintegrates.

It is taken for granted all through the Bible. Prophets and Psalmists never doubted, even amid such frightful calamities as might have seemed to deny God altogether, that he overrules his torical events. Above all, they were sure that men and women with their physical and spiritual necessities are directly under his care and protection.

This faith comes to its climax in the Gospels. It is at the heart of the teaching of our Lord in the parables, and in the Sermon on the Mount: "The very hairs of your head are all numbered." It breathes in the last word of filial confidence, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit."

Faith in providence is in truth an aspect of trust in a personal and living God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ—the God to whom persons are dear. To that faith Christianity is committed. Yet it is increasingly obscured in the climate of contemporary opinion, at the time when it is most desperately needed if personal life is not to be overwhelmed.

Intellectual tendencies and social pressures combine to assail men's minds with suggestions which make it extremely difficult to believe that they matter to the power behind the universe or have any spiritual status in it.

But this means that the survival of liberal culture is bound up with the arrival of Christian theism. The so-called religion of humanity can no longer stand without belief in providence. It is the knowledge that God cares for men which authenticates man's nature as spirit, and is thus the guarantee of personal values.

Christian theology offers the corrective to the non-personal thinking of this age with all those dehumanizing effects in practice which are dwarfing men to a sub-human status. It is not the result of abstract speculation. It flows from vital and direct experience—the knowledge of God that is given through Christ.

It is commonly said that the scientific attitude challenges the ancient Christian certainties. It is equally true that they challenge it. Christians will get everything upside down if they first accept a naturalistic world view and then try to fit their religion into it. Christianity knows that God is a God who cares. And it will be found more and more that this is the key to the secrets of the universe.
