MY COUNTRY

The following verses were written by a young English girl, 16 years of age, now resident in Chicago, and attending the public schools there. They gained for the writer a silver medal, given by one of the newspapers of Chicago:

My country! My country!
God bless the dear cry,
That helps us to live,
That nerves us to die,
That's grown with man's growth from the birth of the world,
That oft from his place the proud tyrant hath hurled.

My country! My country!
It moved Homer's song
It rings through the Iliad,
That melody strong.
It thrilled the brave Spartans defending the way
That kept the tyrannical Persian at bay.

My country! My country!
The legion of Rome
Took up the loved call
Till far from their home
In battle, when wounded, they staggering fell,
With the cry on their lips that they all loved so well.

My country! My country!
From Old England's shore
Arises the song
To ring out evermore
From hillside and woodland and palace and cot,
From Anglo and Saxon and Norman and Scot.

My country! My country!
At famed Runnymede
The Barons had gathered,
For well had they need.
The cry that arose there and startled the king,
'Tis the same that for aye thro' the nation shall ring.

My country! My country!
To-day the cry hear
Ascending from millions
Both distant and near.
On this side of ocean the song we repeat
In manhood's firm tones and in babes' lispings sweet.

My country! My country!
Our cry still shall be,
And on thro' the ages
To eternity.
And may freedom's fires in our hearts still burn bright,
And our country's fair fame be our strong beacon light.

CLARA EVELINE RAMSKILL.

Sir Samuel Montague recently sent Mr. Gladstone a copy of Dr. Herzl's "Jewish State," translated by Sylvie d'Avigdor. The following extract is from Mr. Gladstone's note of acknowledgment: "The subject of your enclosure is most interesting, not easy for one outside to form an opinion on—impertinent, perhaps, to speak it were it formed. I am surprised, however, to see the misery of the Jews so broadly stated. Of course, I am strongly anti-Semitic. In a singular and rather striking novel called 'The Limb' you would find some rather exceptional handling of Judaism. I remain most faithfully yours, W. E. Gladstone, May 13, 1896."

ABSOLUTELY PURE

TRADE AND THE MARKETS.

TRADE throughout this Province is quiet and prices low.

Oats sell in this city at 26 cents per bushel, and there is no prospect for futures. This is not wonderful in view of the conditions elsewhere. We quote the Toronto Star, which says that "the price of oats was never as low in Ontario as at the present time. Good white oats are selling along the lines of railways at 18c. per bushel, and there is apparently little inducement even at this price to buy for speculation. The supplanting of horses by electricity is a prominent factor in the decreased demand for this cereal."

Cheese—Liverpool (G. B.) advices by mail (June 20) state that the demand there for cheese continues steady. Really fancy old cheese are very scarce, but holders of fine to finest meet buyers a little. Market closes steady. Quotations are: Finest cheese, 35s to 37s; fancy "old" white cheese scarce, 40s to 43s; finest colored, 37s to 40s; fine to finest, 32s to 35s. In Montreal cheese is quoted as selling at 6 3-8 to 7 cts per pound. In Toronto the Mail and Empire reports that dealers are buying small lots of June cheese laid down here at 7c, and are reselling at 7½c. Old autumn makes bring 8 to 8½c.

Butter—In Toronto the quotations are: Dairy, tub, choice, 10 to 12c.; do., low grades to medium, 7 to 9c.; large roll, 11 to 12c; pound prints, 12 to 13c.; creamery tubs, 15c; pounds, 15 to 16c. In Liverpool the quotations for butter are: Extra fancy Danish kiels, 96s to 100s; fine to finest, 92s to 95s; Irish, finest creameries, 92s to 95s; finest Tipperary, 84s to 86s; lower qualities, from 70s to 78s per cwt.

Eggs—There are a good many eggs coming into this city, but buyers pay only 7½ cents per dozen.

Mr. J. W. Bengough, formerly of Grip but at present cartoonist and writer of campaign literature for the Toronto Globe, the chief Grit organ in Ontario, has written some lines dedicated to Quebec in commemoration of the vote on June 23rd. The first, third and last stanzas are as follows:—

Quebec, Confederation star,
Sweet Province of the fleur de lis,
Thy sisters six from sea to sea
Salute thee and thy Laurier!

Three maids from east and three from west
Victorious come their queen to greet,
And so around thee draw and meet
In new-born hope and concord blest.

Our onward march naught now may check,
Thus firm-united heart and hand,
The God of nations bless our land,
And God bless Laurier's own Quebec!

This is not Mr. Bengough's first attempt at political versifying with Quebec as his theme. In a previous campaign, when the grits were making their fight against Sir John Macdonald because of alleged undue influence of Quebec in his cabinet, Mr. Bengough wrote a campaign song for his party, with the following refrain:

"The desperate French-Canadian horde,
Ontario, Ontario,
Would rob thee of thy just award,
Ontario, Ontario.
But all their plots shall be in vain;
They shall not get thy fair domain,
Ontario, Ontario.

The grit opinion of Quebec and the French-Canadians appears to have undergone a considerable change since the 23rd. of June. We trust that the change is permanent.

TO MY CYCLE.

Dear other self, so silent, swift and sure,
My dumb companion of delightful days,
Might fairy fingers from thy orbit rays
Of steel strike music, as the gods of yore
From reed or shell: what melodies would pour
On my glad ears; what songs of woodland ways,
Of summer's wealth of corn, or the sweet lays
Of April's budding green; while evermore
We twain, one living thing, flash like the light
Down the long tracks that stretch from sky to sky,
Thou hast thy music, too; what time the noon
Beats sultry on broad roads; when, gathering night,
We drink the keen-edged air; or, darkling, fly
'Twixt hedge rows blackened by a mystic moon.

—Adriel Vere, in Spectator.

—Montreal Gazette: The Rouge press of this province has never been remarkable for sobriety of expression. It leaps from the depths of despair to the heights of elation almost as quickly as Mr. Laurier changes his policy.

—Montreal Gazette: The rascal who paid for votes in the Quebec district with old Confederate States' notes did his opponents a good turn. The unsophisticated, but fooled habitat, will have none of his bribe money at the next election, and may vote for the other party to get even with the deceiver. The Conservative action has begun there already.

—Commenting upon the Manitoba question the Mail and Empire remarks that "the Liberal party is pledged to three distinct lines of conduct; first—the Winnipeg line—not to deal with the matter at all; second the Ontario line—to get Manitoba to deal with it, but whether Manitoba acts or not to avoid legislation at Ottawa; third—the Quebec line—to pass remedial legislation in accordance with the mandament."

—The Church Evangelist points out as an example of "Time's revenges" the fact that two Jews of Bagdad have lately purchased all the land on which ancient Babylon stood. That Babylon by whose waters the Jews in exile wept and prayed is now the property of those who, in their despair, hanged their harps upon the trees that are therein. All that remains of palaces and "hanging gardens" in that city where Daniel was cast into the den of lions, and "the three children" into the fiery furnace, is now held in fee by Hebrews. We have here another illustration of the marvellous tenacity of the ancient chosen race. The Jews have survived all the races and civilizations which clustered about the capital of the mighty Babylonian Empire. Though in their long history the predictions of the prophets have been fulfilled and the cup of suffering has been drunk to the dregs, their permanence has not been affected. On the other hand, the powers who became their conquerors and oppressors have fallen one by one. Assyria and Babylon perished ages ago, the Greek power waned and passed away; the Roman Empire is gone; but the Hebrew race is indestructible. In the race itself is fulfilled the old legend of the Wandering Jew, doomed to survive the rise and fall of nations till the last great day.

Our two great inducements are good fits and low prices—S. A. McDonald.

A NOTED CANADIAN LADY

The Cultivator and Country Gentleman published an interesting sketch of Mrs. Elizabeth Maria Jones, of Brockville, Ont., who bears the double distinction of being at once the most noted Jersey breeders in Canada of either sex, and the most noted female breeder of Jerseys of either Canada or the United States.

Mrs. Jones was born where she now lives, at Brockville, Ont., just opposite the Thousand Isles of the St. Lawrence; but her early education was largely received in Scotland, her father having been a native of that country, and his sister owning and occupying the historic house once held—as alleged—by Rob Roy, at Auchintroig, in the Highlands. She was not strong as a girl; and it occurred to her mother to secure for her much needed physical exercise by giving her the four cows kept for the family, on condition that she would always skim the cream and take charge of the dairy. The plan worked to perfection. When twelve years of age the little dairymaid was quite an adept at making butter, to the disgust of her governess, who grudged the time thus spent, but with the result of completely re-establishing the child's health. Soon after, her mother died, and at sixteen the whole burden of a large house and family fell upon her youthful shoulders. Necessity taught her that the only way to succeed was to put her whole heart into everything, never resting till it was done in the very best way possible. This rule she has observed through life, and it is doubtless largely the explanation of her success in whatever she has undertaken.

In 1860 she married Chilion Jones, one of the architects of the magnificent government buildings at Ottawa. Some ten years later, health failing again, her husband suggested that she might take up the management of a small Jersey herd in earnest, supervising everything herself and doing all in her own name and her own way. The plan was successful, as her mother's similar scheme had been—and the herd was successful, too! We will not sketch its history here; but many readers know that for years past the "Belvidere" Jerseys have taken first herd prize at all the largest exhibitions in the Dominion. A large basket is needed to hold her medals—gold, silver and bronze—while a washtub would hardly accommodate the prize tickets. On the sideboard at Belvidere is a silver tea service won at London, Ont., for best three dairy cows of any breed; also a silver cup taken at the Kellogg combination sale in 1886, where five animals entered by Mrs. Jones sold for an average of $687. Nor is the place less noted for its output of fine butter, which has now risen to three or four tons per annum and commands the highest price ever paid in Canada. At Belvidere also are always kept a few particularly fine horses—the especial delight of every member of the family, and we judge a source of considerable profit as well, for teams from the Belvidere stable, have brought as high as $1,500. Mrs. Jones has three daughters (bearing the pretty names of Eta, Elsie and Irene), and two sons, one of them a lawyer at Regina, the other interested in the great Nova Scotia Steel and Forge Co. The two younger daughters are fine horsewomen, often following the hounds with the Montreal Hunt Club, and winning "brushes" and "masks," of which they are very proud.

ISLAND OF ANTICOSTI.

M Menier Does Not Defy Canada—He Does Not Question Her Authority—His Rules of Covernment

In view of the reports regarding M. Menier's highhanded proceedings in his recently acquired possessions, the following despatch to the New York Herald from Fox Bay, Anticosti, dated July 5, is interesting: The Herald predicted on June 20 that on due investigation it would be found the rumor circulated that M. Henri Menier, recent purchaser of the Island of Anticosti, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, had assumed jurisdiction over the sea surrounding his island for a distance of three miles from shore, thereby defying the authority of the Canadian Government, was entirely without truth.

I saw M. Menier to day at Salmon River, 24 miles north of this point. He verified the Herald's prediction by telling me in positive terms that he had not only never pretended to have authority in the matter of the three-mile limit, forbidding all fishermen to fish within that area, but he had not even thought of doing so. He admitted that he had refused to give certain rough characters, who are fishermen, permission to land on his island, but justified his act by declaring that as sole owner of the property he had the right under the law to do so.

In a personal interview to-day he explained his position at greater length. He arrived at English Bay, Anticosti, from Havre, June 7. I found him entirely unprepared to hear that the rumors concerning his attitude toward the fishermen were of such a decidedly sensational nature, and that they had been telegraphed to various parts of the United States, Canada and Europe.

"Such a story is absurd and not worthy of belief among sensible people," he said. "Is it reasonable to suppose that I could have seriously made such statements? To declare that I pretended to question the authority of the Government of Canada is really too amusing. How such a report could have been credited by anyone is more than I can understand.

"The best answer that I can make to such a fabrication is to quote from the preliminary statement contained in the rules and regulations I have established as a private citizen for the management of my property here. It is as follows.—"The Island of Anticosti is private property a dependency of the Province of Quebec, and governed by the laws of Canada and of this province. The inhabitants of the island, who can only reside there by regular permission, must agree to submit to the regulations for the government of the island, and all other rules of administration which are herein set forth."

Game is to be preserved in Central Africa. Major von Wissman has set aside a portion of German East Africa, within which no shooting will be allowed without a license from the Governor of the colony. A license to shoot elephant or rhinoceros costs 500 rupees a year for a native; females and young elephants with tusks weighing less than six pounds must not be shot at all. White men will pay 100 rupees for the first elephant shot, and 250 rupees for every other, 50 rupees for the first two rhinoceroses, and 150 rupees for all after them. Monkeys, beasts of prey, boars and birds, except ostriches and secretary birds, may be killed without a license.

Gloom

Of ill health, despondency and despair, gives way to the sunshine of hope, happiness and health, upon taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it gives renewed life and vitality to the blood, and through that imparts nerve strength, vigor and energy to the whole body. Read this letter: "Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me wonderfully, changed sickness to health, gloom to sunshine. No pen can describe what I suffered. I was deathly sick, had sick headaches every few days and those terrible tired, despondent feelings, with heart troubles so that I could not go up and
