Water Authority Bill Expected Next Session

It is expected legislation providing for a water authority that would have extensive power to control water pollution in this province will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature.

Industry and Natural Resources Minister Leo Rossiter said Wednesday that the legislation has been worked on during the past few years and a draft bill has already been drawn up.

It is anticipated that the bill would provide for a Crown agency having the general powers of a corporation. Its duties would of a corporation. Its of surface, ground and sewer waters. It could allocate the use of water and provide pollution control in all parts of the province that come under the jurisdiction of the government, including the power to change water courses.

Mr. Rossiter suggested that the water authority could consist of from three to five members and an advisory board made up of representatives of various government departments.

The minister said that the proposed legislation will be discussed at an early meeting of the cabinet.

Mr. Rossiter said water pollution is getting a great deal of attention in the province, particularly since new industries that use huge amounts of water in processing are locating here.

Pointing out that this province is about the only one in Canada that does not have a pollution control authority, Mr. Rossiter said "we have the opportunity of starting on the ground floor and making a model system."

House Moved To Make Way For Building

GEORGETOWN — The building of Gulf Garden Foods Plant in Georgetown required the moving of the home of Stephen Landry from its location on Water Street, to a new site on West Street.

The move was made Wednesday when the house was hauled several blocks and placed on its new foundation.

It had been located on a hill with a steep drop in front of the house, and in order to eliminate the use of considerable blocking machines placed fill in front of the house to form a gradual slope.

A bulldozer hooked onto the two-storey building and with the use of greased skids it was on its new location in a matter of a few hours. It is also reliably reported that the summer home of Dr. Gordon Scannell, located to the east of Gulf Garden Foods, will likely be soon moved to a location outside of Georgetown, on the Brudenell River.

Roads vs. Rails Is Meet Topic

MONTAGUE — The Railway verses the all weather roads will be the topic by the guest speaker Craig Dickson, executive director of Maritime Transport Commission, at the Montague Regional Board of Trade meeting to be held tonight at the Kingsway Motel at 7 o'clock.

The board of trade for the past year or so has supported the railway in an effort to prevent the curtailment of rail service to Montague and area. However, in recent months the idea of railway service or all weather roads has more or less been the ultimatum which has been handed on to the Montague Town Council and to the board of trade.

Mr. Dickson has been asked to speak to the board and outline briefly the pros and cons of each.

Race Horse Takes Romp In Montague

MONTAGUE — Where would one expect to see a race horse? At the track, of course!

Some excitement was caused Tuesday evening in the vicinity of Montague Regional High School when a horse was seen galloping across Fraser Street toward the recently completed track at the high school. His pursuers finally caught up with him near Riverside Drive.

Later reports revealed that this beautiful "dark horse" was a two year old colt owned by Constable Ed. Downe, Montague.

merside, Egmont Bay, Wellington, Kensington and sometimes as far as Crapaud if they wish to skate.

A suggestion was made that an application for funds to erect a community centre commemorating the 1967 centennary be made in which one-half the cost of the project is paid by the federal government, one-quarter by the provincial government and the remainder by the village.

Some felt the village could not afford to operate a centre of this type and a further suggestion was made that the community erect an open air rink for now and work towards the 1967 project.

A list of winter works projects was announced for the village including work around the community race track plus erection of stables.

Some queries were raised concerning Sandy Cove Park which has been taken over by ARDA. Mr. Ripley told the meeting that following ARDA's take-over of the park the project was passed over to the department in charge of park development and that development was now at a standstill.

Alfred Gaudet then suggested that the name of the park be taken out of the provincial tourist guide book. The book stated he said, that the park contained facilities such as flushing toilets, electricity, fireplaces, when in effect none of these facilities were available.

In addressing the meeting Mr. Ripley spoke at length on the developing of small vegetable industry and used as an example, the carrot industry started in the O'Leary area this year.

DIEF OBJECTS

Mr. Diefenbaker said that if the committee's report does not produce virtual unanimity the Conservatives will revert to their demand for a plebiscite at the next general election.

Referring to the single red leaf design, Mr. Diefenbaker said:

"You mention that the recommendation may be a flag with a red maple leaf, with a white background and two bars of red. Well, all I have to say about that, aside altogether from the fact that it shows nothing of our heritage, is that it would be far from being distinctive.

PERUVIAN FLAG?

"As a matter of fact, it would be the Peruvian flag, almost entirely a replica excepting in one case you have a maple leaf and in the case of the flag of Peru, a representation of some coat of arms.

"And at a distance of 100 yards you wouldn't know which was which. If we ever get that flag, we would have the Peruvians saluting it anyway."

He said the Conservatives expect the Commons to go back to the government's original flag resolution. It called for a design of three red maple leaves on one stem against a white background with a vertical blue bar at each side.

Mr. Diefenbaker was interviewed on the program The Nation's Business by Geoff Scott of the Parliamentary press gallery.

Referring to the Queen's visit earlier this month, Mr. Diefenbaker said he blames the government for placing her in an "impossible position."

"I feel that altogether, it gave Canada a black eye internationally and I hold responsible the government of Canada for this. It should have known better, having regard to all the circumstances."

On the proposed constitutional amending formula, Mr. Diefenbaker said "what has happened here is going to be detrimental to Canada's future. It can't help but be."

Trustees Agree More Study Needed On School Tax Paper

MONTAGUE A difference of opinion on which steps to take first caused considerable discussion at a meeting of Kings County school trustees and secretaries here last night. Some wanted a paper, which was presented, sent to the department of education and others wanted it handled further by the recently formed regional high school secretaries association.

In June, a meeting held in Morell resulted in the appointment of a committee of 12 to look into the present school taxation system This committee appointed L. E. Doucette as chairman. Last night's meeting was called to discuss the findings of this committee. The committee paper declared that the present system was not fair. It showed inequalities and that the tax on real estate and the poll tax should follow t h e horse and buggy into oblivion, it was stated.

It declared that equality of opportunity for all should be the aim and the present set-up did not do this.

The paper as presented was dealt with an open discussion which became heated at times, however, the following resolution was moved and passed: "that this paper be researched and advantage taken of other sources of information and a concise, logical and valid brief be composed by the regional high school trustee association recently formed." (This association is in formation at present and held a meeting in Summerside). A further meeting of this new association is to be held in Hunter River on Saturday, Nov. 7.

It is expected that the paper will be presented and placed on the agenda.

Last night's meeting was chaired by Paul I. Kinsbury with Majorie Johnston as secretary.
