

Hon. Mr. MacLean Queried Re His Campaign Plans

OTTAWA (Special)—Pressure of lengthy cabinet meetings this week, together with a heavy schedule of departmental business, has forced Fisheries Minister J. Angus MacLean to postpone his return to Prince Edward Island until the middle of next week, the minister said Friday when asked by The Guardian's Ottawa Correspondent about his campaign plans.

"You can depend on it," Mr. MacLean said, "that I'll spend as much time as possible in the Island between next week and election day March 31. I want to visit as many centres in the province as possible and meet as many people as possible."

The Fisheries Minister admitted he had received invitations to speak in other provinces, notably New Brunswick. He will accept a number of these invitations because he wishes to make a maximum contribution to the campaign both in P. E. I. and elsewhere.

It is also incumbent on a cabinet minister to take part in the general as well as the specially localized campaign. Duties both at the Privy Council and in his department will compel Mr. MacLean to fly to Ottawa a number of times within the next seven weeks.

By an unwritten rule, there must be a quorum of four cabinet ministers on duty in Ottawa at all times. Mr. MacLean will take his regular rotation of duties here and perhaps a little more than his quota by reason of the fact that he is one representative of a dual riding.

ELECTION COMMENT

"Would you care to predict the outcome of the election?" The Guardian's correspondent asked. "Let's put it this way," said

Hay Yields With Fertilizer Depend On Many Factors

OTTAWA—Dr. B. J. Finn of the Field Husbandry Division of the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa says the intelligent use of fertilizers is as important with hay crops as with any other crop.

Among the factors to be considered in determining the quantity of fertilizer for any particular crop are the nature of the soil and the previous treatment of the land in connection with cropping. Information relevant to soil texture, drainage, lime requirements, and the availability of plant food constituents is most helpful in deciding the fertilizer needs of a crop.

To Seek Support Against Power Development

GORHAM, Me. (AP)—The president of the Maine Fish and Game Association said Friday his group will seek support of the National Wildlife Federation in its fight against a proposed international Rankin Rapids power project along the St. John River.

M. Leonard Royal said the Canadian development would be "a sacrifice of Maine's resources to supply the Canadian provinces with power."

He said the project would destroy one of Maine's best trout-fishing streams. A proposed dam would back up the Allagash River waters, making them warm and stagnant.

Royal said the Maine association will ask the federation to work for a Rankin Rapids survey to determine effects on fish and wildlife, power needs and communities which would be served.
