Pickling Vinegar and Spices.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

English Malt Vinegar—The season for Pickling Vinegar having come around again, we have just imported from London, G. B., another large supply of English Malt, which is, without doubt, the best Pickling Vinegar in the market to-day. As we import this direct ourselves, we are prepared to give extra good value in it.
White Wine Vinegar.—We have lately received a large supply of this article from one of the best Vinegar Factories in the Dominion, and we guarantee it to be strictly pure and unadulterated.
Cider Vinegar.—A stock of this nice Table Vinegar always kept on hand.
Golden Syrup Vinegar.—This is the best Table Vinegar put up in Canada, being of very fine quality and strength.
Pickling Spices.—We have just received a large quantity of Choice Mixed Pickling Spice, which we can recommend as a first-class article. It contains sixteen different kinds of highly aromatic seeds, and is mixed by an adept in the business.

Obituary.

Mrs. Mary A., the beloved wife of Daniel F. McDonald, New Perth, Lot 51, died Sept. 5, 1888. Sister M. was the eldest daughter of Robert Stevenson, Esq., South Rustico, and sister of Elder R. W. St-venson, by whom she was baptized into Christ about 7 years ago, when she became a member of the Church of Christ at Montague, of which she continued a consistent and respected member until her death. Her husband, with a little boy and girl, and many friends are left in sorrow, but not a hopeless sorrow. Death's destroyer and man's deliverer lives and reigns.
O. B. EMBRY.

Died, in Corinna, Maine, Sept. 18th, 1888, Mrs. Sarah F. Titcomb, aged 58 years and 8 months, wife of Mr. S. B. Titcomb. Mrs. Titcomb has been a resident of Corinna nearly her whole life, being the only daughter of Mr. Jonathan Knowles, of that town. Thirty-seven years ago she married Mr. Titcomb and has always been a devoted and faithful wife. For a number of years ill health has deprived her of many of the enjoyments of life, but the illness which caused her death was of only a few days duration, and this loss is a sudden and sad blow to the devoted husband and family. Mrs. Titcomb's interest in her family has been that for which she lived, her health did not permit her to mingle much with neighbors and friends, still the many who went to see her always received a cordial welcome. In her dealings she was honest in every act, finding no justification for those who used deception in any form. She was one of the best of neighbors, always willing to grant a favor, the children in the neighborhood always received a pleasant word from her, with no complaint of their childish annoyances. In former years Mrs. Titcomb embraced the Methodist faith, but of late years has been of more liberal views, with much toleration for those who differed with her. The watchful and patient care she has given Mr. Titcomb's aged father is worthy of much praise, endeavoring to have his every want ministered to, and making his last days as pleasant as human hands could make them. Rev. Mr. White, of Dexter, officiated at the funeral service, offering much consolation to the bereaved family and large circle of friends. Mr. Titcomb is well known, and will have the sympathy of an exceedingly large circle of friends in his great affliction. He is one of Corinna's most respected citizens, and many are they who mourn her loss, and sympathize with him and his afflicted family in this loss which is so great to them; but the work of the poet must seem to be almost the words of the departed wife and mother:—
"Then lift up your drooping eyelids,
And take heart of better cheer,
'Tis the cloud of coming spirits
Makes the shadow that ye fear.
Oh, they come to bear me upward
To the mansion of the sky,
And to change as I am changing,
Is to live, and not to die.
Is to leave the pain, the sickness,
And the smiting of the rod,
And to dwell among the angels
In the city of our God."

Obituary.
Died, in Corinna, Maine, Sept. 18th, 1888, Mrs. Sarah F. Titcomb, aged 58 years and 8 months, wife of Mr. S. B. Titcomb. Mrs. Titcomb has been a resident of Corinna nearly her whole life, being the only daughter of Mr. Jonathan Knowles, of that town. Thirty-seven years ago she married Mr. Titcomb and has always been a devoted and faithful wife. For a number of years ill health has deprived her of many of the enjoyments of life, but the illness which caused her death was of only a few days duration, and this loss is a sudden and sad blow to the devoted husband and family. Mrs. Titcomb's interest in her family has been that for which she lived, her health did not permit her to mingle much with neighbors and friends, still the many who went to see her always received a cordial welcome. In her dealings she was honest in every act, finding no justification for those who used deception in any form. She was one of the best of neighbors, always willing to grant a favor, the children in the neighborhood always received a pleasant word from her, with no complaint of their childish annoyances. In former years Mrs. Titcomb embraced the Methodist faith, but of late years has been of more liberal views, with much toleration for those who differed with her. The watchful and patient care she has given Mr. Titcomb's aged father is worthy of much praise, endeavoring to have his every want ministered to, and making his last days as pleasant as human hands could make them. Rev. Mr. White, of Dexter, officiated at the funeral service, offering much consolation to the bereaved family and large circle of friends. Mr. Titcomb is well known, and will have the sympathy of an exceedingly large circle of friends in his great affliction. He is one of Corinna's most respected citizens, and many are they who mourn her loss, and sympathize with him and his afflicted family in this loss which is so great to them; but the work of the poet must seem to be almost the words of the departed wife and mother:—
"Then lift up your drooping eyelids,
And take heart of better cheer,
'Tis the cloud of coming spirits
Makes the shadow that ye fear.
Oh, they come to bear me upward
To the mansion of the sky,
And to change as I am changing,
Is to live, and not to die.
Is to leave the pain, the sickness,
And the smiting of the rod,
And to dwell among the angels
In the city of our God."
