MR. AND MRS. DALE RICHARD MOORE

Married At Charlottetown Will Reside In Nova Scotia

A reception at Montgomery Hall followed the July wedding of Donna Jean Lewis to Dale Richard Moore at the Charlottetown Bible Chapel.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. Claude Lewis of York, and Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, Charlottetown.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of imported embroidered tulle, full - skirted with cascading embroidered tulle forming a chapel train. A pearl trimmed satin headpiece held her veil of nylon tulle. She carried red roses.

Patsy Lewis, as maid of honor for her sister, and Mrs. Garth Linkletter and Mrs. Harold Moore as bridesmaids were similarly gowned in pastel street - length brocade taffeta with nosegays of carnations.

Flower girl Mary Lou Moore wore a frock of yellow organdy. Ring bearer was the bride's brother, Colby Lewis.

Attending the groom was his brother, Harold Moore. Ushering were Bill Lewis and Wayne Birch.

Receiving with the bridal party at the reception, Mrs. Lewis wore a blue lace sheath, white accessories and pink roses. Mrs. Moore chose pink lace, black accessories and white roses.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Bruce Moore, the bride's uncle, and Mr. James Stahr.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore honeymooned in Ontario and the Eastern States. They will reside in Halifax where the groom will resume Pharmacy studies at Dalhousie University.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM P. GARDNER

Summer Wedding Vows Solemnized At Toronto

The Church of Our Lady of the Assumption in Toronto was the scene of a summer wedding when Mary Florence Arsenault, RN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Arsenault of Tignish became the bride of Dr. William Percy Gardner, son of Mrs. P. N. Gardner and the late Dr. Gardner of Toronto.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza and illusion lace over taffeta. A tiara of pearls and crystals held her floor-length veil of French tulle. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis and orchids.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Harold McRae, a sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Norman McHardy, Mrs. Thomas Corkum and Susan Sheridan. The flower girl was Susan McRae, a niece of the bride. The matron of honor and the bridesmaids wore identical gowns of shrimp pink silk organza over taffeta, the overskirt scattered with organza rose petals. All carried nosegays of roses and carnations. The flower girl was dressed in white silk organdy and carried a basket of pink roses and carnations.

A cousin of the groom, William Sheridan, was best man and the ushers were Norman McHardy, Matthew Bottle and Dr. Thomas Corcum. Rev. Frances Cumerty officiated at the ceremony.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of turquoise silk shantung with matching accessories and a corsage of deep pink orchids.

The mother of the groom wore a toast colored gown of lace and chiffon with matching accessories and a corsage of pale pink orchids.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Roof Garden of the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, for 125 guests.

For their four week honeymoon trip to Southern United States the bride wore a pale yellow suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Dr. Gardner graduated this year from the University of Toronto and has joined the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital in Toronto, where the young couple will reside.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Farm Is Recalled By Rows Of Cherry Trees

"I remember one day there..." James, husband of ours, will recount to us, by this, some incident from his time spent at the Fair: one of those remembered items, which even passing lightly at the moment, nevertheless remain in mind along time afterwards, even forever. The scenes, the bits and pieces of a conversation, the sounds, that leave their impressions strangely, while others seemingly so important that we should naturally retain them, just fade away.

What odd ones we pick up! We remember a farm for its long rows of cherry trees and the little pansy - faced Johnnie - jump - ups that bloomed about the door. Another, for the giant willow that shaded the wooden pump in the yard — and a veritable plantation of ribbongrass (Peter's "Whistlegrass!") along the white picketts in the garden. One had a pair of white - faced cows on the strawberried pasture, and another a well, where to open the door of the cover and look down into the always - cool, depths, was to find a face apprehensive or smiling looking up at you!

Teaching us its gospel, a traveller recalled Baltimore this way:

"Once riding in old Baltimore
Heart - filled and head - filled with glee,
I saw a Baltimorean
Keep looking straight at me.

Now I was eight, and very small
And he was no whit bigger,
And so I smiled, but he poked out
His tongue and called me, 'Nigger!'

I saw the whole of Baltimore
From May until December;
Of all the things that happened there,
That's all that I remember."

James will recall how a farmer he chatted with at the stables, "was saying that the mussel mud we used to spread on the land in springs gone, was as good as lime any day!"

A keeper of the fields - James is, the old ones of his inheritance, and the new of it, claimed from the stumplands in many an acre, a tribute to his labor at the clearing.

The farmer at the house across the lane (the younger of our two sons) will be recalling something of the line of livestock in which he is much interested — studying to improve his little herd; gaining a knowledge of genetics by noting in a sturdy calf those features good or not - so - good inherited from dam or sire. Learning continually in this husbandry, to prove or disprove his own theories, in regard to the "cultivation" of those raised on this farm.

Mack will smile and relate how he himself had "had a feeling that day when he was polishing the halters that he (or she) would stand up fairly high in the class. "What young smiles break, when a red ribbon fulfills such hopes!

Alex and Peter will be listening, Peter to nod and say, "Some day I'm going to be a farmer!... And I think!" he will add, "I'll run a great big roadmachine!"

"And how, may I ask, will you farm and 'Run a great big road - machine?'" Alex will question with a smile.

Another Tuesday of August, it is, that smiles now, before on quiet footfalls, it goes away.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good - night....
