Voters Ended 22 Years Of Liberal Governments

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A Prairie lawyer's leadership of the Progressive Conservative party changed the whole complexion of federal politics in 1957. An internationally - known diplomat now hopes to swing things back to the Liberals in 1958.

The election upset of last June 10 put Saskatchewan's John Diefenbaker, 62, into the prime minister's office. The diplomat, 60-year-old Lester B. Pearson, is hoping that an election in 1958 may do the same for him.

Canada's voters ended 22 years of Liberal government when they turned to Mr. Diefenbaker's Conservatives. But they did not give him an outright parliamentary majority, and another election is virtually certain in 1958.

NEW LIBERAL CHIEF

When the vote comes, the Liberals will have a new leader, just as the Conservatives had last election. Indications point to Mr. Pearson having the inside track when the party meets Jan. 14-16 to choose a successor to former prime minister Louis St. Laurent. Paul Martin, former health minister, is also in the running. Others, including former finance minister Walter Harris, may also be nominated.

Mr. Pearson's position undoubtedly was enhanced by the award of the Nobel peace prize for 1957, for his past work as external affairs minister.

Whatever the outcome of the leadership contest and the next election, 1957 and 1958 will go into the records as a period of the great political stirrings and changes since the 1920 decade of minority government in Canada. As that time, too, there were two general elections in successive years, 1925 and 1926.

The present two - year period may be one of record activity for Parliament, too. The 1957 pattern of sessions before and after the election likely will be repeated again in 1958, unless the combined Commons opposition defeated the government before a new session gets under way in the new year.

MAIN BATTLEGROUND

In the next election, the main battleground for control of Parliament will be in Ontario and Quebec, which return 160 of the 265 Commons members.

The Conservatives hope to expand their present 113 Commons seats into an outright majority. Thus much of their efforts will be directed to Quebec's 75 constituencies, of which they now hold only nine.

The Liberals' biggest task will be to hold their Quebec strength —64 of the 106 Liberal seats. MPs are from that province—and to recoup their election losses in Ontario where they now hold 21 seats to the Conservatives' 61.

Conservatives supplanted Liberals in 1957 as the dominant party in the Atlantic provinces, and the next contest in that area will again be a two-way battle.

WESTERN SEATS

The four Western provinces however, may settle the major political question: Will any party emerge from the election with an outright Commons majority?

The CCF and Social Credit parties have their strongholds in the West. Hopes of the two old-line parties of gaining an outright election majority could be balked if the two younger parties maintain or increase their present strength.

The CCF marked its 25th anniversary year by electing 25 MPs, including three in Northern Ontario, to come within three of the party's record high in 1945.

Social Credit reached a record Commons membership with 19 elected in Alberta and British Columbia.

Conservatives hold 21 of the 70 constituencies in the four Western provinces. The last election dropped Liberal representation in the area to eight from 25.

NEW LOOK

The cast of main characters in the next campaign will be far different from that of the 1957 battle.

Biggest change, of course, will be the absence of Mr. St. Laurent, victor in 1949 and 1953 elections, who at the age of 75 announced last September he was stepping down for health reasons.

Missing too will be most, if not all, of the nine Liberal cabinet ministers defeated June 10. The most notable absentee will be the veteran C. D. Howe.

Appreciative Audience Sees Second Performance Of Play

The second evening performance this week of the St. Dunstan's Dramatic Club presentation "Christmas on the Village Square" took place last night at the Notre Dame Academy auditorium before an appreciative audience.

In this three-act play, the author, Mr. Henri Gheon, named a group of five gypsies encamped on a village square to portray the various mysteries surrounding the Nativity of Christ.

Written in the medieval pattern, the play revolves around the efforts of this roving band of gypsies to convince the villagers that they, too, are Christians.

Playing the parts of the five gypsies were the following students, all of whom reside in Charlottetown: Olga Bowling, Maureen Beagan, Eugene Wynne, Pat McWade, and Ian MacDonald.

Produced under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, the play was directed by Rev. Adrien Arsenault of the College faculty.

P. C. Ass'n Makes Plans For Provincial Committees

Approval for the setting-up of provincial committees to advise the members and the Association executive was given at the regular monthly meeting of the Prince Edward Island Progressive Conservative Association, held at 168 Great George Street last night.

Despite the present state of the clay roads practically all provincial districts were represented at the meeting, which was chaired by the provincial president, Mr. Melvin McQuaid, Q. C., of Souris.

Each phase of administration will be represented by a special advisory committee. Included in basic issues for which distinct committees will be responsible are: agriculture, fishing, labor, health and welfare, and education.

YOUNG P.C'S. TO OTTAWA

The meeting also gave approval to the sending of a number of delegates to the national convention of the Young Progressive Conservatives, which will be held in Ottawa January 31st and February 1st. The Island representatives will be named by the P.E.I. Young P.C. Association.

It was also decided that the Association would arrange for five TV appearances during the first part of the new year on the following dates: January 20th, February 24, March 24, May 8 and June 2.

The meeting was attended by three of the four Island Members of Parliament: Dr. Orville H. Phillips, John A. Macdonald, and Heath Macquarrie. Pressure of work kept Hon. Angus MacLean, Minister of Fisheries, at his desk in Ottawa.

Former Rector Of Church Of Holy Redeemer Dies In Ont.

Rev. Archibald MacDonald, C.Ss.R., former Rector of the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer, here died yesterday in Toronto. Though in failing health for the past few years, Father MacDonald carried out active parish work at St. Patrick's in Toronto, where he was stationed following the termination of his rectorship here in 1945.

Prior to his appointment as Rector of the Charlottetown parish, Father MacDonald has been Rector of Redemptorist parishes in both London, Ontario, and Edmonton, Alberta. In earlier years he was known from coast to coast as an outstanding missionary, preaching in most of the Canadian centres of population at one time or another.

The late Father MacDonald was born in Greenfield, Ontario, 68 years ago. He was ordained priest in 1917.

Possibility Seen Of Slight Boost In Trade With Russia

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade between Canada and Russia may increase slightly as a result of the recent visit of a Soviet trade mission.

Canadian trade officials told a reporter Friday the nine-man Soviet group, which left a week ago after three weeks, came to look over Canada's products and to offer Russian goods for sale.

They felt some increase in the flow of goods between the two countries might result.

Canada is not planning to send a trade mission to Russia.

In a recent letter to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Soviet Premier Bulganin suggested Canada send a mission. In a statement in the current Soviet news bulletin, published by the Russian Embassy here, the leader of the Soviet trade mission makes a similar suggestion.

The mission leader, T. T. Ivanov, said his group's meetings with Trade Minister Gordon Churchill, government officials, Canadian businessmen and bankers "were very warm."

DESIRE FOR TRADE?

The hospitable reception accorded to us shows that there exists a mutual desire to increase the volume of Soviet-Canadian trade and to improve its structure.

"Insofar as this desire exists there is every reason to hope that good results can be achieved."

It is necessary to strengthen and broaden business contacts between Soviet foreign trade organizations and Canadian firms, said Mr. Ivanov vice-president of one of Russia's import corporations.

An important step would be a return visit by a Canadian trade mission to the Soviet Union.

A serious examination by both countries "could undoubtedly produce positive results which may enable both parties to extend this trade very substantially and to find stable markets for many commodities."

"The extension of trade which may result from all these steps would be also beneficial to the state of Canadian-Soviet relations in general, as it is quite obvious that such an extension can only improve the relations between any two countries."

HAD FOOD EXPERT

The Russians spent their time in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. Among them were experts on heavy electrical engineering equipment, food processing machinery and pulp and paper machinery.

Canadian officials said the Russians were interested in electrical engineering equipment for hydro-power plants.

U. S. Army Shows Pilotless Photo-Reconnaissance Plane

FT. MONMOUTH, N.J. (AP)—The U.S. Army Friday unveiled a pilotless, photo-reconnaissance plane that flies over enemy territory automatically taking pictures and popping its own flash bulbs.

The drone was developed to save pilot lives and cut costs of larger aircraft.

The plane is designed to fly at night behind enemy lines taking photographs as it goes and then return to its base.

A moving strip of film records the pictures, each exposure overlapping the next. As the film moves through the camera, it is synchronized to set off flares to illuminate the terrain.

Enemy gunners will have trouble knocking down the plane by visual tracking because the flares light only momentarily, the army said.

When it returns, the plane, not much bigger than a model aircraft, is lowered to the ground by an ejected parachute. The plane is patterned after the delta-wing fighter planes and has a long needle nose.

Youth Charged With Assault

The case of a Charlottetown youth who appeared in City Police Court yesterday morning on a charge of assault was remanded until December 31st by Magistrate K.M. Martin. The charge followed a Christmas Eve brawl that took place on Sydney Street near the corner of Queen.

In the scuffle, a Newfoundland seaman, Glendon Edwards, received a number of stab wounds and was taken to hospital where he remained overnight for treatment.

In the same Court a party charged with drunken driving pleaded guilty to driving whilst impaired and was fined $100 and costs and prohibited from driving in Canada for a period of three months.

The case of a person previously charged with drunken driving, adjourned from December 20, was further adjourned until January 3rd.

Two persons previously charged with the theft of a number of dressed turkeys and hams from the Co-op Supermarket were remanded until December 30.

Patients Enjoy Army Carols

The patients of Riverside Hospital enjoyed a program of Christmas Carols which was presented for their enjoyment by the Salvation Army on Monday of this week through the kindness of Senior Captain John Carter.

The program was in keeping with the festive season and it included several enjoyable trumpet solos by Harold MacRae.

At the conclusion of the concert the members of the visiting group presented each patient with Christmas treats.

This was another in the series of kindly acts which Captain Carter and his group have performed at Riverside and which are very much appreciated by the patients.

Reports Becks Entering Appeal

SEATTLE (AP)—Dave Beck's lawyer said Friday he is prepared to appeal the grand larceny convictions of the Teamster union president and his son all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Charles S. Burdell, who defended the two Becks, said a Supreme Court appeal would be based on the contention they were denied due process of law, as guaranteed by the U.S. constitution.

Burdell stressed the due process point in arguments that started Thursday before Superior Judge George H. Revelle over motions for new trials for the Becks.

The defence lawyer held that the grand jury which indicted Beck and his son was empanelled improperly. He argued further that the Becks were tried in "an atmosphere saturated with hostility" and were wrongfully denied changes of venue or postponements of their trials.

Burdell also contended that jurors in the elder Beck's trial were permitted to separate illegally and some had talked briefly with their wives when fresh clothing was delivered.

The Becks were convicted in separate jury trials of keeping a total of $6,550 from the sale of three union-owned cars.

Special Music At Zion Church Sunday Night

A service of choral and instrumental music will be presented by the combined choirs of Zion Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening at 8:00. Soloists will include Mrs. Barbara Roper, Miss Barbara Rogers, William K. Rogers and Charles Craig.

Among the works to be performed will be Benjamin Rutten's Ceremony of Carols which will be accompanied on the harp by Madame Suzanne Herasthy who will also play a group of solos.

The music will be under the direction of John Lea-Morgan, M.A., B. Mus. (Oxon) who will play groups of Christmas music on the organ.

The service will be conducted by Rev. E.C. Evans, who will read passages of scripture illustrating the Christmas Story.

Two River Records Set

FREDERICTON (CP) — Aided by freak weather conditions, two St. John River records were set Friday night when the tanker Irvinglake tied up at Fredericton.

Biggest vessel ever known to have reached Fredericton, the 3,600-ton tanker is also the only one ever known to have made the 80-mile trip during the winter.

Mild weather and heavy rains through December raised the river level and broke up ice.

Carrying petroleum products, the tanker went through the Reversing Falls Christmas Day and nosed upstream.

A tug has twice travelled as far as Public Landing, 18 miles upstream, in a January thaw, before being stopped by ice. In 1906 the Lillie made the short trip Jan. 25, and on Jan. 16, 1937, the Foremost 43 repeated the feat.

HUNGARY ON BENDER

VIENNA (Reuters)—Drunkenness in Hungary is "steadily getting worse," says the Hungarian trade union newspaper Nipakarat. The number of accidents due to drunken drivers increased by 25 per cent, the newspaper says.

P. E. I. Man Is Hurt In Crash; Condition Good

AMHERST (CP)— A Moncton newspaper photographer is still in critical condition here but four other victims of a three-car crash at Springhill Junction, N. S., early Friday are resting comfortably.

In critical condition with head injuries is Delphine Richard of Moncton's French language daily L'Evangeline. The newspaper's editor-in-chief Emery LeBlanc was considered out of danger. He has broken ribs.

Also in hospital is J. J. (Bo) Haley and Lawrence Webb of Amherst, believed occupants of the second car. A fifth man, Weston Carmody of Charlottetown was hurt when his car swerved off the road to avoid striking the cars which collided minutes earlier. R. C. M. P. said LeBlanc and Richard were only a mile from Springhill where they were to cover the million-dollar fire there when the accident occurred. Mr. Haley, an Amherst lunch counter owner, was returning here after delivering hot coffee for fighting firemen.

The hospital gave optimistic reports on the condition of the victims except for Richard who is still on the critical list.

Near Disaster From Fire Bomb

TUCKAHOE, N. Y. (AP) — Police Friday hunted a mystery man who hurled a burning firebomb into a casino where 300 teen-agers were dancing at a high school sorority party.

All escaped injury in what police described as a narrowly-averted disaster.

A policeman doused the fire and then fired two shots at a suspect, but the man sprinted to safety. The bomb, about the size of a beer can, weighed a half pound.
