IN MEMORIAM

MRS. SAMUEL LANE

A very highly regarded lady passed away at her home after a long illness, in the person of Mrs. Samuel Lane of Mount Melleck, P. E. I. on Sunday evening, March 5th.

Mrs. Lane, formerly Annie Glydon, was born at Margate, September 5th, 1881, and was a daughter of the late Frank and Eliza Rogers Glydon. In 1913 she was married to the late Mr. Samuel Lane, and since that time resided at the Lane homestead, at Mount Melleck. Unfortunately early in her married life she was overtaken by a rheumatic ailment and for the past twenty five years was a constant but patient sufferer from that disease. She always kept bright and cheerful and enjoyed having her friends visit her though she was not able to be much outside of her home. She never ceased to have an interest in the community welfare and she and her family had long been loyal and valued members of the Fownal United Church.

Her funeral was held at the home on March 7th and was very largely attended by people from a distance as well as the entire neighborhood. Rev. A. S. Weir conducted the service. Favourite hymns were sung and Mrs. Jack MacRae sang very beautifully as a solo, "There's a Land that is Fairer than Day." Members of her family left to mourn her passing are her son Lodge, and Eliza Lane, both at home, both of whom with her daughter-in-law, gave her loving care to the last. One brother, also survives, Mr. Turner Glydon, of Margate, who attended the funeral.

Her husband predeceased her following an accident, about twelve years ago. Mrs. Lane will long be kindly remembered by a large circle of friends.

Interment took place in Fownal Church Cemetery. The pall bearers were, Messrs. Frank Jones, Wilbur Jones, Russel Docherty, Albert Johnston, Ilett Richards and Arnold Bruce.

ST. PATRICK'S SOCIAL AT COVEHEAD

A delightful social evening was spent in Covehead community Hall in the form of a St. Patrick's Party, which was sponsored by Covehead-Young Peoples Union.

The hall was gaily decorated with green shamrocks and streamers, and a large number were in attendance. The program was in charge of Helen MacMillan, Erma Hughes and Verma MacLauchlan, and started off with an Irish contest followed by games, relay races and other contests. Mr. Wilbur Robinson sang several Irish songs, which were much enjoyed by all. An enjoyable part of the programme was a "Share the Wealth Contest" with Allison MacMillan as Master of Ceremonies. Each guest was given a shamrock to wear on his lapel, with a number written on it as each number was called the contestants came forward to pick out his question. The oscar prize was won by Mrs. Lorne Kelly. A dainty lunch was served, bringing a pleasant evening to a close.

of about 1,000 strikers and students attempting to halt rush-hour traffic by pulling trolleys or smashing windows. Three of the strikers were trampled by the horses.

This was the Interior Ministry's answer to hours of disorder from the strike, protesting the possible return of exiled King Leopold III. The street cars were manned by members of the pro-Leopold Christian Workers' Union.

The police blow came in the Porte de Namur, a large square in upper Brussels.

The three youths knocked down in the mounted charge escaped with minor bruises. The known injured totalled nine.

Minor Trouble Elsewhere

There was some minor trouble elsewhere in the country. A power plant explosion shut off all electrical power in the town of Ghent, but officials said it was accidental.

The country's two-week political crisis reached a climax late in the day when Regent Prince Charles, brother of the King, summoned Franz Van Cauwelaert to work out a solution.

Van Cauwelaert is a veteran Social Christian leader. If asked to form a government he is expected to name an all-Social Christian cabinet pledged to bring Leopold back from Switzerland as soon as possible. It is doubtful, however, that such a government could get a vote of confidence from Parliament. Parliament meets Tuesday.

Mobile guards established strong cordons around all government buildings. Truckloads of guardsmen, many carrying machine-guns, sped to the nerve centres of the capital.

Riot Follows Parade

The riot developed from a parade of 15,000 persons. About 500,000 workers are estimated to have been called out in the strike—for a 24-hour period starting at 5 a.m.—to express their distaste for the monarch who surrendered to the Germans after only 18 days of fighting in 1940.

Business activity in the country was divided to match its political coloring. In the Flemish-speaking north, even in the Antwerp dock areas, there was no strike and no disorder.

In the French-speaking south, entire towns and areas closed down.

Strikers stoned street cars and smashed their windows. Two policemen were punched. At least one motorman who fought back was severely mauled.

CANADIAN VOLUNTEERS

Before the end of the South African War more than 7,000 volunteers went to South Africa from Canada.
