Town Policeman Gets Assistant

GEORGETOWN — Dennis Clory of Georgetown was appointed assistant police constable to town policeman Allison Grover.

The appointment was made following a special meeting of the Georgetown Town Council on Saturday night. At the council's last meeting the matter of selecting and recommending a person for the position was delegated to the police committee. Mr. Clory, who was sworn in following the meeting, was recommended by this committee.

This action by the council to re-inforce law inforcement in Georgetown is said necessitated by a continuance of lawlessness and vandalism, which runs the gauntlet of most known offences, from destruction of gardens and public property to obstruction and assault of the town policeman.

Visits Again After 50 Yrs.

Mrs. Allan MacLeod of Beach Point, P.E.I., has as her guest her neice, Stella Anderson of Chatham, Cape Cod, Mass., whom she hadn't seen since Mrs. Anderson visited her as a child 50 years ago.

Mrs. Anderson is the daughter of the former Martha Williams of Beach Point, a sister of Mrs. MacLeod.

While here, Mrs. Anderson has met many cousins at Murray Harbor and White Sands whom she had never seen, and also visited friends at Commercial Cross.

P.E.I. reminded her, she said, of the fishing industry so popular in Chatham, Mass. The beautiful rolling fields and farms greatly impressed her, she said, and most of all, the kind and generous hospitality of its people.

Lack Of Reading Interest Seen Major Dropout Cause

Approximately 25 delegates attended the Eastern Conference of the Home and School Association at the Charlottetown Hotel Saturday.

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick each had 10 delegates with five delegates representing the Island.

Chairman of the morning session was Dr. Remi Chaisson with Mrs. Audrey Van Sickle, Ontario, national executive - secretary, leading discussions on "Children's Reading" and "Tillicum." Mrs. Van Sickle suggested that books be introduced to children at an early age to improve their reading habits.

The first afternoon session was chaired by Mrs. Mary Nelson. A discussion on "Audio - Visual" was led by Cliff Edwards. Mrs. Marjorie Hallman led a discussion on "Communications and Public Relations" Mrs. Hallman, New Glasgow, N.S. is the family life chairman.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Following a brief coffee break the second session of the afternoon was conducted by Mrs. Hosta MacDonald. Two more discussions, one on "School Life" and another on "Quest" were led by Mrs. Olive Glaubitz, Ontario, national chairman of school life committee and by Jack Sands Shelburne, N.S., Eastern vice - president, respectively.

Proper atmosphere and plenty of space were previously stated by Mrs. Glaubitz as important factors to be provided by parents for their children. She is also of the opinion that teachers cannot co - operate with parents unless the parents meet them half way.

"Quest" is the official magazine or newspaper of the federation. Promoting subscriptions to "Quest" was one of the special projects undertaken by the P.E.I. Federation of Home and School Associations in the past year.

Ray Thompson, Saint John, N.B., conducted the evening session which included another group discussion and an evaluation by Dr. K. A. Parker.

CENTENNIAL PROJECT

The Centennial project of the federation is concerned with the distressing number of Canadian children denied full growth of mind and spirit for lack of books in the home. This was called one of the major causes behind school drop - outs, unfilled minds and human failures.

The federation is waging a vigorous public information drive, using every media, in an attempt to reach every parent over the next two years. They hope to alert parents to the responsibility of developing in their children an interest in books and to improve the reading habits of their boys and girls. An expert and practical parents' guide, with helpful hints and suggestions for a home bookshelf, is available free of charge.

The sponsors, Canadian Home and School and Parent - Teacher Federation, represent ing 3,800 local Home and School associations from coast to coast voted by a wide majority to make this a $50,000 centennial campaign.
