the extent of their losses. But there were thousands of traps lost and miles of rope destroyed. At Tignish Run alone over 3,000 traps were lost and it was believed that fully half of the 14,000 that were out were gone in the storm.

In addition there were three boats at North Cape which were driven ashore and badly damaged on the rocks. It was the same story everywhere, though in a less degree as the worst of the damage seemed to be concentrated in the section from Alberton to Tignish.

But the South Shore fishermen did not escape and they too suffered comparatively heavy losses. It was estimated that nearly one-quarter of their gear was wrecked in storms. In some sections fishermen had to give up as they could not repair damaged gear before the end of the season. It meant an extremely heavy loss to men who depend mainly on lobsters for their living.

SOVIET CHARGES

thing else in years. As news of the Russian version was broadcast from Moscow a mob was demonstrating in front of the Russian embassy. Mounted police drove off the crowd after some three firecrackers at the building.

The Russian note as heard over Radio Moscow, said in part: "On June 16 of this year at six a. m. a Swedish military aircraft violated the stated frontier of the Soviet Union in the area of Ristn Cape on the Island of Dagoe. . . . "A group of Soviet aircraft several times demanded that the Swedish aircraft should follow it to land in an airfield.

"The violating aircraft did not obey the command and opened fire against the Soviet aircraft. After the leading Soviet fighter replied to the fire, the Swedish military aircraft flew towards the sea.

"The Soviet Government declares a protest to the government of Sweden against the gross violation by the Swedish military aircraft of the Soviet frontier."

There was no immediate official reaction to the Russian charges. Earlier, the Swedish naval command ordered two minesweepers to reinforce a frigate anchored near Gotga Sandon, 80 miles southeast of Stockholm and in the middle of the Baltic, where the missing plane was believed to have crashed.

Owing to the death of R. T. White, the store will be closed until Wednesday. Opening Thursday morning.

mission to study the whole grain-handling situation in Canada, including the possibility that the Canada Grain Act is being circumvented by the trade.

4. Amendment to the act on the question of grain overages. Overages are tiny amounts of grain caused by discrepancies in weighing at elevators. Farmers charge grain companies have accumulated profits by short-weighting producers.

5. Make the transport controller's job permanent.

6. Expand Canadian Wheat Board membership to include wheat producer representation at the policy level and shift responsibility for grain marketing from the trade to the Agriculture Department.

National Emergency

The brief said that though some farmers are prospering, others have been hit by recent declines in dairy prices. The cattle industry had experienced price declines before foot-and-mouth disease was discovered. The disease had thrown it into a "chaotic condition."

The government should treat the livestock industry as "a national emergency." A national marketing board should be established with power to set and enforce "equitable" floor prices.

Prices for domestic goods would be fixed "having due regard to the cost of goods and services required by a farmer in maintaining production."

"The exportable portion of the products might be sold for either a higher or lower price, or it might be desirable and an advantage at times to exchange at least a portion of the surplus food products for other goods on a more or less straight barter basis.

"Under certain circumstances barter becomes practical, we believe, when rates of exchange or the lack of a satisfactory medium or money do not readily facilitate trade."

Up-to-date Quarters For Horne Motors Ltd

The old Arena Rink building on Fitzroy Street, which had been used as a Government garage for several years and by Horne Motors Ltd. since their disastrous fire last year, is rapidly assuming the shape and interior qualities of an up-to-date garage and showroom.

During the winter months workmen have been doing what will be called "an inside job," as they erected the necessary four brick walls placed on the cement floor and lined up the various departments necessary for a complete job while garage work went on as usual. Only a portion of the old roof was retained to cover the new building, while the old south front has been removed entirely and the sidewalks are being taken down to reveal the finished products, as far as the exterior is concerned.

The new building is 165 by 70 feet with offices and a showroom on Fitzroy Street by the main entrance with space for two cars.

Twelve working stalls have been provided for the repairs department with three twin hoists for undercoating, lubricating and general use. When the thirty feet of space at the north end has been completed, with cement floor, the north wall will be taken down leaving a 30 foot driveway across the rear and allow for a parking lot 40 by 120 and outlets to both Weymouth and Fitzroy Streets in addition to the main entrance.

Interesting new equipment already installed and in operation includes "Visualizer" aids in the aligning of wheels. The car is run onto a special pit with equipment for the "readings" set dead ahead of each wheel. As adjustments are made the customer may watch on illuminated scale enlarged on a screen and observe the corrections made by a series of adjustments which leave no doubt in the mind of the owner as to what actually takes place in the operation. Other modern improved mechanical appliances will be installed as the building nears completion.

day evening as well as playing as a massed band during an intermission at the Maritime Track and Field Meet at Memorial Field, Tuesday, July 1st.

The night of Tuesday, July 1st will be the night of the Highland Pipe Band here again as many Highland bands as possible, will take part and it is hoped the Lads' and Lassies' Band will perform.

Topping off a real evening for all will be Highland dancing contests for novices in Highland Fling and Sword Dance and for juniors, intermediates and seniors in Highland Fling and Sword Dance along with an exhibition reel.

As a finale Miss Prince Edward Island of 1952 will be crowned and then escorted through the city headed by all available bands and fire engines, etc. Yes, it would appear that due recognition is being given the Scots this year—doubtless every Islander in his or her blood will be in Charlottetown for the pipes and watching the swing of the kilts.

Isadore

Farewell beloved friend
 'Tis my last farewell to you,
 May your spirit to Heaven ascend
 Among the good and true.

'Tis hard to say farewell to thee
 Dear friend of long ago,
 A vision of your smile I see
 And tears regretfully flow.

The warm handshake and greeting King's twinkles in your eye,
 'Til cherish ever in my mind
 Tho' from my heart there'll come a sigh.

Your kindly friends, when passing by
 For empty lawn chair see,
 As some of the tears they all will try
 For there no more you'll be.

In St. Mary's on the hillside
 There is a mound so newly made,
 There forever you will abide
 In the church yard's quiet shade.

From St. Mary's on the hillside
 Methinks I heard your requiem chanted,
 "May his soul in peace abide
 And peace and light be on him granted."

Weather Seriously Affecting Potato Planting Operations

Despite the high price currently being paid for potatoes everywhere and the anxiety of growers to get this season's crop started, it is believed that less than half the normal quantity have been planted to date. The adverse weather is the cause of the delay to many farmers as the potato sets cannot be put in wet, cold ground.

While there has not yet been a great deal of rotting or "misses" in the sets, the danger will arise in the case of late planting when the sets may have been cut for some time before the grower can get them in. At present it is felt by men closely connected with the potato industry that the situation is serious and likely to grow more so unless there is a distinct weather change for the better.

This year there will be a great increase in the planting here of the two newly developed blight-resistant varieties, Keswick and Canso. These types were developed at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Fredericton, N. B., and this year were sold for seed to growers in the four Atlantic Provinces.

Big Increase in Cansos

In Prince Edward Island there will be a big increase in the quantity of the Canso type, probably up to 100 per cent.

Mrs. Regina Haslam and Mrs. John Hickox put on a very interesting program, "Did You Know" facts about Springfield and other points in P. E. I., with Mrs. Hickox reciting the poem "Twilight On Abegweit" by L. M. Montgomery. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess and committee in charge.

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—The humidity stood at 100 per cent for three hours here today, accompanied by fog. During the three-hour period, from 5 to 8 a. m. EDT, the temperature was around 70 degrees.
