Century Club Gives $14,000 To Prince County Hospital

R. A. Horne, chairman of finance, Prince County Hospital reported to the Board of Trustees at their regular monthly meeting, Thursday, November 21 that Century Club members now total 52 and contributions of $14,500 have been received. This represents 65 per cent of the desired objective and compares with donations of over $16,000 at this time last year. He was optimistic of attaining the objective but reminded all board members solicitations would have to be stepped up and all prospects advised of the urgency of the matter. A second listing of Century Club members was released for publication.

He reported that for the second time in past few months a small surplus on monthly operations had accrued, the surplus for month of October being $224.00 brought about by increased utilization, the average daily occupancy for month being 73 adults and children and 16 new born, a high of 98 adults and children, and 19 newborn being reported for one day.

The deficit for the ten-month period of $41,000.000 was some $5,000.00 less than in the comparable of 1956, and would have been considerable lower except for additional expenditures necessitated in providing for an isolation unit in earlier months.

Operating income was $318,446.00 and expenditures $359,486.00. The bank overdraft of $151,709.00 reflected an increase of $20,000.00 when compared with October 1957. Collections on accounts receivable were some $20,000.00 higher for the two months than in some period of 1956, which represents the increased fees to patients effected by a change in rates at January 31, 1957.

The chairman of nursing education reports that the preliminary students were now being assigned to ward services for one hour daily.

Short Phone Call Could Put This Country At War

By DAVE McINTOSH

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — "Colorado Springs here. Thirty hostile bombers are over area B. Have we your permission to put plan Q into effect?"

All right plan Q."

This is an imaginary conversation of all the consultation that would be necessary between the joint Canada-U.S. air defence command at Colorado Springs, Colo., and Ottawa to send RCAF squadrons into combat in event of a transpolar bombardment attack on North America.

Air Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes said Friday in the Commons, it would be only a matter of clearance of a plan already approved in advance by the Canadian and United States governments.

And the minister said earlier this week the clearance could be obtained from Ottawa in a "very few minutes."

Enough statements now have been made by Mr. Pearkes in the Commons and by other defence officials outside it to make clear the type of plans being formulated to deal with an attack and how these plans would be put into effect.

DRAWING UP PROCEDURES

At Colorado Springs, Gen. Earle Partridge of the U.S. Air Force, joint headquarters commander, and his deputy, RCAF Air Mar hal Roy Slemon, now are drawing up procedures which would be put into immediate effect if an air assault on North America developed.

These plans will take care of various circumstances such as the size of the attack, its avenue or avenues of approach, the amount of warning time available and the positions of the defending fighter squadrons.

For instance, not all fighter squadrons would be ordered into the air to deal with an attack by 10 planes headed toward Edmonton.

Once the plans have been completed by Gen. Partridge and Air Marshal Slemon and their staffs, they will be submitted to the Canadian and American chiefs of staff for study and approval.

Then they will go to the two governments for approval.

The plans will list by a code word the all-the possible avenues lities and beside them the means of dealing with each.

FIELD BACK SQUADRON

For example, in event of a 50-bomber attack on a course over Labrador, the plans might call for U.S. Air Force squadrons in Newfoundland and RCAF squadrons at Bagotville and St. Hubert in Quebec to be ordered into combat while the two squadrons at Ottawa were held back in case of the possibility of another raid developing farther west.

Officials say the plans will have to ensure that there are no mistakes. Unidentified planes will have to be positively identified as hostile before the shooting starts. Possibly, the chance of a pilot creating an incident which might lead to worse events must be cut to a minimum.

In any case, the Canadian prime minister or the acting prime minister will always be on hand here for a direct telephone call from Colorado Springs.

The prime minister or his deputy would be fully acquainted with the air defence plans and in a few seconds would be able to give his decision on the military advice received from Colorado Springs.

Meanwhile, the fighter squadrons would not be waiting on the ground for this decision.

At the first sign of attack, they would be ordered into the air by their respective Canadian or American commanders.

They would thus be ready in the air for interception at the moment they received their orders. If the attack did not materialize, they would return to base.

One senior RCAF officer said the decision to attack will not rest with individual pilots. It will rest with military leaders in the first instance but with the civilian authority in the final analysis.

One Of Oldest Residents Of Province Dies At Age Of 98

Thomas Doyle, one of the oldest residents of the Province, passed away yesterday afternoon at his home in Campbellton, Lot 7, Mc. Doyle, lived all his life on the old Doyle homestead where he was born and was hale and hearty until about a year ago when he became permanently bedfast.

His mental faculties, however, remained keen, and, up to a few hours before he passed away, he was able to receive visiting friends and converse with them on all the current topics as well as reminisce clearly on notable events of the past century. His short illness and natural end came to share in his generous hospitality. Their admiration for "Tommy" Doyle will long linger in the memory of his many friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Doyle was predeceased by his wife, nee Catherine Hammill, twenty-one years ago, and of the eight children born to them, seven survive, namely, Mrs. Lucina Walsh, Miss Anna., Reginald, in Boston, Peter E. in Victoria, B.C.; Mrs. Edward S. Griffin (Mary), in Burton, Lot 7; Mrs. Frank Butler (Ada), in Glengarry; and Vernon, on the homestead in Campbellton. One daughter, Miss Josephine, died in Boston almost three years ago.

The late Father Patrick Doyle, nationally known for his original Irish wit, was an uncle of the deceased.

Mr. Doyle will be buried in the family plot of St. Mark's Cemetery, Lot 7, the date of the funeral to be announced when arrangements are completed.

SUM-HI-NOTES

Council Plans Are Put Before Student Assembly

The High School students had different and interesting assembly program this week. Cecilia Darby, president of the Students Council took over. Mr. Mercer's place very capably on the program. She introduced the Glee Club, who sang a sea-chanty "Away for Rio"; and Patsy Maclellan and Marion Hunter, both grade twelve students who attended the Girl Guides Centenary Camp at Doe Lake this summer.

Patsy told of the trip to the camp which included a day of sight-seeing in Montreal and of the excursions while at camp. The Guides partook of many kinds of recreation and had the opportunity of meeting Countess Bernadotte from Sweden.

Next on the program, Joan Ramsay, Grade Eleven played Beethoven's peasant dance "Land Rover."

Cecilia introduced each council member in their classroom order and each rose from his place at the platform. She also introduced Lloyd Simmons, a Grade Nine teacher who is the council advisor.

PROJECTS

Cecilia proceeded to list the project which the council plans to undertake this year. They are the buying equipment for a girls' basketball team and hockey equipment for the school team. As well as these, the school magazine "The Embers" must be edited, the ice sports and formal dances organized. Presently they are selling school savers as part of the councils duty of promoting school spirit.

For everything the council undertakes, they must have the students support and "to get behind" their classroom representatives. On behalf of the Christmas Forum, to be held on the 23rd of December, she urged the boys to invite the girls early and extended ed invitation to parents.

Next week's program will be conducted by Mr. Rice and will be attended by members of the latest school.

Another subject at the club meeting, was the question of trolleys for the High School Auditorium. It was stated that two delegates be appointed that the club would furnish these. Lion Eric Jessome who was one of the delegates stated that it was possible he had stated this would be done, and so he had spoken without authority of the club. Lion Russ Furness stated that this had been spoken and now we should go ahead. A motion was made to have this done.

Lion Eric Jessome spoke on the matter stating that he was against any donation to the schools, as this was a matter for the trustees of the school. He stated that schools were the responsibility of the taxpayers, and service clubs should upend their funds on charitable work. Rather than work which he felt was the responsibility of the taxpayers. He stated that a motion was before the club, with no definite amount of money and this could lead to the club being forced to donate. The funds, and more, on a project that he felt was charitable work, and was not the work that a service club.

A Committee was appointed to look into the cost of these trolleys, and report back to the next meeting.

Metropolitan

"A word about Saturday's TV panel on which Parkdale have refused to participate. Their statement in the press was my first intimation of their refusal.

"Several weeks ago our committee met to discuss ways and means of giving the widest possible distribution to information available on amalgamation. Our purpose was to have every resident in the area hear both sides of the argument. The TV panel was one of the methods on which the committee agreed. It was also agreed that Parkdale and Spring Park pay $75 each and the City pay a larger amount.

"Spring Park sent a $75 cheque. The City agreed to pay $250. Nothing came from Parkdale and the first TV panel, which had been arranged, had to be cancelled.

SUGGESTED PANEL

"Then Spring Park urged that a panel be put on so as to get information to those who could not attend the public meetings. The panels were to be confined to two periods, each of one-half hour, and I was asked to draw up suggestions for the Committee on two programs.

"The Metropolitan Press is not entirely with our Committee's report. The second panel was to deal primarily with the question of services.

"The following questions were to be directed to the representatives of Parkdale:

"(Similar questions were to be directed to the Spring Park representatives concerning their area. Corresponding questions from the City Council were also to be asked somewhat similar questions concerning both areas). Can Parkdale provide these services"

In what areas of Parkdale will the services be provided?

How much will these services cost the village?

How will the Village finance the cost of further extensions to these services as the build-up in the Village continues?

How much money will be left over to permit improvement in other required services such as fire fighting equipment, street lighting, water services, sidewalks, special police protection, planning for recreational areas.

This is information that must be available to all interested citizens. I doubt that this could be misconstrued as "where the questions and answers are to be rehearsed, and could confuse the issue as well as the public" as stated by the Parkdale commissioners to the Press.

COMMITTEE'S METHOD

Since aspersions have been cast on the way our Committee's report was compiled, I want to clarify the method.

"The Committee in order to study particular problems set up sub-committees with equal representation from the three areas concerned and the Board of Trade. These were fact finding groups to bring to the attention of the Metropolitan Committee all pertinent information. Each subcommittee made its report before the whole Committee. In the presence of sub-committee members the Metropolitan Committee then went to work at tearing apart the report and separating trimmings and window dressings from the basic essentials. This Committee was dealing with basic requirements for each and every service and were comparing the same with what Charlottetown had or was about to get, and not what some other Cities had. Then, with the members of the sub-committee in attendance, agreement was reached as to the basic requirements for each ervicing the whole Metropolitan area.

"Our committee hopes the Parkdale commissioners will tell their voters how they will finance services if the voters in their area decide to continue on their own. They have not told our committee.

not see why this "temporary employee" had received a $1,000 bonus for effeciency" when tax notices to employers respecting education tax deductions had been sent out several months late.

"All should be treated alike," declared Councillor Gormley who voiced strong objection to any proposal allowing certain groups of employees to pay their education tax arrears on a weekly percentage basis, considering that fact that others had already been garnisheed for the full amount.

Councillor O'Neill observed that he had supported the motion for payment of the $1,000 bonus, "because I always support increases in pay to employees." In this case the Councillor felt that he had erred "In retrospect, I don't think it (the bonus) should have been paid," he said.

The Mayor noted that a conference held early in the spring had "clearly outlined" the duties of the various officials.

"It was the duty of the Tax Collector to get out these notices on time," His Worship said.

NO APOLOGY

"I make no apology to the public, the Council, or anyone else, for recommending this increase." Councillor Johnstone said. "Anyone who says that he (the Tax Collector) is not doing a good job, doesn't know what he is going on, or is beloudding the issue."

Councillor Gaudet observed that this form of inducement had been part of the terms of service under which the present incumbent had taken the position of Tax Collector.

Several members of Council objected strongly to this assertion. Councillor McCormac pointing out that this part of the terms of service were not contained in the minutes of the Council meeting dealing with this appointment.

Councillor Gormley inferred that many others would have applied for the position at the time it was advertised had they realized that the salary would rise to the present level.

Councillor O'Neil asserted that a solution to problem would be to pay the collector on a commission basis, similar to that which a company pays a salesman.

a record of givings and the hope was expressed that 1957 would see an increase over that banner year.

The chief item of business was appointing of collectors for the Kensington area and these were appointed as follows:

Town of Kensington, Mrs. Eric Sudsbury, Everett Donald, Mrs. Chas. Adams, Libby Schurman, Roscoe Walker, Robert Carruthers, Miss Olive Thompson, Mrs. Ben Burns, Boyd Cotton, Nancy Brown, Mrs. Ivan Bowness.
