

CAMARO BY CHEVROLET

— the four-place driving machine from Chevrolet that's as new as now. With elliptical body styling. You build it the way you want. In three basic versions: the Camaro; The Rally Sport Camaro with hideaway headlights; and the big, bold SS 350 Camaro, a car of a different stripe. Power runs up to the SS 350's exclusive new 295-hp V8. Round dial instruments, bucket seats, Chevrolet's safety features — all standard. Add four-on-the-floor, disc brakes and take off from your Chevrolet dealer's for sporty action.

New Quick-Size '67 Chevelle's eager to go your kind of places. And the going's in rhythmic lines flowing from grille to taillight. Take one out at your Chevrolet dealer's. Find a country road. Or busy city street. And let easy-to-park Chevelle for '67 prove that luxury goes along in a car made for driving. Strato-bucket front seats with the Sports Option; deep-pile carpeting; standard 140-hp Six and 195-hp V8; these are just a sample of new, Quick-Size Chevelle's luxury and performance offerings for 1967.

Chevy II Nova Super Sport Coupe

'67 CHEVY II

Now! Chevy II's good looks are even more exciting than its outstandingly thrifty ways. And how could economy possibly be dull when power choice runs from a gas-sipping 120-hp Six to a meaty 275-hp V8. Inside, even more indulgences begin. Change is all over — except in Chevy II's value. Drive it. Chevy II's all dressed up and waiting to be your economy-car-of-the-year!
