ALMOST A MIRACLE

Strange Case of Kidney Disease Reported at Smith's Falls.

SMITH'S FALLS, Aug. 27.—One of the most remarkable cures ever performed by Dodd's Kidney Pills was that of Mrs. George Barnes of this town. Mrs. Barnes was afflicted with Female Weakness and Urinary Trouble resulting from Kidney Disease. The disease had also a serious effect on her senses of sight and hearing, for at times Mrs. Barnes would be exceedingly deaf and short-sighted.

Mr. Barnes gives an account of her case for publication:—"I have consulted a doctor," she writes, "who gave me medicine that seemed to make me worse at times. I was told of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I got one box. I have used part of the box and am completely cured, and strange to say both my hearing and eyesight are now unaffected."

It never pays to be mean.

IN A CHINESE THEATRE.

It had long been my ambition to visit a Chinese theatre, and so one evening we sallied forth under the wing of a fairly clean but necessarily fat, merchant of my husband's acquaintance. I say "necessarily," because this Chinaman was exceedingly wealthy and prosperous; and it is a well known fact in China that no one can possibly increase the magnitude of his worldly-possessions without at the same time increasing his chest and waist measurement. It is quite ridiculous to suppose a thin man can be well-to-do. It was this man who said to my husband: "You belong to muchee thin; no catchee good chance; bime by plenty fat; face plenty fat; must catchee good chance." He meant to imply that at present he was much too thin to be prosperous, but that by-and-by his face would become fat and his coffers full.

Well, we arrived at the theatre, a most unimposing-looking structure in a side street, turning to the roadway only a thick whitewashed wall with one low, dark hole cut in the centre for an entrance, for all the world like a Chinese pawnshop. We were the centre of observation, and loud and personal remarks were passed upon our appearance. Of course, I knew I was out-gauging their idea of propriety by appearing there at all, as no respectable Chinese woman ever enters such a place; but a Chinese opinion is the last thing in the world one considers when living in China, and I wanted a new experience. After all, I have only a recollection of a sea of round, puffing faces, and an atmosphere which reeked everything unpleasant, and on the stage was proceeding the never ending play that generally continues for about a year. I could make little of it, only every one seemed to look very fierce, and to strike attitudes, and all the women's parts were taken by men.

Then at intervals weak tea, without milk or sugar, was handed round in little bowls with lids on, and again at intervals "the rag" appeared. This was a cloth wrung out in boiling water, and passed along the line, and every one wiped his perspiring face upon it and handed it on to his next neighbor. The fat merchant was on my right, and after going through the usual ceremony, he passed it on to me. I had managed the tea, but the rag I could not, so I bowed and smiled and passed it to my husband, and he—brave man pretended to wipe his face, and it disappeared down the line. It was an experience, and a fresh sensation is always something to be grateful for; but I was very ill that night.

QUEER PEOPLE.

These are the people upon whom we are trying to force Western ideas of civilization, of religion, of go-a-head-ness generally. We expect them to enrage their Fung Shuey or ground Joss by the construction of railways over his territory; to forget and insult their Josses, Joss-houses and images by the adoption of the religion of Christ; to do away with the blessed refuge for all criminals, the priesthood, by depriving their Jossmen of a living; to acknowledge themselves an inferior and behindhand people by the adoption of our modern machinery in their cotton and paper mills, in place of the old hand labour system which helps to feed China's teeming millions; to do away with their exclusiveness, their placid content in themselves, by forcing them to open their ports to foreign commerce. Perhaps from these few recollections of several years lived amongst the Chinese, being as much in touch as a "foreign devil mission" ever is with what Mr. Tasspartit calls "their inner workings," some slight idea may be gleaned of the revolution before they can take happily to our own notion of up-to-date civilization. And, should it ever come about, will they be any the happier for it?

PREPARING FOR WAR.

The New York Journal's London special says: England firmly believes that France is preparing for hostilities, and a thoroughgoing "war scare" has seized upon the nation.

Provincial papers have been harping on this scheme for some days, and at last the Pall Mall Gazette makes the statement editorial that the French are getting ready to fight.

The newspapers that have called attention to the active French military and naval preparation point to the laying in of supplies of coal, the strengthening of fortified seaports, the increasing of the navy, the stationing of more ships at Calais, Brest and the Channel ports, the arranging for extension autumn manoeuvres close to the coast towns, and the unusual activity on land and sea.

What has specially "scared" the English are the French experiments with submarine boats, whilst France is believed to have several effective ones.

The first official recognition of this state of things came recently, when orders of the English Admiralty for increasing the Channel fleet became known. It is the custom to keep a large portion of the home squadron in reserve and out of commission at naval stations. All the usual naval reserve squadron will now be put into commission.

The newest and best battleships and cruisers are to be kept in a constant state of readiness. The home fleet will be divided into two squadrons, one never to leave the coast; the other never to go further than Gibraltar.

Many ships are to be fitted out with wireless telegraphy, and the channel is to be patrolled by torpedo boats.

ley after the relief expedition of 1860 had got ready to move on Peking. Lord Elgin sent word there would be no further negotiations until after the release of the envoys. Prince Kung, in his next communication, judged the issue, but declared that the envoys had been well treated. The advance was then begun. General Gordon reached the city walls on October 6. Prince Kung was given 12 hours to open one of the gates. Just before the time limit expired Prince Kung gave up. The gates were opened, and those of the prisoners who survived were brought out in iron cages. Thirteen had died under terrible torture and the survivors were in a condition beyond description. This was what inspired the terrible pillage and ruin that followed, including the burning of the summer palace, and the destruction or looting of $20,000,000 worth of stationary and movable property. "We could not plunder them properly," Gordon said in his reports. "Gold ornaments were burned, being mistaken for brass. It was wretchedly demoralizing work for an army. Everybody was wild for plunder." When the treaty conceded by China was finally signed, it embraced a provision for the payment of an indemnity of $14,000,000; $50,000 for the support of the family of each Englishman who had died in captivity, and $2,500 for the family of each native soldier who had died in captivity.

BISHOP STOLE A CHINAMAN.

London Chronicle.

It may not be generally known that Dr. Moorhouse, bishop of Manchester, once stole a Chinaman, but the offense was committed in his Australian days when he was bishop of Melbourne, so that he is probably saved by the statute of limitations. The Presbyterian young Mongolian named Cheok Hong Cheong, trained him in their theological hall, helped him to the degree of B. A. at the Melbourne University, and made him an elder of the kirk. But one evening Mr. Cheong happened to speak at a missionary meeting, with Bishop Moorhouse in the chair, and the speaker with such ability that the chairman was deeply impressed. Shortly afterward it was announced that Mr. Cheong had been appointed superintendent of the Church of England missions to the Chinese in the diocese of Melbourne. There was naturally a noise in the Presbyterian camp, and a sharp protest was suggested, but Mr. Cheong passed from the Presbyterian to the Anglican fold with Oriental serenity. Mr. Cheong still holds the office to which Bishop Moorhouse appointed him.

GATHMANN GUN A WONDER.

EXCEEDS REQUIREMENTS IN A TEST WITNESSED BY GEN. MILES.

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 24.—The 18-inch Gathmann torpedo gun mounted by the Bethlehem Steel Company, for which the Government appropriated $65,000, withstood successfully all tests at the company's proving grounds to-day, and more than met the Government's requirements. The Board of Ordnance demanded that ten shots be fired, and that the tests show a pressure of 18,000 pounds and a velocity of 1,800 feet per second. Solid shots weighing 1,000 lbs. were fired. After two preliminary shots the third shot, with a charge of 19,045 pounds of powder, gave a pressure of 18,000 lbs. and a velocity of 1,800 feet, while the fourth shot with the same amount of powder gave a velocity of 1,901 feet and a pressure of 19,350 pounds. The rest of the shots will be fired next week. The tests were witnessed by Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles and many officials of the Ordnance Bureau.

Gen. Miles said he was well satisfied with the result of the test. The gun is the largest ever made in the United States, being 44 feet long and weighing fifty-nine tons. It is intended for coast defense.

A Victim of Piles

For 20 Years—A Constant Sufferer from Bleeding and Protruding Piles—Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

In vain did Mrs. Jas. Brown, of Hantsburgh, near Ottawa, search for a cure for piles. In Europe and America she tried every remedy available, but she remained for Dr. Chase's Ointment to effect a cure.

"I am only doing justice to Dr. Chase's Ointment when I say that I believe it to be the best remedy obtainable for bleeding and protruding piles. I strongly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to mothers, or indeed to any person suffering from the dread torment—piles."

Physicians and druggists recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the one preparation that will never fail to cure piles. It is guaranteed to positively cure piles, whether hemorrhoidal, or protruding. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates and Co., Toronto.
