therefore, South cashed the ace of diamonds and led a diamond to the jack. Dummy's last club was next ruffed as a first step in trying to avoid a heart finesse. Declarer then led the queen of spades and finessed it when West played low. The next play was the crucial one. If South had made the error of continuing with a low spade he would have been defeated. But both the bidding and play had marked West with the king of spades. The aim was to arrange, if possible, to throw East in with a spade in order to force a heart lead into dummy's A-K-J. This could not be done so long as West had the king of spades. To force this card from West's hand South now led the jack of spades. The play did not constitute a finesse, since declarer was lacking the ten. West had to cover with the king, otherwise declarer would have let the jack run and made the hand at once. The power of the play became manifest when East had to win the nine of spades return with the ten. He was forced either to lead a heart or give declarer a ruff-discard. The same result would have been achieved had West covered the queen of spades. After cashing the ace and jack, a spade throw-in would have brought East to the same endplay position. Acting on this assumption,

Mineworkers Union Wants New Pictou Mine Opened

TRURO. — (CP) — The United Mine Workers district 26 convention voted support Tuesday for opening a new mine in Pictou County and the start of operations on No. 3 seam or reopening of No. 4 mine in Springhill. Problems of the Springhill miners were outlined by Springhill delegate Joe Tabor, who said "somewhere along the line we were taken" in referring to closing of No. 4 mine following the 1956 explosion. He said the decision to reopen No. 3 was made without consulting the miners. There was more than $1,000,000 worth of equipment in No. 4 and it could be put back into shape for less cost than the figure stated by general manager Harold Gordon. District vice-president Steve Dolhanty said the citizens committee in Springhill working after the disaster had gone beyond their jurisdiction and had agreed to scrapping the railroad to Pictou and to transfer of the mine with the aid of only $100 and a piece of land. He said that the committee's action wasn't deliberate or premeditated and he knew the chairman to be a man of honesty with a desire to help the people. Mr. Dolhanty said it had been the intention of the union to have miners in Springhill where they belonged and to have the mine reopened. The company had refused to go with the union to the government and seek aid to reopen the mine. He said if the union had been recognized No. 4 would now be in the process of reopening. Board member Harry Terris said the cost of reopening No. 4 would not be anything like the sum mentioned by the general manager and that if it were reopened the equipment in the mine could be made use of. He said he had travelled the mine and found that there were no exceptionally big falls. Mr. Terris said it is imperative that another mine be opened in Springhill if the community was to survive. Vice-President Dolhanty told Phalen local delegate Herb Johnston that about 140 Springhill miners have moved to Cape Breton but many had returned to Springhill. Bernie Hanrahan of Gardiner Mines said it was hard to argue with the company when they gave safety conditions as reasons for mine closures. Delegate Tabor said the people of Springhill are living in daily fear of the closing of their sole remaining mine. Something must be done to get a new mine there. Says N.S. Doing All In Power For Coal Mines

TRURO (CP) — Mines Minister Manson told the district 26 convention of the United Mine Workers of America (ind) Tuesday the Nova Scotia Government is doing all in its power to advance the coal industry by solving market and cost problems. Mr. Manson told the convention the Mines Department is taking "a new look" at regulations covering the province's mines. The department was reviewing its inspection procedures and comparing them to those used in other countries. Mr. Manson said modern mining methods "call for a new look at the whole problem in the light of present-day conditions." He said surveys are underway in mine safety, including gas detection, dusting, and "bumps". Bumps are upheavals of the mine floor and are frequent in a deep shaft at Springhill, N.S. He said increased production has created temporary market problems but will help to make coal more competitive in the future, particularly after 1965.
