

SPORTS FRONT

Junior Team Is Selected

By JIM CULLEN

The Prince Edward Island all-star baseball team that will travel to Winnipeg in August has been selected and will now get down to serious workouts in preparation for the Dominion junior baseball tournament.

Apparently a Summerside sports columnist saw fit to throw some 'sour grapes' into his sports column. The Realm of Sport in yesterday's column with regard to the selection of the Junior baseball team that will represent this province at Winnipeg.

The Summerside author apparently was disturbed over the fact that of the 15 players selected to make the trip six were residing in Charlottetown, five in Summerside and four in Kings County.

John Kane was nominated and appointed by the Prince Edward Island Baseball Association (which includes Summerside representatives) as manager of the team that would travel to Winnipeg.

Our fellow writer indicated that a Summerside coach hadn't had sufficient say in the selection of the team.

We talked with Mr. Kane last night and he told us he was definitely disappointed in the way this Summerside writer saw fit to treat this matter, but that all he could say was that in his opinion he selected the best possible candidates.

We would like to take this opportunity to point out to the literate author of the Realm of Sport that a manager is the 'straw boss' of any baseball team and that he doesn't necessarily consult the coach or coaches about any team policy.

We were slightly amused when our western author stated he couldn't really consider Jim Duffy who is formerly from Charlottetown, but now employed in Summerside a Summerside boy.

We would like to take this opportunity to wish the Prince Edward Island all-star junior baseball team the best of luck in their quest for top honors at Winnipeg.

Tid Bits From Here And There

We have heard some strong rumblings from some of our older ball enthusiasts about the condition of Charlottetown's Memorial Field. These gentlemen claim they have never seen the playing field and especially the bleachers in poorer condition at the local field for many years.

Jack Proud, proprietor of the Rustico Golf and Yacht Club has announced that the plans to have stock car racing at the Rustico club before the close of the summer. Jack has already commenced construction of the track and is taking every precaution to build the track in a manner that will provide the spectators with sufficient protection if a car happens to spin out of control.

Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico and Jean Guichet of France nursed their Ferrari to victory Sunday in the Reims International 12-hour sports car race in which two spectators were killed. The two men were killed when a Ferrari driven by Gerald Langlois of Belgium went off the course on a curve and hit them. The car smashed through a barrier of straw bales and a fence before hitting the men, who were standing near a course control post.

Congratulations to Ken MacDonald who scored a hole-in-one at the Belvedere Golf and Winter Club recently. Young MacDonald performed the feat on the 132-yard 5th hole while playing with Jim Matheson, Ron Boyles and Roger MacDonald.

A tug of war on Saturday night is the main topic of discussion around the Charlottetown Driving Park for the past couple of days. Reg MacKenzie is organizing a team for the horsemen and we have heard from the dependable 'bush telegraph' that Reg has entered a team. Reg has indicated he will have a 'bush telegraph' for his anchor man and that he is counting heavily on the ability of Hillson Carr. This event will be a side-attraction on the harness racing program.

Twilight Meet Is Successful

The first Twilight Meet of the season went at the Park last evening and a sizeable crowd was on hand to witness the events. Competitors from all over the Island were entered and put up quite a battle in the various events.

Following are the results of the events. Junior girls 75 lbs. Rosemary Duffy (C); Jill LaPointe (S); Jane Johnston (C); Time 9.7.

Junior mens 100 — 1. David Baglole (S); 2. Jim Kirby (C); 3. Gordon Bell (C); Time 11.5.

Senior mens 1/4 mile — 1. Andrew Arsenault (C); 2. Frank Ross (C); 3. Don Lothian (C); Time 55.5.

Discus Mens senior — 1. Barrie MacEwen (K); 2. Bob Smith (RCAF S); 3. Lyall Huggan (C); 123.9'.

Junior mens 1/4 mile — 1. Jim Kirby (C); 2. David Baglole (C); 58.42.

Senior mens 100 yards — 1. Alf Groom (S); 2. Don Lothian (C); 3. John Brown (S); 11.2.

Junior boys discus — 1. Chick MacNallan (S); 2. Gordon Bell (C); 123.8'.

Senior girls 100 yards — 1. Heather MacLean (C); 2. Rhoda MacLeod (C); 3. Jane Cash (K); 12.1.

Senior men shot — 1. Bob Smith (RCAF S); 2. Barrie MacEwen (K); 3. 35'.

Senior mens 880 — 1. Andrew Arsenault (C); 2. Eugene MacDonald (S); 3. Bill Taylor (C); 204.8.

Senior girls high jump — 1. Heather MacLean (C); 2. Gloria Wice (C); 3. Rhoda MacLeod (C); 4'9".

Junior girls high jump — 1. Margaret Mosey (C); 2. Susan Campbell (C); 3. Lorraine Mac-

HOME FREE ON PEPITONE'S HOME RUN

Detroit Tigers catcher Bill Freehan makes gyrations trying for bad throw as New York Yankees pinch-runner Ross Moschitto dives for the plate on a seventh-inning home run by Joe Pepitone in opening game of doubleheader in Detroit today. Moschitto scored from Hector Lopez and ran from 1st base. Pepitone's home run bounced back to playing field from right-center field stands and appeared to be ground-rule double until Yankees protested and it was ruled homer. Tom Tresh (15) scored ahead of Moschitto on the three-run blast. (AP Wirephoto)

Eight Single Winners At Ch'town Driving Park

Eight single dash winners highlighted the card at the Charlottetown Driving Park last evening.

In the first dash Chet Lynn Roy was led to the wire in a time of 2:13.4. Brown Budlong took the place money and Bob's Girl placed third. Chet Lynn Roy is owned by Stan Mayhew.

In the second dash another Mayhew owned horse, Cadillac Gold Dust, outclassed the field. The combination of Chet Lynn Roy and Cadillac Gold Dust paid a mere 6.70 for the first Daily Double.

Audrey's Pride trotted to a new mark in coping the third dash, although the big brown horse was given a good race by Little Doctor. The two paid 5.00 for the Quinella feature.

The fifth race saw Jolly Dick lead Captain Chief to the wire to pay 27.10 in the Exactor. The final feature of the evening was the second Daily Double and the winner by Little Doctor in the 7th and Billy Rice in the 8th were good for a pay of 43.30.

An accident in the seventh dash saw Biffy Silver break and tumble over the rail but neither the horse or the driver, Jr. Chappell suffered injuries.

SUMMARY
RACE 1
Chet Lynn Roy (G. Chappell) 1
Brown Budlong (H. Hughes) 2

RACE 2
Cadillac Gold Dust (E. Arsenault) 1
Chum (C. Smith) 2
Water Freight (M. O'Brien) 3
Sunny Key (E. Clow) 4
Gateway Senator (Woodridge) 5
Deceiver (E. Bernard) 6
Cadillac Gold Dust owned by Stan Mayhew.
Time: 2:12.2.
Pays 3.80, 2.20, 2.10, 2.30, 2.10; 3.00.
Daily Double $6.70.

RACES 3 AND 7
Audrey's Pride (E. Bernard) 1
Little Doctor (E. Arsenault) 2
Evelyn's Arcant (L. Hennessy) 3
Biffy Silver (Jr. Chappell) 4
Cyclone Kelly (L. Kelly) 5
Chuck H (S. Stead) 6
Hettie's Boy (C. Birt) 7
Times: 2:11.1, 2:11.4.
Audrey's Pride owned by Mrs. L. Thompson; Little Doctor owned by S. Mayhew.
Pays 3.40, 4.10, 2.50, 2.10, 2.40, 2.10; 2.20, 7th 4.90, 2.40, 2.10; 2.90, 2.10.

RACE 4 AND 8
Janet M (E. Bernard) 1
Ohio's Orphan (C. Smith) 2
Miss Cool Eyes (J. Pound) 3
Eltoralia C (W. Craig) 4
Am Castle (D. MacNeill) 5
Billy Rice (J. Ferguson) 6
Times: 2:11, 2:10.3.
Janet M owned by Dr. P. McIntyre. Billy Rice owned by J. Ferguson.
Pays 4th 6.30, 2.80, 2.40, 3.10, 2.40; 3.20, Pays 8th 8.70, 3.30, 3.00; 3.60, 3.00, 4.80.
Second Daily Double $43.30.

RACE 5
Jolly Dick (H. Poulton) 1
Captain Chief (W. Craig) 2
Princess Mark (L. Kelly) 3
Willard's Choice (W. Welby) 4
Ellen Joyce (O. Willis) 5
J. Orland C (C. Smith) 6
Lady Lakeburn (G. Noonan) 7
Doctor Alex (D. MacNeill) 8
Time: 2:11.3.
Jolly Dick owned by Mrs. A. Poulton.
Pays 7:10, 4.80, 4.60; 5.10, 4.00; 7.80.
Exactor $27.10.

RACE 6
Avalon Worthy (D. Wisener) 1
Sunny King (W. Craig) 2
Mr. McEwens Key 3
Audrey's Pride owned by Mrs. L. Thompson; Little Doctor owned by S. Mayhew.
Pays 3.40, 4.10, 2.50, 2.10, 2.40, 2.10; 2.20, 7th 4.90, 2.40, 2.10; 2.90, 2.10.
Quinella — $5.60.

RACE 7 AND 8
Janet M (E. Bernard) 1
Ohio's Orphan (C. Smith) 2
Miss Cool Eyes (J. Pound) 3
Eltoralia C (W. Craig) 4
Am Castle (D. MacNeill) 5
Billy Rice (J. Ferguson) 6
Times: 2:11, 2:10.3.
Janet M owned by Dr. P. McIntyre. Billy Rice owned by J. Ferguson.
Pays 4th 6.30, 2.80, 2.40, 3.10, 2.40; 3.20, Pays 8th 8.70, 3.30, 3.00; 3.60, 3.00, 4.80.
Second Daily Double $43.30.

RACE 8
Avalon Worthy owned by Greenbrier Farms.
Pays 5:20, 3.10, 2.90; 4.80, 3.20; 3.20.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
American League
Boston 000 100 000—2 7 11
Minnesota 101 103 06x—6 14 0
Wilson (5-6) Ritchie (6), Du-luba (7) and Tillman; Boswell
(5-4), Worthington (9) and Bat-tey, Zimmerman (9). HRs: Bos-—Horton (2), Thomas (1).
Pittsburgh 000 000 00—1 5 1
Phila. 000 002 01x—3 6 0
Veale (6-6), Carpin (7) Sch-wall (7) and Pagliaroni; Bunning (9-5) and Corrales; HRs:
Pitt—Mota (1), Phil—Johnson
(4).

PROBABLE PITCHERS
Probable pitchers for today's major league games, won-lost records in parenthesis:
National League
Chicago 000 200 000—2 9 0
New York 300 000 00x—3 4 1
Ellsworth (9-4), McDaniel (6) and Krug, Bailey (8); Spahn, Bearnarth (3-1) (5) and Cannizzaro. HRs: Chi—Krug 2, NYK—Swoboda (14).
Second
Chicago 000 000 00—0 6 0
New York 020 100 00x—3 6 1
Faul (0-1) Humphreys (7) (4)
Koonce (6), Abernathy (7) and
Bailey, Roznovsky (4); Parsons
(1-4) and Cannizzaro. HR: NY—
Swoboda (15).
San Fran 000 101 000 000—2 9 0
St. Louis 000 010 001—3 11 0
Perry, Linzy (5), Henry (9),
Herbel (5-5) (12) and Haller;
Washburn, Woodeshick (8) Dennis (9) Briles (1-1) (12) and

Canadian Shooting Team Is Finding Many Problems

By CARL MOLLINS
BISLEY, England (CP)—Ill winds and slowpoke ammunition are troubling the talented rookies of Canada's contingent at the Bisley meeting of marksmen.

"They told me Bisley conditions were tough," said Jean MacKeever of Calgary, first woman to top the squad of Canadian qualifiers in 105 years of rifle competition here. "I thought the old hands were exaggerating, but they were not."

Mrs. MacKeever, a widowed mother of four who works as a bookkeeper when she isn't puncturing bullet-eyes with the King's Own Calgary Regiment Rifle Association, is one of seven members of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association's 20-member team competing here for the first time.

She won her place with top score in the Bisley aggregate at the DCRA shoot last August on Ottawa's Shonnag Ranges, where the Bisley team is selected. She is the second woman to make the team for this overwhelmingly male competition. Schoolteacher Mary MacLennan came from Charlottetown in 1951.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.

The Canadian army team, 12 officers and men sent by the 1st Battalion, Black Watch of Canada, from Camp Gagetown, N.B., and the 12-strong army cadet team from across Canada were forced to adapt quickly to the damp air and the unfamiliar wind, light and ammunition as they entered preliminary armed services competition Monday. The DCRA team, a blend of rookies and veterans under Commandant Jim Houlden, 61, of Beaconsfield, Que., has encountered mixed fortunes in tune-up "friendly" matches. The Canadians defeated a Cambridge University squad in a short-range match here last Friday with a total score of 1,139—high enough in most years to win the Rajah of Kolapore Trophy, one of the major team prizes to be shot next week over 300, 500 and 600 yards.

The team also defeated the Alcar Rifle Club in a match at Liverpool Saturday. But in a test Sunday against North London Rifle Club here at Bisley, the Canadians ran into trouble at 900 and 1,000 yards on Stickle-down and lost the match. Canada last year won the Mackinnon Trophy for long-range shooting.

Practising in preparation for the team and individual matches that begin for the DCRA Friday and run to July 17, Mrs. MacKeever and other members of the squad have been bothered by fickle English light and erratic winds sweeping across the short-range century butts and the long-distance Stickle-down Range.

In addition, the Canadian marksmen have had to adjust to the slower, less consistent .303 ammunition used here after the more efficient 7.62-millimetre now in general use for full-bore rifle competition in Canada.