

A Petrified Forest.

THOUSANDS OF TREES TURNED TO STONE IN A NEW MEXICO DISTRICT.

The visitor to the petrified forest near Corizo, on the little Colorado, will begin to see the signs of petrification hours before he reaches the wonder; here and there at almost every step in the road small pieces of detached limbs and larger stumps of trees may be seen almost hidden in the white sand. The road at a distance of ten miles from Corizo enters an immense basin, the slope being nearly a semi-circle, and this enclosed by high banks of shale and white fine clay. The petrified stumps, limbs, and, in fact, whole trees, lie about on all sides, the action of the waters for hundreds of years have gradually washed away the high hills roundabout, and the trees that once covered the high table lands, now lie in the valley beneath. Immense trunks, some of which will measure over five feet in diameter, are broken and scattered over a surface of three hundred acres. Limbs and twigs cover the sand in every direction, and the visitor is puzzled as to where he shall begin to gather the beautiful specimens that lie within easy reach. There are numerous blocks or trunks of this petrified wood, that has the appearance, for all the world, of having been just cut down by the woodman's axe, and the chips are thrown around on the ground so that one instinctively picks them up as he would in the log camps of Michigan and Pennsylvania. Many of the small particles and even the whole heart of some trees have now become thoroughly crystallized, and the beautiful colored cubes sparkle in the sunshine like so many diamonds. Every color of the rainbow is duplicated in these crystals, and those of an amethyst color would pass the eye of a novice for the real stone. The grain of the wood is plainly shown in nearly every specimen, making the pieces more beautiful than ever.—Exchange.

A Stiff Blow.

TREE MOWED DOWN LIKE GRASS.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—A special from Easton Pa., says it is learned from passengers that the hurricane in Lehigh and Wyoming valleys, last evening, was the severest ever known in Eastern Pennsylvania. Between Haven and Hazelton trees in the woods for a distance of 2,000 feet were mowed down like grass. The wind and rain beat so hard against the windows of the cars that the passengers had to place the cushions of the seat against them to keep them from being blown in, and an engineer of one train became frightened and to avoid a wreck by the falling trees, reduced the speed to coal train time.

At Gould's Siding, near Whitehaven, the engine of a passenger train was struck by a colliery telegraph pole and damaged. The same pole struck a passenger car and made splinters of its front. About the same time a tree fell and broke the windows on the side of a car, causing the passengers to be much frightened. All this occurred while the train was running at full speed.

A short distance below the trainmen had to remove two telegraph poles that lay across. Near Rockport, a rock, weighing at least 20 tons, rolled from the hillside and lodged in the track. A watchman saw it in time to stop the trains going either way. Near Stony Creek Station the bodies of four freight cars in a Leigh Valley train were raised from the tracks while in motion and thrown on their sides.

A Religious Pilgrimage.

A grand national pilgrimage to Notre Dame de Lourdes, in France, is being organized under the patronage of Mgr. Fabre, of Montreal and the management of M. M. Vaucher and Martineau, priests of the Seminary of St Sulpice. The departure will take place at Quebec on the 7th of next July by the steamer Oregon, of the Dominion Line, which will be at the entire disposal of the pilgrims. From Liverpool a steamer will convey the pilgrims direct to Bordeaux, eight hours by rail to Lourdes. The price of the return passage from Quebec to Liverpool will be $100, $120 and $150 according to location. From Lourdes the Pilgrimage may be continued to Rome and other sacred shrines in France. The return will take place from Liverpool on the 13th of August. Anybody can take passage so long as he is willing to conduct himself as a pilgrim and submit to the regulations of the directors.
