Summerside Child Injured In Street Accident On Saturday

Faye Cameron, 6-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Frank Cameron, Summer St. Summerside, last evening was reported to be recovering in Prince County Hospital from injuries received when struck by a car on Central Street about 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon. The little girl was en route from her home to visit her grandmother a few blocks distant on Chesnut Ave. While crossing Upper Central the child reportedly walked out from in front of a parked car into the path of a 1950 Prefect proceeding north on Central Street and driven by Miss Joan Palmer. The impact caused the child to be thrown to the ground and pinned beneath the small car which had to be lifted by Gordon Rogers and Earl Ross in such a manner that the little girl could be removed. She was immediately taken to Prince County Hospital where her injuries were found to include facial, head, and shoulder injuries, and it is believed that a heavy padded ski suit wore at the time of the accident protected her body from even more serious injury.

THE EGYPTIAN

STARS EDMUND PURDOM
CAPITOL, SUMMERSIDE
There is so much to excite the senses and stir the emotions in this epic Twentieth Century-Fox picture, which was translated to the screen from Mika Waltari's best-selling novel, that it is easy to understand why it took more than two years of intense preparation before a camera was turned. The tremendous sets, the teeming thousands in the east and the exciting dramatic episodes add up to the most thrilling entertainment seen here in years.

While the story of "The Egyptian" is essentially about the life of one man, Sinuhe, the Egyptian, played by Edmund Purdom, it encompasses an entire era in Egypt 1300 years before Christ and brings to life the colorful civilization of Akhnaton, the first Pharaoh to discard the worship of Egypt's numerous animal-headed god idols in favor of monotheism. The human side of the story is as monumental as the spectacle. Purdom is simply magnificent as the Pharaoh and healer of the poor, who moves through the story reflecting ambition, love, cynicism, hatred, despair and finally triumph.

We ordinarily speak of automobile bumpers, grilles, hubcaps and bright metal trim as being "chrome-plated". Actually, these parts are plated with both nickel and chromium—a heavy coating of nickel covered with a thin layer of chromium. All the nickel used for plating auto parts and other products of Canadian industry is Inco nickel—mined, milled, smelted and refined in Canada.

Almost two million pounds of INCO Nickel will help brighten Canadian cars in 1956

... more jobs for Canadians

All the bright metal plating on Canadian cars is Inco nickel covered with a thin layer of chromium. Production of this nickel and the plating of metal parts for automobiles helps make jobs for thousands of Canadian men and women.

1. Nickel-bearing ores are mined by Inco workmen. The ore is milled and smelted at Inco's plants near Sudbury, Ontario. Final refining is done at Inco's plant in Port Colborne, Ontario. About 18,000 men and women work for Inco in Canada.

2. Inco nickel is sold to Canadian companies where Canadian workmen produce anodes for the plating trade.
3. These anodes are used by other companies for electroplating bumpers, grilles, hub caps and other bright metal parts for cars—thus helping to provide employment for more Canadians.

This year, almost 2 million pounds of Inco nickel will be used for plating on Canadian cars. In addition, Inco nickel is used by Canadian industries to manufacture hundreds of useful products.
