MORRISON

(Continued from page 1) the stadium bills were received by him as they were processed through the town office. He stated he would recommend a change of accounting to bring out the true picture of the reports.

In the 1961 campaign, 98.5 per cent was raised on a $28.00 objective. On a per capita basis this works out to a contribution of .27¢ cents per person based on a 100,000 population.

Her report also contained a summary of the activities of Junior Red Cross, women's work, blood donor service, sick-room loans and home nursing, water safety and first aid. These were dealt with in greater detail by the committee chairman.

were corrected during each month of the year."

Later Councillors Morrison, Leo Wood, Llewellyn Rogers, W. E. Jenkins and W.E. MacAuley all spoke on what transpired at a meeting of the councillors, which excluded the mayor, on the controversial topic of whether or not councillors should receive annual pay.

The fiery exchange was precipitated by a remark by Councillor Jenkins, in which he stated Councillor Morrison had agreed with all the members that councillors should be paid for their services. Then he stated, Councillor Morrison got up at the next general meeting and opposed this move.

"Why does a man change his mind so quickly-I voted for it and I'm not going into next meeting and say 'I'm against it,'" Councillor Jenkins concluded.

Councillor Morrison in reply stated "Councillor Jenkins has a very short memory. No vote was taken on our feeling. I said when asked about pay for mayor and councillors we should all get a kick in the -- for allowing things to go that do go on in this council. I still don't think they should be paid."

SALES TO TOWN Councillor Wood strongly objected to the fact that the company headed by Councillor Morrison, P.E.I. Concrete Products Ltd. sells materials to the town. Councillor Wood listed the amounts the company received including over $9,000 in 1958, over $5,000 in 1959, in excess of $10,000 in 1961, etc.

Councillor Wood added "no wonder he doesn't want to get paid! As councillors we're not supposed to do business with the town-how he can do that much business I don't know". Councillor Morrison retorted by saying "I didn't change after the business-the company was called up-naturally we want business. We're the only place in Prince County that sells pipe and only one on P.E.I. that makes any amount of pipe. If you want to patronize home industry alright-if you want your money to go to the mainland that's something else too. I was told by a lawyer before I entered the council that because it was a limited company it would not interfere with selling to the town.

"Now all of a sudden because the council patronized a home industry they apparently are trying to make it appear I did something wrong. It's apparently because I'm in council that my business is being trampled on."

Legion To Discuss Building Project

A mass meeting of members of the Charlottetown Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion has been called for Thursday night to decide whether or not a new Legion home should be built here.

Plans for a $200,000 building to be completed before the 1964 Centennial celebrations are afoot but the decision will have to come from the 850 members of the branch.

Also to be considered at the meeting, if the new building is approved, will be where to build the structure. One plan calls for the construction to be done on the present site and the other for the purchase of a new ground and the selling of the old. It was noted that the branch purchased land adjacent to the present building but construction of the proposed new building would be quite difficult on the site. The new building would be started on the back of the lot and as construction progressed the old building would be torn down.

Legion officers said that the need for a new building is pressing. It was stated that the existing facilities are not adequate to handle the present membership and there is no hope for an expanding membership. A new building could more than double the membership it was stated, as was the case in Fredericton N.B. when the new home was built there.

The Legion officers stressed that all members attend the Thursday meeting as a general opinion on the proposal is desired. It was stated that a decision is desired as quickly as possible so that construction might start this summer.
