ELEEN'S DIARY

Commencement Brings Happiness And Honors

Of all the June-time events so lovely, there is perhaps none more heart-warming than that which brings the student to his or her Commencement hour. Students from the various schools of learning, who have done, requirements met, now come to claim the honors they have earned...

For us at Alderlea, there was that recent one which our Granddaughter's High School Days we naturally shared her happiness and pride in her recall that we were more than a little sad that she was now leaving the delightful days of college days behind, to go on into the adult years.

This evening, at that Island seat of learning, spin and almost brand new, that is Endwood High School, we saw a granddaughter, the first class graduate, in a modest miss. Somewhat surprised in her happiness, which admitted she recall that we were more than a little sad that she was now leaving the delightful days of college days behind, to go on into the adult years.

For one thing, our friend continued, "she'll need to understand the basic principle of cookery, learn how to put a simple cake together, or a pan of meat, which adorned by "Or and" MacKinnon "bake a cherry pie!"

"Well, if that isn't the truth!" she chuckled. "You'd better watch out! In my day I've seen more heart-broken women by way of the stomach!"

Guests, we chatted with this afternoon, a farmer from a dis-
