The Hawks of New England.

In my opinion the sparrow hawk is the handsomest of his race. His back is bright, golden cinnamon, his wings steel blue and jet black and his tail chestnut, with a broad black band. His breast is beautifully marked with chainlike patterns of black spots. His mate is chestnut above, banded with black. Unlike other hawks, the plumage of these birds does not vary with age. They usually make their appearance on some still, cloudy day about the last of March and take up their position in the meadows. From then until September they are always to be seen either perched on the topmost twig of some tall elm or hovering in the air on the lookout for prey. Their nest is in some hollow tree or deserted woodpecker's hole or even a last year's crow's nest.

I have often tried to account for the seemingly friendly relations existing between the sparrow hawk and golden winged woodpecker. Both frequently occupy holes in the same branch and sit side by side on top of some tall stub without the least sign of disagreement, although, unless I am very much mistaken, the sparrow hawk often attacks larger birds and might easily carry off the young ones when the old birds were absent.—William E. Cram in Popular Science Monthly.

Equal to Twenty Fire Engines.

In St. Nicholas Mr. Charles T. Hill writes of New York's "Floating Fire Engines." Speaking of the fireboat New Yorker, Mr. Hill says:

At fires in buildings along the river front or in streets near the river the New Yorker can lie at a dock near by and supply 30 effective streams, and, in fact, in capacity she is equal to that number of land engines. If the fire is some distance from the water front, immense lengths of hose 6 inches in diameter can be attached to the outlets of that size in the sides of the deckhouse, and by the aid of reducing connections can be reduced in size as the lines are stretched in to the fire until they reach the regulation sizes—2½ or 3 inches at the nozzle end. She can supply six of these powerful streams effectively at a distance of one-third of a mile from her location, and at big fires she becomes a valuable aid to the land force.

Expert Opinion.

"I hear," said the fat lady, "that you were out with the boys last night." "The two headed gent grinned dismally. "I was," he admitted, "and I want to say to you," he continued, "that in a case of this kind two heads are not better than one."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Speed on Typewriters.

A typewriter who writes accurately from dictation at the rate of 40 words a minute for an hour is a good operator. One who writes 50 words a minute for the same time is better. One who writes 60 words a minute is excellent. One able to average 70 words, spelled and capitalized correctly, is an expert. One capable of writing 80 words under those conditions is professionally classified as a "Jullian." One sufficiently skillful to strike off 90 words, following those requirements, is a "Jullian XXX," and one able to average 100 words is a star operator of the first quality. And there are at least three typewriters in New York city who can make a "century run" of that sort in an hour. A comparatively small number of typewriters are adapted mentally and physically for very rapid work, and not 1 in 50, as operators go, is able to average 60 words a minute from unfamiliar matter. By this is meant 3,600 words, properly spelled, in one hour. Forty words a minute is probably not far from the average rate of speed in this city.—New York Sun.

C. P. Fletcher, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I do not wish to return to Montreal without expressing my gratitude to you for the very excellent Bell Piano that you placed at my disposal for my recital. I have tried many Canadian Pianos of different manufacturers, and must say that, considering the size of the instrument, I have never found one to equal it for depth and brilliancy of tone. The action is quite as elastic and responsive as in American Upright Pianos of the highest grade. Again thanking you, very sincerely,

I remain,
 Yours,
