WEST PRINCE ELECTION TRIAL.

Advices from Alberton report that after four days had been devoted to taking evidence in the West Prince election trial the petitioner's counsel closed his case yesterday evening, having only submitted evidence in seventeen out of fifty charges preferred, abandoning the other thirty-three. The case for the respondent was opened this morning, and when the court adjourned at one o'clock thirty-six out of the fifty charges laid in the particulars by the petitioner had either been dismissed or abandoned. Strong evidence has been put in by the respondent's counsel in answer to the remaining charges. It is thought that all the evidence will be in to-day.

The charges against Mr. Hackett have proved, in every case, to be of the most frivolous character. The only voters who have actually sworn to alleged corrupt practices by the respondent, Mr. Hackett, are near relatives of the defeated candidate.

THE AGE OF PROGRESS.

This is the age of progress. What our forefathers were content to put up with, the people of this generation will not tolerate. Especially is this true with respect to the means of travelling. Fast steamers now take the place of the slow sailing vessels, steam-cars have replaced the stage-coach, and almost every city or town of any importance has its electric railway. In this connection it may be pointed out that electric railways are spreading over Europe almost as rapidly as over the United States, while the use of electrically-propelled carriages on ordinary roads is increasing much more rapidly there than in America. Last year the number of trolley or storage lines, in Europe grew from 70 to 111, while the total amount of rails used went up from 437½ miles to 564. Germany heads the list with a total of 255 miles and 857 automotor vehicles, France being second with 82½ miles and 223 vehicles, England third with 67 miles and 178 vehicles, and Switzerland coming fourth with 29½ miles and 86 vehicles Charlottetown is still without its electric railway. But it is not so very long since this city was without waterworks, electric lights, telephones and the other modern conveniences which our people now enjoy. Sooner or later the electric railway may come.

WANT INCREASED PROTECTION.

It seems that the dealers in dressed beef at Buffalo, N. Y., are dissatisfied with the present tariff on that article, and are agitating for increased protection. They claim that the 20 per cent. now imposed is not enough to protect them from Canadian competition. It is pointed out that last month 19,000 pounds of dressed beef came into Buffalo by way of the ferry, but this amount was insignificant and little complaint was heard from the wholesale men. Within the last ten days, however, wagon loads of the meat have been coming over every day, and while this is not enough to meet the total demand it is sufficient to break up the schedule of prices which the local wholesalers were formerly able to maintain. The commission men who handle the imported meat claim that the wholesale meat men have formerly been very arbitrary, and whenever the supply was moderate and the demand good they would corner the retail markets, and force the prices up as high as they wished. They claim that the Canadian product has steadied the market without lowering it more than a quarter of a cent.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—As an exchange remarks the informer is not a very desirable citizen but about the worst specimen is the man who will inform against his fellow workman who may hold different views on political questions, in order that he may be deprived of his means of earning a livelihood.

—Sir Charles Tupper has been telling the people of London that Mr. Laurier has pronounced himself in favor of Imperial preferential trade. He has also pronounced himself in favour of unrestricted reciprocity with the United States. Mr. Laurier will pronounce in favor of anything that promises even a momentary advantage.

—It is stated that owing to the strong representations respecting the unfortunate condition of Canadians in Brazil, the British consul at San Paulo has been requested to send back to Canada those in his district in indigent circumstances, their expenses being defrayed by the Dominion Government.

—According to official advices received by the Marine and Fisheries Department, it appears that during the season just closed the catch of the New England fleet in the Gulf of St. Lawrence was 70,000 barrels; on the Atlantic seaboard about 20,000, making a total of 90,000 barrels, valued at a million dollars. The number of American vessels engaged along our coasts was 129, of 18,000 tons, employing 3,200 men.

—Moncton Times: It is a part of the policy of the government in holding its sham investigations in regard to the politics of employes, to have the evidence taken in secret, not revealing the witnesses and even refusing the accused persons the privilege of being represented by counsel. But the names of the witnesses and the nature of the evidence will be known and when the wheels turn round retribution will be swift and sure.

—As the Montreal Gazette points out the absence of business men from the convention at Ottawa which framed the liberal party's tariff for revenue policy was commented on at the time the gathering was held. Now that the party's ministerial pilgrims have started out to hunt for knowledge on the subject they are pledged to legislate on, there is quite as marked a scarcity of business men ready to come forward and commend the policy. It looks as if the tariff commisioners would have to go to to the law offices and editorial sanctums of its newspaper supporters to get genuine free trade theories expounded to them.

TROUBLE FEARED IN CHINA.

A Secret Society at Work—Determination to Get Rid of the Present Dynasty.

According to Wong Chin Foo, the editor of the Chinese News in Chicago, China is on the eve of an upheaval such as is now going on in Cuba. He was shown the reports in the cables from London to the effect that Sung Yat Sen, the Chinaman who was kidnapped in London, and only released from the Chinese Embassy at the specific demand of Lord Salisbury, was a member of a society having for its object the liberation of China from its present dynasty. He said that the report was true, and that he would have preferred to have kept the story secret for some time longer, but as it is out he wished to confirm it in every particular. The gist of his statement is that there is in the Flowery Kingdom a society called Hing Chang Won, which is allied to the Liberty League of Americanized Chinamen in this country, and to a similar organization in England. He said that the object of the organization was to do away with the exclusiveness of the Chinese kingdom, and to open it up to modern civilization. The present dynasty, according to Wong Chin Foo, will be asked to get out, and if it refuses it will be put out. Only peaceable methods will be at first employed, but if these are not successful than an appeal will be made to arms, and England and the United States will be asked to recognize the reform party as belligerents.

Wong Chin Foo said that the reason that Sung Yat Sen was kidnapped by the Chinese Embassy in London was solely because he was known to be a member of the reform party, and that if the Chinese Government has succeeded in getting him to China his head would have been cut off at once. The reform movement is scheduled to begin active operations in the very near future.

ITALIANS MASSACRED.

An Italian Consul and Some Naval Officers Killed by the Somalis.

Advices received at Rome from Zanzibar give details of the massacre of Senor Cocli the Italian Consul, and a number of Italian officers who were with him at Magadoxa, Somaliland. It is stated that fourteen Italians were killed. The caravan was attacked during the night by the Somalis. The latter were repulsed at first, but rallied later, and continually attacked the retreating caravan. The Italians and their escort of Askaris fought desperately but were eventually overpowered. So soon as the news of the fighting reached Magadoxa, a detachment of sailors and a force of Askaris were sent to the assistance of the caravan, but they arrived too late to save the Italians. The rescue party recovered twenty-seven bodies and arrested many Somali tribesmen, who took part in the massacre. These prisoners were punished in an exemplary manner.

In the Italian Chamber of Deputies the Marquis Viscount Venosti, Minister of Foreign Affairs, confirmed the reports received from Zanzibar of the murder of the Italian consul, Signor Gechi, the captains and a number of other officers of the Italian warships Voltornuna and Staffetta, and the wounding of a hundred or more other Italians by Somalis at Magadoxa. The men had fallen into an ambuscade, and were caught without warning. The Government, the Minister said, would take energetic measures to punish the Somalis who were guilty of the outrage.

LI HUNG CHANG'S COFFIN.

Is Said to Have Been Burned by Accident and Li is Glad of it.

Among the thousand or more pieces of baggage which Li Hung Chang took with him in his western travels the one that excited the greatest curiosity was, without doubt, his coffin. The viceroy's age at that time already exceeded the biblical limit of three score years and ten. At a family council held before his setting out from home the chances of a man of his age surviving the fatigue of a long ocean voyage were discussed and decided to be very small. Accordingly preparations were made for the worst, and a coffin was added to his baggage. But the old man proved that he was made of tougher stuff than was generally supposed. When he reached England he felt that he had strength and vitality enough to carry him through the remainder of his journey, and gave orders that the constant reminder of his approaching death be shipped back to China.

The coffin got as far as the Suez canal. There, as recent advices from the east have it, fire broke out in the steamer and Li Hung Chang's coffin added fuel to the flames.

There is no doubt that the viceroy looks upon this loss as a good omen. If he is not above superstition he will interpret it to mean that he has not yet come near the end of his earthly career, inasmuch as the boards that are to hold his mortal remains have still to be fashioned.

SPANISH CRUELTY REPORTED.

They are Accused of Torturing Their Prisoners in the Most Inhuman Manner.

A special despatch to the San Francisco Examiner from Tacoma, Washington, says: Mail advices received via Hong Kong confirm the charges already published against the Spanish officers who are attempting to crush out the rebellion in the Philippine islands. They are accused of torturing their prisoners in the most merciless manner, employing for the purpose some of the famous implements which the history of the inquisition has made familiar. It is true that the property of wealthy natives is being confiscated, and that an attempt is being made by Spanish officers to raise $10,000,000 of the Panceo Espanol Filipino, giving as a guarantee the confiscated property of the rebels. The rebels are mostly armed with Mauser rifles and have plenty of funds. Their strength in fighting men is estimated at from twenty to thirty thousand. Many engagements occurred during October, but no decisive battle had been fought up to November 5.

—Montreal Gazette: The travelling tariff enquirers have been among the consumers in the Ontario petroleum district, but do not appear to have been met with any emphasized demand for free trade. If the jury was not fixed beforehand the N. P. will never be convicted. The evidence is decidedly in favor of the defence.

—This is nomination day in Cornwall Ont. The vacancy in this constituency has been caused by the death of Dr. Bergin

They continue to postpone the further hearing of the libel suit against Lady Scott in London, and it looks as if there might be a hushing up of the case. This result would contribute considerably to the purification of the atmosphere, which has been burdened with the odors of the foul carcass too long already.

SAVED BY A DREAM.

How a Castaway's Vision of a Sail Brought Relief to Three.

The American brigantine May T. Kimball sailed from Mobile for Guantanamo, Cuba, on August 29. Head winds bothered her, and she was still in the Gulf off Southern Florida on September 22. At one bell of the forenoon watch that day a howling gale jumped out of the southeast. Under naked poles the brigantine ran before it. Soon the seas had charge of her decks and all hands manned the pumps. The brigantine then began to sink, and everything was cut away. The boats were smashed to pieces during this proceeding.

An onslaught of destroying waves knocked James Jeffers and two shipmates, Elijah Cash and Peter Madison, all colored, overboard. Though that wave brought them face to face with death it really saved their lives. The top of the cabin of the vessel had been ripped off by the storm, and the three struggling sailors climbed on it. From it they witnessed the five other members of the crew go down with the vessel.

Jeffers is an Episcopalian. He told his fellow castaways that their only chance for life lay in prayer. So Jeffers prayed, and on the second day after the shipwreck Cash and Madison became converted and confessed their sins. For six days the turbulence of the waves did not abate. There was not a minute when the castaways were not half submerged. Many times they were washed off the roof but regained their raft. There was nothing to do but pray and keep watch for a sail.

On the seventh day Madison became delirious. At midnight of the same day Jeffers dreamed that he was close to land, and called to the other boys, "Come, let's go ashore." He shoved a board underneath the raft but found no bottom. Before they could restrain him Jeffers jumped into the sea. His mates pulled him back.

At 9 a. m. on the eleventh day, when all were asleep, Jeffers had another dream. He thought a man stood near and said: "Arise! Arise! There's a ship which I have prepared for you." He arose, saw the brig Hansen, and woke his companions. Their signals were seen. The Hansen took them to Liverpool, and Jeffers and Cash arrived in New York on the Umbria last Sunday. During the eleven days all the men had to eat was a small butterfish.

NEWS NOTES

Statistics show that 66 lives, Canadian and American, were lost on the lakes the past season.

The story that Sir William Van Horne contemplates severing his connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway is emphatically denied.

The north German Lloyd steamer Salier has been lost off Corunas Corubedo. 275 persons were drowned. The Salier was bound from Bremen to Buenos Ayres.

Four men have been arrested in Montreal, accused of keeping a gambling house under the guise of an art gallery, where pictures were given as prizes to successful winners of drawings.

The other day a clergyman of the Church of England was made a canon, and the Montreal Liar of the New York Sun telegraphed his paper that Canada is making preparations for war.

The Colonne Gazette says that the German warship Condor is on her way from Port Natal to Lorenzo Marquez where the German and Dutch consulates have been attacked and the British flag torn to shreds.

Advices from Antananarivo, Madagascar, say that on the night of November 18 rebels looted the town of Amtohimanga, ten miles from the capital, capturing forty prisoners and all the cattle. The English residents escaped.

A most interesting prodigy has been discovered in Alphonse Nelis, a little blind lad who is an inmate of an asylum near Mons, Belgium. He was given instruction in music three years ago, and now, at the age of eleven, he has composed a mass that is to be publicly performed.

The German steamer Kaiser, which recently arrived at Hamburg from Port Natal and prepared for the accommodation of men who had taken the places of dock men now on strike, was sunk a few nights ago. The police authorities have begun an investigation into the sinking of the steamer.

Many people who remember the Maine pedestrain, Mr. Edward Payson Weston now 60 years old, may be interested to know that he proposes to attempt on Christmas day the feat of walking 112 miles in 24 consecutive hours—a feat which he accomplished 25 years ago. When Mr. Weston was 35 he could walk like sixty, and now that he is 60, he wants to see if he is able to walk as he did at 35.

After a priest had performed the last rites over the body of a workman in the cemetery at Arras, in France, a friend of the dead man appeared with two great bottles of gin in his hands. Opening one of these, he spilled its contents into the grave, thus complying, as he said in a short speech, with the wishes of his dead comrade. The other bottle was opened for the refreshment of the mourners.

Mrs. Dunseath, of Jeannette, Pa., was a few night ago aroused from her sleep by some one unlocking the front door. Thinking it was her husband, she paid no further attention to the intruder until she was startled to see a strange man standing at her bedside. He demanded money. The woman replied that there was none in the house. He seized a pair of scissors lying on the table and cut her hair off, saying that he had to get something for his trouble.

A SHUFFLE IN QUEBEC.

Speculation Regarding Representation in the Cabinet

And Changes in the House of Commons and the Senate.

Montreal, Dec. 12.

When Hon. Geo. Kirkpatrick's term of office expires the political prophets here say that an important shuffle will take place, more especially in the Quebec representation in Laurier's Cabinet. Hon. Mr. Edgar, who is to be Governor of Ontario, will be replaced as Speaker of the Commons either by Deputy Speaker Brodeur or C. A. Beausoleil, who recently rallied to the Premier's support in Manitoba school matters. If Brodeur accepts the Speakership, Beausoleil, who hates Tarte worse than his Satanic Majesty hates holy water, will leave the Commons and become Judge of the Circuit Court in this city. But should Beausoleil become Speaker, then Brodeur will be addressed as "His Honor" and leave political life.

It is now pretty well understood that in spite of Tarte's desire to give Sir Joseph Chapleau a second term at Spencerwood, the influence of his old Liberal colleague will be too strong and will result in the appointment of Hon. Senator Pelletier as Lieut. Governor of Quebec. Sir Henri Joly de Lotbenier will then leave the Cabinet and accept the vacant Senatorship and become a President of the Upper Chamber, the Gallant Knight's portfolio being taken by Mr. Chequette, M. P. for Montmagny.

AN OUTRAGE BY LIBERIANS

Reported by the Captain of a British Steamer.

Liverpool, Dec. 12.

The British steamer Erasmus has just arrived from the West Coast of Africa, and brings a further report of an outrage by the Liberians. When the steamer was preparing to anchor at Cape Palmas, a Liberian gunboat fired at her, the shot passing between her masts. After she had anchored the gunboat ran alongside. Her commander boarded the Erasmus and insisted that the passengers on the steamer, who were Kroo laborers, should be landed at Cape Palmas instead of Rock Town, whither they were bound. Capt. Haynes, of the Erasmus, refused to land the men. The Liberians eventually contented themselves by levying customs duties on the Kroos.

Gen. Gascoigne's Significant Remarks.

Ottawa, Dec. 12.

Apropos of the dispute among the officers of the different Corps, the remarks of Gen. Gascogne at the Ottawa garrison dinner are very significant. The Gen. remarked that where he found the officers of any Corps not working in harmony, but squabbling and quarrelling and therefore neglecting their regiment, the question might come before him to decide whether it was not better to allow the Corps to be disbanded so that unpracticable officers would give way to others who would work together in reason and good fellowship.

A Free Coal Government.

Ottawa, Dec. 12.

Evidently this is a free coal Government. The new furnaces to be placed in the eastern block are to be specially constructed for the consumption of anthracite coal instead of bitumenous and wood, as at present. The intention is to convert the remaining furnaces into hard coal consumers, which will mean a consumption of 8,000 or 10,000 tons of American anthracite in the Government buildings.

Laurier to be Knighted.

Halifax, Dec. 12.

A Montreal despatch to the Chronicle says: Your correspondent is informed on good authority that after the banquet on December 30th Premier Laurier will pay a visit to England and return as Sir Wilfred Laurier. That the honor will be offered to Hon. Mr. Laurier on that occasion there is no doubt, and there is no doubt in my informant's mind that he will accept it.

Apathy of Quebec Liberals.

Montreal, Dec. 12.

Hon. Mr. Tarte is much exercised over the apathy of the Quebec Liberals regarding the coming Provincial election. While the Conservatives are organizing all over the Province, there seems to be very little enthusiasm among those who carried the Province in June last.
