Opening lead—king of diamonds.

Rixi Markus, one of England's leading women players, was playing in a duplicate tournament in New York earlier this year with Albert Morehead, famed bridge expert and writer.

They had never played together before. Among other things, they agreed to play 16 to 18 point notrump, and, if the occasion arose, Gerber. The Gerber convention is similar to Blackwood, except that the inquiry for ace starts at four clubs instead of four notrump. The responses then go by steps, as in the Blackwood convention.

After two passes, Mrs. Markus opened with a notrump. Morehead responded four clubs. Having two aces, Mrs. Markus showed ed them by bidding four spades. (Four diamonds would have shown none; four hearts, one ace.)

To her horror, Morehead passed, and Mrs. Markus found herself declarer in a suit where she had only two trumps. She naturally thought somebody had goofed, but as soon as dummy appeared, it became apparent the contract was entirely normal, except that by a strange quirk the South hand had become declarer in spades.

This turned out to be no disadvantage at all. West led the king of diamonds and Mrs. Markus allowed it to hold the trick. (It is frequently a good idea to let the opponents run with the ball.) West continued with the queen and Mrs. Markus took the ace, taking careful note of East's play of the seven.

When she saw led the ten of diamonds, West covered with the jack, and when dummy ruffed the diamond high, East had to play the nine, promoting the eight into a winner.

After cashing three rounds of trumps and the ace of hearts, Mrs. Markus was able to discard a club from dummy on her high diamond. Then, after ruffing a heart in dummy, she led a club towards the king and thus made five-odd for a 650-point score.

This result proved to be a top score, since at most tables North became declarer at four spades and scored only 600 against the normal heart lead.

Khrushchev Welcomes East German Leaders

By A. I. GOLDBERG
MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev welcomed East Germany's leaders here Monday for talks on various problems that he said "can be settled in a spirit of friendship."

The Soviet premier stuck to generalities, but held a lavish reception for East Germany's Premier Otto Grotewohl and Walter Ulbricht, Communist party chief.

Problems of the East German communists are tied closely to the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Geneva.

They include the desire of Grotewohl's regime for a separate peace treaty and control of Western communication lines between West Germany and West Berlin. The Russians are arguing for them in the Geneva conference.

Grotewohl and Ulbricht led an 18-member delegation of political, technical and economic experts. Red flags flew all along the 25-mile route between the airport and the Kremlin.

PROCEEDINGS BROADCAST
In proceedings broadcast by radio and TV, Khrushchev said the presence of the East German delegation will make it possible to discuss a number of questions of interest to both countries. Khrushchev said his visit to the Leipzig trade fair in March gave him a chance to talk over mutual problems with the East Germans. Leipzig was the sounding board for his reiteration that (1) the Soviet Union may sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany and (2) certainly will give it control over Western routes to Berlin.

Reports from Geneva have suggested that one purpose of the visit might be to arrange more economic aid to East Germany. There was some speculation here that the conferees would consider establishing ballistic missile bases in East Germany to counter rearmament of

Attacks Made On Immorality

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — The three-day-old government of Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew moved Monday to wipe out public immorality in this traditionally wide-open island state.

Acting under a new constitution granting internal self-government to this Far East British bastion, the left-wing People's Action Party (P.A.P.) government banned eight publications and a stage show. All of them were termed "pornographic."

A government statement blasted rock 'n' roll, time-wasting devotion to billiards, "sexy songs" and striptease shows.

The government served notice of its determination to boost moral standards and foster "a unified Malayan culture" in this predominantly Chinese state.

FIRST POLICY MEASURE
In its first big policy measure since its landslide electoral victory nine days ago, the government announced it is following "an active policy of eliminating all pornographic culture and all activities which are detrimental to the growth of a new and healthy society and culture."

A statement issued by home affairs minister Ong Pang Boon charged that under British colonial rule, "Singapore has not only been exploited economically and politically, but she also has been culturally devastated."

Permits for publication were withdrawn from two periodicals of the English-language Straits group—weekender and its annual edition, Free Press—and the Chinese publications Nanyang Weekender, Arrow News, Kung Sang Pao, New Life News, Ti Press and Fa Hui Pao.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints, such as the code letters are different.
