MR. AND MRS. DAVID E. MORRISON

Victoria Elizabeth Denham Weds At Montague Church

On Saturday, July 18, 1964 at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Montague, Victoria Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Denham, Kilmuir, P.E.I., became the bride of David Earl Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Morrison, New London.

Rev. B. C. Lowrey officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Baskets of cut flowers were placed at the altar, and the guest pews were decorated with pink bows and pansies.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. Her floor length gown was of nylon organza over satin, and featured a fitted bodice, full skirt, and long tapered sleeves.

Her waist length veil was held in place by a headpiece of white flowers and pearls.

She carried a cascade of red sweetheart roses, with long white streamers. Her only jewellery was pearl necklace and earrings, a gift of the groom.

The maid of honor was Linda Bieren, wearing a dress of deep blue nylon organza over satin, with short bouffant skirt and puffed sleeves. She wore a veiled headpiece of flowers and carried a nosegay of blue and white carnations.

The bridesmaids, Valerie Denham, sister of the bride, and Donna Carruthers, wore identically styled dresses of pink and yellow nylon organza over satin, with bouffant skirts and elbow length puffed sleeves, and matching headpieces. They carried nosegays of yellow and white, and pink and white carnations.

The flower girls, Deborah Denham, sister of the bride, and Patricia Morrison, niece of the groom, wore nylon organza dresses, white flowers in their hair, and carried small nosegays of carnations.

Mrs. Fulton Campbell played the wedding music and accompanied John Bears, Brooklyn, who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Nelson Morrison attended his brother as best man, and Wayne Adams, and Donald MacKay were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Hillside Inn, Montague for eighty-five guests. Receiving, the bride's mother wore a two piece pink suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The grooms mother chose a three piece beige suit with brown accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

A toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. B. C. Lowrey; the groom responded.

The guest book was circulated by Norah Mahar.

For travelling the bride chose a three piece pink suit with white accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

Prior to the marriage the bride was tendered a shower at the home of Stewart Carruthers, Hamilton, P.E.I. where she was engaged in teaching. A community shower was held in Whim Road Hall for the bride and groom. The newly-weds will reside in Montague.

Out of town guest were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Stewart, Edmonton, Alberta and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lake, Hamilton, Ontario.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Dinner Today Is Sunlight With Leaves Dancing

"It's a nice day, Ellen. There's sun and a breeze. But even so, the hay doesn't seem to be making well. There's not much life to it" James reported at dinner today... The little truck had returned our farmers then from the haying at Rob's. Each household of the name claims, by and large, its own at the mealtimes.

A neat roast was our main fare, one off a youngling which had been raised and fitted on this farm. It was interesting to us on this account, as also are those cuts we dine on, and discuss and compare, that from other farms we know, may at times reach our table... Is it tender and fine of grain? Altogether tasteful? Or on the other hand is it only an indifferent dish? And why? Was there no careful "eye of the master" to fit it? Or what of its breeding? Perhaps, as James may cite an example from one raised here: "Do you remember that one,. Ellen?" he will query, "it looked like a ... but was actually a mixture of breeds — 'mongrel' of sorts, never meant to make what one might call good beef!"

Dinner today was sunlight, and dancing leaves beyond the door. It was first phlox blossoming pinkly, and deep pink roses on low wandering bushes in the border... It was roast beef, and Island - potatoes, and the sweet of new beets, and crisp leaves of head - lettuce from the garden, and to spice all, green onions. And James inquiring shortly, "Is that sound the truck starting up, Ellen? I mustn't keep it waiting for me — we can't make hay after sundown!"

The sunset was on our left in a glory of merging shades, when we set out to follow a summertrail along the fields. Up the farm - lane we came, leaving it behind at length to cut across a far pasture and the road to reach Mr. and Mrs. A's open door... Soft underfoot and bedecked with flowerings the pastures are, conditioned the thought came, in no small measure by the generous applications of manure, carried thither from the stables by our farmers, along often wintry paths.

From a summit of this farm we could look out at the work of the haying. We could recognize James, and single out at the distance each one of the crew. In the yard, we could see the tiny ones at Rob's. Jamie's older pair: the three year old and the two, active and busy. Before long the falling shadows, would call them in to bed.

Cosy and quiet the A's home is as always, its serenity the nice reward of the couple who have met the years happily together. They have known the routine of farmwork, sown and reaped, faced bravely Time's losses and crosses, and been bereaved of many a loved one and friend. And now retired from the farming, they continue on up the westering steps. Content, though somewhat lonely, as we can appreciate, for the kin and friends that were... One of their near relatives, a smallish lady, once a farmwife but now a village dweller, also chanced to be their guest, visiting as it happened, the house and home of her girlhood. She was — and is, though the years now naturally somewhat restrict this — an active, and ideal farmwife, with as we well know, a kind heart and an infectious chuckle.

"Troubles come — who hasn't them? But we mustn't dwell on the dark side — we're not meant to" she will say.

The stream which runs not far from the roadside, sang for us while homing and stars lighted our steps all the way. At peace was — and is, the night.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good - night.....

MR. AND MRS. WINSTON CHEVERIE

Reception At Cavendish Follows July Ceremony

Saint James Roman Catholic Church, Summerfield, was the scene of a summer wedding on Saturday July 4, 1964, when Gertrude Marina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deighan, Summerside, became the bride of Winston Louis Cheverie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cheverie, Charlottetown. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles Cheverie and the servers were Wayne and David Cheverie, all brothrs of the groom.

Wedding music was played by Gabriel Chaisson of Summerside The church was decorated with carnations and greenery, and the guest pews were marked with white bows and lilies of the valley.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white satin brocade imported from Vienna, fashioned on princess lines having a portrait neckline and elbow length sleeves, and a dome shaped train. Her chapel length veil of tulle illusion with lace border was held by a high pillbox and she carried a bouquet of feathered mums, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Donna Deighan, as maid of honor for her sister, and Arlene Schurman, and Margaret Rose Deighan, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids, wore floor length frocks of soft gold brocade. The dresses were fashioned with bateau necklines, short sleeves, and bell shaped skirts. They wore matching gold bandeaux and carried bouquets of Orange Delight. The gowns were designed by the bride and made by the groom's mother.

John Mullen, acted as best man for Mr. Cheverie, and the ushers were Bert Dunphy and Carl Cheverie, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Deighan, the bride's mother, was gowned in a blossom pink two - piece dress of shantung silk. She wore a pink hat of tulle illusion and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Cheverie, mother of the groom, was in a sheath dress of blue Egyptian silk. She wore a hat of blue tulle illusion and matching corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Bay Vista Lounge, Cavendish for 80 guests. The toast was proposed to the bride by Francis McNeill, Summerside, and responded by the groom. Ernest Gallant, Summerside, acted as master of ceremonies, and the telegrams were read by the best man, Judy Croken, cousin of the bride was in charge of the guest book.

For a honeymoon trip to Montreal, the bride chose a pink flowered sheath dress with matching pink accessories. She wore a white hat, white accessories and a pink and white corsage.

Out of the province guests included, Mrs. Gertrude Ross, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Stasia Jones, Boston, Mass.; Mary Austin, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Cheverie, Petawawa, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. James Knight, Halifax, N.S.; Mrs. Ian MacQuarrie, Halifax, N.S.; Mrs. Sheila Jacques, Sydney, N.S.; John Mullen, Toronto, Ont.; and Mr. and Mrs. James Potts, Chipman, N.B.

The bride and groom have taken up residence at 131 North River Road, Charlottetown. The groom is employed with Continental Casualty Company in Charlottetown.

MENU Magic from the TEST KITCHEN

Salad Success

A little salad reminder ... for summer and all year round ... that salad greens should be as crisp as a crinoline and as cold as a politician's heart! Great green salads use a variety of greens—lettuce, endive, spinach or dandelion greens, celery, and a choice of watercress, parsley, chives or snipped onion tops. And for a "different touch", crumble in a little zesty Canadian blue cheese, then dress it just before serving with your bestest French dressing. There's a salad that IS a salad!

"In the Bag" Picnics

Ever try "finger food" suppers, packed in paper bags for easy toting to the picnic spot? With one bag for each "picnicker", service is simplified and the aftermath is a snap, as bags, paper plates, serviettes and cups are tossed into receptacles for same. Food might consist of hamburg or Kaiser buns filled with a nippy cheese and bacon spread, a foil wrapped bundle of raw vegetable nibblers, blue grapes and a fresh pear for out-of-hand eating, some butter cookies or a brownie square, and a carton of cold milk, complete with short straw. Deck the bags with names of recipients in bright colors, or use pictures for the children, drawn free-hand or cut from comics. And, for a thoughtful touch, tuck in an envelope containing a prepared (paper) facecloth, nicely astringent.

Pies to Perfection

Next time you bake a summer berry pie, remember that fruit pies just love to run out in the oven ... but they haven't the nerve to try it when there's a little quick cooking tapioca inside. And by the way, most people like fruit pie served à la mode, so have plenty of ice cream handy to serve your pie fans when their favorite pie comes to the table, still warm from the oven.

Stuff 'em With Goodness

Baked stuffed tomatoes never go amiss for summer lunch or supper time ... neither do green peppers. Might fill them with macaroni and cheese (don't skimp on that cheese sauce please!) and top them with buttered crumbs or crunchy cereal. Bake till the tomatoes and/or green peppers are tender and the macaroni piping hot.
