MARY HAWORTH

Wife Seeks Help For Sulky Father And Husband

Dear Mary Haworth: My adult-age children and I are at our wits' end to know hat can be done to help a sulky father and husband. We used to think he was mentally sick; but now we don't think so. He has excellent health and manages his business very well.

John, I'll call him, hasn't spent a day in bed ailing for years. But he has sulky spells and seems to enjoy them. He will sulk for days, and sometimes weeks, over nothing at all. Then all of a sudden he snaps out of it, and life at our house is normal again.

When John is sulking we try to talk to him and treat him as usual, as if we don't notice; but he just ignores us. If we enter the room where he is, he promptly exits; and at such times he is spiteful to us, especially to me.

WON'T RISK ARGUMENT

As a family, we don't have arguments, because we've learned not to speak our minds—so we don't have discussions on world affairs, politics, sports, etc. We always agree with John's opinions, as we want peace in our home. But the trouble is that we don't know how to handle the situation.

John's actions when sulking are like a two-year-old child's. Do you think these spells will develop in our children as they grow older? They haven't showed signs of it yet. If John needs medical help, how should I go about getting him to see a doctor? V.Y.

EMOTIONAL CRIPPLE

Dear V.Y.: Literally speaking, the periodic pouter of adult age is an emotional cripple, who unfortunately has never made a consistent intelligent effort to heal the damaged area in his personality.

Consequently, every once in a while, when some new prick or blow hits the sore spot, he begins to [illegible] conspicuously again, in [illegible] of "acting out" a pointedly accusatory sense of injury — sullenly aimed at his nearest and dearest, without regard to whether "they did it."

He behaves this way not only because the new jolt hurts, but also and chiefly because it sparks a violent upheaval of residual childish rage and misery in his personality. This morbid material is associated with childhood inability to get off his chest his needs, his distress, his feelings of neglect resentment, etc., in relation to early caretakers, who somehow failed to give him adequate love security and supportive attention.

SULKY MOTHER?

Thus, in your husband's case, it's not strange that he behaves like a two-year-old during his sulking spells.

It is possible, indeed very probable, that John's mother (or mother-substitute) was a sulker too—whose sulking was a damaging factor in his life, due as much to her bad example as to her neurotic inability to love him warmly and well. However, it doesn't follow that John's morbid behavior will similarly affect his children, since after all he's not their mother — and it is the mother's influence that shapes the child, for better or worse.

Frankly, it's doubtful that anyone close to him can direct the cure. One has to be unsentimental, bluntly objective and keenly perceptive, to take the mask off his kind of behavior. In my opinion, John should apply for short term intensive psycho-therapy. M.H.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

MR. AND MRS. JAMES DONALD SIMS

Two Ministers Officiated At Wedding Myrna Hancock Was Soloist

The historic old Geddie Memorial Church, New London, was the setting for a lovely summer wedding when Phyllis Irene MacLeod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allison MacLeod, New London, became the bride of James Donald Sims, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sims, Park Corner, on July 5, 1956, at 2.30 p.m.

The officiating clergymen were the Rev. E.H. Bean, B.A., and Rev. L. Bartlett, BA., who performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. James Campbell was the organist and Miss Myrna Hancock, Summerside, sang beautifully. Her first selection was the wedding hymn "O, Perfect Love" which began the ceremony and "I'll walk beside you" during the signing of the register.

The couple were married under an artistically covered arch of green leaves, white and pink roses. From the centre of the arch hung pink and white wedding bells. The altar was banked with potted plants, cut flowers, ornamental and Island ferns. The guest pews were marked with white satin bows and old English red roses. The ery pretty bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a strapless formal length gown of white nylon tulle over brocaded satin and a bolero jacket designed with Peter Pan collar and lily point sleeves.

The full skirt featured appliqued roses, outlined by iridescent sequins. Her elbow length veil of bridal illusion fell from a halo headdress of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade bouquet of red sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Miss Janet Jurke, Swampscott, Mass., wore a cobalt blue ballerina length gown of net over taffeta with matching stole, headdress and mitts. With this was carried a nosegay of white carnations and satin stramers.

Miss Dorene Bevan, Charlottetown, wore a formal length gown in heavenly blue shade with matching stole, headdress and mitts. Her nosegay was pink carnations and satin streamers..

The best man was Mr. Alvin MacLeod, borther of the bride, and the ushers were Mr. Ivan Somers, Charlottetown, and Mr. Bruce McLeod, Kensington.

The reception was held at Birch Hill Lodge, Summerside. The dining-room was decorated with pink and white wedding bells potted plants and cut flowers, all enhanced by the soft glow of three lighted silver candleabra. The three tier wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Miss Janet Burke was in charge of the guest book and fifty guests signed their good wishes.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. E.H. Bean and responded to by the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a pale pink suit of Darconcyle with pink and white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a pink frosted nylon dress with bolero jacket and white accessories. Her corsage was pink and white carnations.

The groom's gift to the bride was a rhinestone necklace and to the best man a black onyx tie-clip.

The bride's gift to her attendants was French perfume. The soloist, Miss Myrna Hancock caught the bride's bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Sims left on a wedding motor trip through the Maritime Provinces.

The bride's travelling costume was a suit of dusty pink worsted gaberdine, white accessories and a corsage of white stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Sims will live at Park Corner where the groom is a successful farmer.

Out of town guests were Miss Janet Burke, Swampscott, U.S.A., Miss Myrna Hancock, Summerside, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Houston, Charlottetown, and Miss Dorene Bevan, Charlottetown.

HAPPENINGS

There was mutual pleasure for hostesses and guests at the smart mid summer luncheon given by Miss Catharine Rogers, and Miss Clare Brehaut, Monday, at the Charlottetown.

Miss Rogers and Miss Brehaut were asisted in welcoming their guests by Mrs. Cecil Stewart and Mrs. Frederick Brehaut.

Covers were laid for about fifty at luncheon size tables.

These tables were centered with silver vases filled with pink and yellow snap dragon.

Miss Brehaut and Miss Rogers were looking particularly attractive in summer town-outfits. Miss Brehaut was wearing a straight line sheer wool frock and one of the new very large shiny black straw hats.

Miss Rogers chose a Mexican yellow linen. Her hat was a medium size leghorn with a gay tricolor banding in green, white and red.

Both Miss Brehaut and Miss Rogers were wearing beautiful pieces of jewelry. These had been chosen during recent travelling in Mexico and South America.

In the latter country Miss Brehaut and Miss Rogers had been the guests of Miss Rogers' brother, Mr. Benjamin Rogers, Canadian Ambassador to Peru.

Dr. and Mrs. Eric Found and daughter, Mary Janet, are on a short vacation in Nova Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. McMahon, Montreal, are spending a very pleasant holiday on Prince Edward Island.

Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Putnam children are guests of the Doctor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Putnam, at their summer place in Eldon.

Rev. Harold A. Kennedy, Mrs. Kennedy and their two little daughters, Dorothy and Marilyn, Sydney Mines, Cape Breton, have been visiting with Mrs. Kennedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L.W. Saunders, Prince St. They are now vacationing for two weeks at Tracadie Beach; Rev. Mr. Kennedy will be guest preacher on the Winsloe Circuit, August 5th and 12th.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Thomson and their four young daughters, Merolyn, Marjorie Lou, Margaret (Peggy) and Elizabeth Jean arrived at their home in Miller's Falls, Mass. They spent a very pleasant vacation visiting friends on Prince Edward Island. While on the Island they were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Walker, Charlottetown, and Mr. and Mrs. John Thomson, West Royalty. They also visited with many other relatives and friends enjoying the visit to the homeland very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Corbett and their sons Elevin and Donald have returned to their home in Milton. They had a very plesant visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence MacKenzie, Somerville, Mass. They also visited Mrs. Corbett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Thomson, Natick, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lowler, Natick, and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith, Boston.

Corporal William Beatty, R.C. M.P., Mrs. Beatty and four daughters returned to Sussex, Sunday. They had spent a week in Borden the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacDonald.

Miss Patsy MacDonald has returned to her home in Borden. She had spent a month holidaying in Campbellton, N. B., where she was the guest of Miss Bonnie Beatty.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Stead, Calgary, Alberta, spent the weekend at Baltic, guests of John Riley.

RIVERDALE—CHURCHILL W.I.

The regular monthly meeting of Riverdale-Churchill W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Orvin Corney on July 4th with an attendance of seven members and three visitors present.

The meeting opened with the Ode and repeating creed in unison. Roll call was answered with an article for an auction sale. The minutes of the last meeting were read, approved and signed. Correspondence was read by the secretary. Some discussion took place concerning a lawn party to be held on the school grounds.

Next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. John McQuaid. Roll call to be answered with an article for an auction sale.

The meeting closed with the Queen. After which a dainty lunch was served by hostess.

SPRINGVALE W.I.

Tuesday evening July 10th, Mrs. Ralph Crabbe entertained the members of Springvale W.I. The meeting opened with the singing of the Ode, repeating the Creed and silent prayer. Roll call was answered by fourteen members and three visitors were present.

Minutes of the June meeting were read. Business from the minutes was discussed. The secretary reported having paid Mr. Reymond. It was decided to purchase cans if enough orders could be obtained.

The sick committee reported cards sent and the school committee reported that all needs were supplied. It was decided to finish painting the school porch and to paint the porch floor before school re-opened. Mrs. Golden Dollar was to purchase paint. Correspondence was read. Thank you notes for cards and a baby gift were read

It was moved and seconded that one dollar be forwarded to the Polio Post. One member subscribed to the same for a year and purchased one copy.

Very interesting reports were given by Mrs. Charles Newport on the annual meeting of the Protestant Orphanage and on the annual and District Convention.

It was decided to have a weiner roast at Brackley on Saturday evening July 14th.

The next meeting will meet with Misses Alice and Florence Dollar on August 10th. The lunch committee are the following: Mrs. Ivan Sentner, Mrs. Austin Sentner, Mrs. Everett Clow and Mrs. Ralph Crabbe.

It was moved that the meeting adjourn. The meeting closed by singing the Queen. Lunch was served by the hostess and committee in charge.
