Cranberry Relish Adds Special Flavor To Menu

GO CREATIVE with Raw Cranberry Relish! It's so easy to make that a jarful should be kept refrigerated to give variety to old-time favorite dishes, as well as to serve as an accompaniment to meats and poultry.

Baked apples and apple dumplings take on added interest and flavor when stuffed with raw cranberry relish. Applesauce is a new dish when raw cranberry relish to taste is added. Fruit cup is given new flavor with a little raw cranberry relish mixed with the fruit.

If you are looking for a dressing for fruit or poultry salads that is different and delicious, try blending a little cranberry relish with mayonnaise. Or use it to blend with other salad ingredients or as a topping.

Measurements level; recipes for 6

RAW CRANBERRY RELISH

2 cups fresh cranberries
½ unpeeled orange
1 cup sugar

Grind cranberries and orange with medium blade of food chopper. Add sugar. Mix well.

Let stand 4 hours or overnight for flavors to blend. Keep jarful in refrigerator to use as needed.

Makes 1½ cups.

FRESH BAKED CRANBERRY APPLE DUMPLINGS

6 medium-tart baking apples
Pastry using 3c. flour or 1½ pkgs. pastry mix
1c. raw cranberry relish
6 tsp. sugar
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1½ tbsp. sugar, additional

Wash and peel apples. Remove cores, cut out centers; do not cut through blossom ends. (Mix orange or lemon juice with any excess apple and save for salads.)

Roll half pastry at a time ⅛ inch thick into rectangle 7 x 21 inches. Cut into 3 (7 inch) squares.

Center an apple in each. Fill centers with raw cranberry relish, using about 2½ tbsp. for each; dust tsp. sugar over each, dot with 1 tsp. butter.

Bring opposite corners of pastry together over top, pressing sides together firmly. Repeat, using all pastry and remaining ingredients. Brush surface of dumplings with milk; dust lightly with sugar.

Bake 30 min. in hot over. Reduce heat to 375 degrees (mod.) and bake 35 min. or until apples are tender when tested at top with sharp fork and crust is brown.

Serve warm: top with whipped cream if desired.

TOMORROW'S HAM DINNER

Stuffed Eggs with Cress
Baked Half Ham
Garnish — Sliced Oranges
Baked Yams Pickles Broccoli
Little Alaskas
or Stewed Fig Compote
Coffee, Tea, Milk

THE CHEF BAKES "LITTLE ALASKAS"

Mesdames: This will delight the college crowd. You will need 4 eggs, ¼ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. cream of tartar, ¾ tsp. vanilla, ¾ c. confectioner's sugar, 6 Mary Ann shells (purchased) and 1 pt. ice cream (any flavor, frozen hard).

Crack egg shells; pull apart, letting whites slip into one bowl, yolks in another.

Beat whites to high froth; beat in salt, cream of tartar and vanilla; gradually beat in sugar until meringue forms peaks.

Fill centers of shells with ice cream. Place on wooden cutting board. Cover all over to base with meringue. Bake 3 min. at 450 degrees F.

Serve at once on salad - sized plates with small dessert forks. Et voila!

Nuptial Mass Is Celebrated At St. Ann's Church, Lot 65

St. Ann's Church, Lot 65, was the scene of a recent wedding when Marie Levenia, daughter of Mrs. Patrick McCardle, Emyvale, and the late Patrick McCardle, was united in marriage with James Leo, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cudmore, Emyvale.

Rev. Charles McCarthy performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. Rev. James Smith was present in the sanctuary.

The church was decorated with mixed flowers and the guest pews were marked with satin bows.

The church organist Mary E. McElroy accompanied Marilyn Murray who sang hymns during the nuptial Mass and the signing of the register. The bride, given in marriage by her brother Eugene, was charming in a floor length gown of nylon lace and net over satin. The fitted bodice, trimmed with cup sequins and simulated pearls, was fashioned with lily point sleeves, and the square cut neckline formed a V in the back. A crown of seed pearls and sequins held her shoulder length bouffant veil of French illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The maid of honour was Paula McAvinn, cousin of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Paula McCardle, sister of the bride. They wore identical gowns of red velvet featuring bouffant skirts with a bow at the waistline. They wore matching pillbox headdresses and carried a bouquet of white mums.

Brendon Cudmore, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The guests were ushered to their seats by James McCardle, brother of the bride and Francis Cudmore, brother of the groom.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a navy blue linen dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the New Haven Legion for 70 guests. A three tier cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the bride's table and was flanked by tall lighted tapers and bouquets of mixed flowers.

Thomas McAvinn, uncle of the bride acted as toastmaster and called upon Father McCarthy to propose the toast to the bride. The groom responded. Elva Cudmore, sister of the groom circulated the guest book.

Following the reception the young couple left on a honeymoon trip through the Maritimes. For travelling the bride chose a three piece charcoal suit topped with a cranberry red coat. She wore a white maribou hat and white accessories.

Prior to her marriage the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower at Lot 65 hall.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Charles Johnston, Boston, aunt of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Cudmore will reside in Emyvale.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Children Are Practicing For Christmas Concerts

And then, fitting in nicely, with the overall picture of the farming, and, as it happened, all in good time, our plowing was completed. Last furrows were turned this evening. And looking off up the valley and about, it seemed as though the fields snuggled down sleepily, all work done-seedtime and harvest well past — sank then to rest... One day, a crow flying low to a hilltop will blow a rusty bugle; a dark rune of wild geese will wing by overhead; a pheasant call from a bushland. The sleep of the winter will be over, and once more Spring will come back to the farmlands.

Meanwhile the farmwork commenced to conform today to a former schedule of the season. Increased chores there was, because of the stabling of stock. The manure-spreader, only rarely used since the spreadings of the springtime and summer, took up again its almost daily run, spreading to a near field, to maintain it as a permanent pasture.

"Ah ha!" we said, and closed a door.

"That's what makes the clovers grow, Ellen!" James smiled.

Today new troughs were made from the spruce boards, the results of a harvesting in our woodlands, so handy to have on hand, whether it be for a farmwife to have to fashion a neat box in which to set a broody hen, or as a container in which to plant geraniums to brighten her dooryard. Or for the farmers to engage in some project of their carpentry. Hands were busy.

"You wouldn't know" one questioned coming in to open without thought the door of the refrigerator in the kitchen, "where those two-inch nails are that we had left over from wiring the verandah?" She chuckled.

"You won't find them in there!" we said.

A farmer of once in an adjoining community, his neighbors of years, carried to his cemetery this afternoon — a kindly man. A bit weary, we think, having come up to a goodly age, as is wheat golden to the reaping, nevertheless to be sadly missed, though forever remembered, by his family, other loves ones and friends.

Because it continues to be true that when a man dies, whether it be one of those considered to be among the great of his times — a man of wide horizons publicly, or one whose life has been lived pretty well within the confines of his own and nearer communities, as was that of this farmer.

"For years beyond our ken, the light he leaves behind him, lies upon the paths of men."

Each of us has his or her own world — his or her own circle of kin and friends. And it is comforting to those bereaved to know that their dear one gone, always exemplified a fine pattern of living and leaves to them memories of a kind heart.

"This" a lad seated in the old rockingchair in the kitchen this evening said, about to commence to hum a tune for us" is one of the numbers we're to have at our Christmas concert. See if you like it! It's all about Christmas" he smiled, happily.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good-night.....
