-DISPLACED PERSONS MISPLACED - It looked for a while last evening as if nine displaced persons had got misplaced. They were expected to arrive in Summerside by the evening train from Halifax as farm workers and the farmers' aid representatives of the National Employment Service were on hand to meet them when the train came in but they were not aboard. It was later found out that through some change in the plans they had left Halifax this morning. They will now arrive here this evening and will be distributed to the farmers, who applied for them. It could not be learned last evening what nationalities were represented among them but they were selected from displaced persons camps in Europe.-S.

-HONORED BY FELLOW MEMBERS - Miss Beth Clarke, Mrs. Allan Clark and Mrs. Wallace Donald were honored by their fellow members of Montrose Church last Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barbour. With the exception of a brief period when Mrs. Kenneth Crockett was supplied, these three ladies have given willingly of their musical ability in serving as church organists for a number of years. A very fine poem composed and read by Mrs. Roy Barbour expressed the genuine appreciation of the congregation. The presentations were made by Mrs. Harry Barbour and Neil Barbour, and the recipients made fitting response. A happy evening of games and contests was enjoyed. There was also a sing-song with Mrs. J. M. Sheen as accompanist. A beautiful luncheon was served by the ladies.

It was suggested that the church women meet to clean the church on the following Tuesday. A very fine outfit for an Indian girl was displayed, and a vote of thanks was voted to the Dorcas Secretary, Mrs. John Moase, and others who assisted in preparing it. A comprehensive report from the Board meeting was read. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Borden Campbell.

McNeill, officiating Catholic clergyman at the station celebrated Mass and preached an appropriate sermon. Father McNeill was also guest speaker at the breakfast when he explained the aims and purposes of the Holy Name Society. O'Neill, presided and following Father McNeill's talk a regular business meeting was held. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.-S.

Let's Talk It Over
A Prince County Viewpoint
by "d"

MUSIC, MUSIC, MUSIC.
Some people who cannot appreciate the subtle beauties of our musical classics turn up their noses contemptuously and say they'd rather hear a feline serenade on a backyard fence than such meaningless caterwauling. They do not realize that the faults lie in their inability to appreciate good music. This intolerant attitude is deplorable.

On the other hand, there are some people who do appreciate and enjoy the best in music, and who never lose an opportunity to parade their scorn and contempt for the "popular" music of our day. When they hear a modern sentimental ballad or a hillbilly song, they make sure that everybody within hearing knows how their sensitive ears are being outraged by the blaring sound vibrations. This attitude is also born of intolerance and equally deplorable.

In this diverse world of ours there will always be lovers of the classics, lovers of popular music, and lovers of hillbilly tunes. Why shouldn't we accept this situation with tolerance and good grace, or if not these two, at least with good manners. By all means, let us try to get as many people as possible to appreciate the things that are good in music. In recent years many of our schools have been doing fine work to this end. Our music festivals cannot help but spread the love of music among more and more of our school children as the years go by. In spite of all our efforts, however, we shall probably fall considerably short of 100 per cent effectiveness.

There are, and will always be, those whose ears are not trained to catch the elusive charm of Mozart, Beethoven or Wagner. Is it not a fine thing that these have the popular songs to enjoy? These songs have in many cases enriched their lives, and are part and parcel of the precious experiences of their yesterday. Through many of their reminiscences is woven the golden thread of one-time popular songs.

To expect the ordinary individual who has no background of good music to attend a concert asking a too high price, and to expect him to have the faintest idea of the difference between a good and a bad record is to expect the impossible. It will have an opposite effect on you than a popular song would have. If you play a popular song up in a short burst but soon come down again and your love for it will soon grow cold. (Witness the short reign of the No. 1 tunes on the Hit Parades). Everytime you play a classic you will like it better. The intricate rhythms repeated again and again will have more meaning and enjoyment for you, the more you hear them played.

city over a three year period.

Bank Letter Read
The letter read by the Finance Committee chairman was as follows: "In the natural course of events this liability to the Bank is taken care of by the issuing of City of Charlottetown bonds. The borrowing of money is becoming very difficult owing to recent restrictions instigated by the Bank of Canada. Since these restrictions have been imposed, municipalities all across Canada have hastened to borrow money through bond issues, hoping to find a sale for their particular municipalities before the effect of these restrictions would be felt, the result being, first, a flooding of the Bond market, and secondly, a higher rate of interest on bonds offered in an endeavour to sell."

The letter went on to state, "I would suggest to you, Sir, that we make a coupon issue of $250,000.00 before the coupon rate goes higher, as with Government restrictions of Bank loans to Municipalities, etc., it is imperative that we refund our overdraft to this extent in order to keep within our credit limit." Authority to issue debentures for that amount at an interest rate not over 4-1-2 was given by the City Council.

A statement of the Finance Committee, read by Coun. Prowse, showed an increase in receipts along the line with nearly $12,000 being received from real estate assessments over the figure for the same month last year. Personal property income also was higher by $822 with the Poll Tax being up $31.

The report of the street committee appears elsewhere in today's issue.

Much Speculation
(Reuters news agency said Washington today was alive with speculation on the possibility of the Korean war coming to an unexpectedly abrupt end in the near future.

It was not possible to confirm. Reuters said, whether the speculation had any foundation in any secret preliminary exchanges between powers involved on both sides regarding a cease-fire agreement.

(Reuters said, however, the direction had received some indirect encouragement from Marshall's testimony Saturday.

Mayor Profit presided and all Councillors were present at the regular meeting of the Alberton Town Council last night. Minutes of the last meeting and of a special meeting were read and approved. Bills amounting to $288.10 were passed. The Council felt it was not responsible for one amounting to $842. The remaining bills were ordered paid. Correspondence was received from several young dentists who had been contacted with regard to coming to Alberton and no one is available at the present time.

On motion the street committee was instructed to have two loads of rock placed on the north end of Prince William Street. It was decided that special police should be hired for Saturday nights and the matter was left in the hands of the police committee. Owing to complaints received by the Council, it was decided that owners of dogs be requested to keep them on leash or not allow them to run at large.

Following considerable discussion, the sidewalk committee was instructed to get an estimate of the cost of laying a new sidewalk on the west side of Main Street.

Drew Tells

Canada would not be content to be an echo of the United States in foreign policy.

Mr. Pearson's apparent persistence that the American people are much too unaware of Canada could not be disregarded. Yet the 20,000,000-odd Americans who visited Canada each year indicated they were quite aware of their neighbor.

In a recent speech at Renfrew, Ont., Mr. Pearson had referred to "shop-lifters" to test money before television cameras and banks of microphones.

The Minister had expressed the hope that diplomacy would retain some dignity.

Aimed At The U. S.
Mr. Drew said it was obvious the remarks were aimed at the U. S.

Hume Wrong, the Canadian Ambassador to Washington, had made a speech April 23 which also referred to "our sensitiveness of what is said and not said about us," said Mr. Drew.

If there are differences, he said, between Canada and the United States they should be brought out into the open in the Commons.

Before raising any question as to the knowledge of the United States about Canada, "we should be sure we have full knowledge about our own affairs."

But Canadians did not yet know what Canada had undertaken in the North Atlantic Treaty. They did not know what Canada is going to do for the defence of Europe. They did not know if there were undertakings besides the army brigade now being recruited.

money, Reuters said, showed that Marshall was speaking as though he had in mind some specific development, either diplomatic or military, likely to contribute to an end of the military operations in Korea which he could not define publicly without disclosing U. N. war plans.

Plan Organization Of Flying Club At Summerside

A meeting will be held in the Maple Leaf Garden, Wednesday night, which, it is hoped, will result in the organization of a flying club in Summerside. The sponsors desire that all who are interested in flying will attend.

The meeting will be addressed by Mr. Gordon Ducklow, president of the Moncton Flying Club and zone director of the Canadian Flying Clubs Association. He will explain the benefits to be derived from such an organization from the community viewpoint. Besides providing flying instruction, this club would prove invaluable to local needs in times of emergency, such as medical trips to the isolated sick in winter storms, and providing food for places cut off from sources of supply due to some disaster.

If this club is organized it will be the first of its kind on Prince Edward Island. It will provide flying instruction to local people on a non-profit basis. The cost to the student is further reduced by a government assistance plan now in effect whereby the amount of $100 is paid back to the student when he receives his private pilot's licence.

All instruction will be given by licensed flying instructors. Directors of this local club will be elected at the meeting Wednesday night at which a full attendance is to be hoped for.-S.

Spent Exciting

handle a hypo so I'll be ready for El. "Painless" Campbell they call me. The course is about over the one-half point now, and we are becoming seasoned school veterans and soon we will be the senior class. There are more and more pouring in here all the time and they no longer give any breaks; they demand good work or out you go, for about five or six are waiting to get in.

Visit to Mexico

"We left here with six of the boys and drove down through Laredo to Mexico on Saturday, and after about an hour's delay clearing at the border, we went on down to Monterrey. After dark about all we could see of the road was the Yucca trees, and cactus plants in the headlights. It was while I was driving that we first hit those terrific hairpin turns and curves going up into the foothills. Boy, old boy! it was really hair-raising at times.

"We got into Monterrey about 11:00 p.m. and after touring around town for a couple of hours, and seeing a few of the night spots, complete with Spanish dancers, music, etc., we put up at the Hotel Monterrey for the ridiculously low price of $1.75 per person for room and bath.

"In the morning when we got up, we could hardly believe our eyes, for there we were surrounded on all sides by mountains the like of which I had never seen before, and only one of the others had ever seen any at all. The whole city seems just cradled in the lap of mountains, and it was really beautiful with the varicoloured stucco homes.

"Some of the homes we saw could equal anything in Hollywood as they were complete with swimming pools, tiled patios, rose bowers, marble fountains, and a garage bulging with Cadillacs and even a few Rolls-Royces. We had a nice leisurely breakfast, and went up on the hills around the city to have a look. It was even more beautiful from up above. You have seen it so you know what I mean. I really can't describe how I felt about it, but I'm sure you know.

Picturesque Surroundings

"In the afternoon we drove out Route 1 towards Mexico City, and turned off to see the Horse-Tail Falls, back about 10 kilometers off the highway. We wound up in a regular fairland of the book I read as a kid in school. We drove through the real Mexico with the peons leading their burros with a load of faggots, and the big sombrero down over their eyes. The temperature was up to about 110 degrees in the shade and we were on a little back road going up into the mountains.

"We had to stop to cool off the engine as the heat made it boil. However, we finally rounded a turn, and there was one of the most beautiful spots I have ever seen. The whole area was planted with tall palm trees, and below there was a regular Mecca for flower lovers; flowers I have never seen before just bursting out in colors all over. It was like an oasis, and there was a large swimming pool of tile with a country club alongside. The patio of the club was built right out over the side of the mountain and the view was really something.

"We came to see the Falls though, and as we couldn't take the car any further we rented burros, and rode on up into the hills. The scenery, I think I'll never member all my life. We finally reached the Falls which dropped over a sheer cliff face for hundreds of feet, making rainbows of mist all over the area.

A Narrow Escape

"One of the boys, Jim Reeder, and I decided to go up to the top and have a look, and during the process, after all that beauty, I came close to seeing the grimmest sight of all, for the grim reaper came awfully close to harvesting me. About 150 feet up the side of the cliff a tree I was holding wildly towards the rocks and the foot of the falls. Jim let out a scream of horror, and I guess was scared out of a year's growth. However, my guardian angel was with me for I stopped short of a straight 50 ft. drop onto the rocks by catching another tree.

"My knees knocked a tattoo for a solid hour later. I have never had such a close shave yet. All I can say is "Whew!" I managed somehow to get organized fast and after going back up a way to get in a better position, we both looked really beautiful from below. Terra firma never felt so good. Luckily I was hardly scratched and in fine trim.

"Well, anyway, we went back to the club for a tip-top meal of Filet Mignon for about (get this!) 65 cents apiece. After dinner we sat out on the patio and just relaxed in the luxury of it all. The valley down below was so soft and peaceful in that bluish haze of the evening and the birds cooing and whistling, well I can just try but I really can't express it all.

"We finally tore ourselves away from it all, and came back to Monterrey. From there to Fort Sam we just kept boiling right along, changing drivers while the rest slept. We left Monterrey about 9:30 and got here on the post about 3:30. Naturally all of us were dog-tired but happy about one of the nicest week-ends we have ever had. It's something to remember for the rest of my life.

Pvt. Campbell recently completed his chemistry course in the U.S. Army with a mark of "excellent", roughly 85 percent. There were five who "flunked out" totally and five others who were set back to repeat. Since then several more have been dropped.

It would be about a half hour or 45 minutes from the time of the accident until the Mounties arrived, he stated.

Whiston Smith, Southport, testified that on the evening of April 14, Mrs. Ambrose Duffy knocked on his door just as he thought he had heard another noise. He immediately ran down to his gate and on seeing that it was a serious accident he returned to the house and phoned the R.C.M.P. Witness asked them to phone an ambulance and doctor.

On returning to the accident he saw a man in front of Judge Tweedy's car and another on the side of the road. He returned to the house to get a blanket and put it over the man lying on the road. Witness never saw Mrs. Seller and did not see Judge Tweedy until afterwards. He made two phone calls, one to the police and one for a wrecking truck.

Sheldon Smallwood, Southport, lives on the south side of the road across from Mr. Smith. His house was about 220 yards from the road. Witness stated that his little girl ran into the barn and told him there was an accident on the road. He looked out the window and saw a car and truck about 10 or 12 feet apart. He said he could see both vehicles plainly.

A few minutes later the girl came into the barn again and told him there was a man lying on the road. He went down to the scene of the accident but did not see Judge Tweedy for a little time afterwards.

Police Photographs

Cpl. William Johnston, R.C.M.P., took three photographs of the accident from different angles. The first photograph made it appear that the right dual wheel was off the pavement and another photo showed that the front right wheel was six inches off the paved part of the road.

At this point, Mr. J. O. Campbell presented a Guardian of April 14 in which it gave the time of sunset as 6:58 p.m.

Cst. George MacKinnon, R.C.M.P., testified that he received a phone call about 7:20 p.m. on the evening of April 14. He arrived at the accident about 7:40 in company with another police constable.

The front of the car was approximately seven or eight feet from the back of the truck, he stated. Judge Tweedy's car was considerably damaged and could not be operated under its own power. As far as he could see there was no damage to the truck.

Witness found a bottle of gin about two thirds full in the truck. The traffic was heavy by the time he arrived at the scene of the accident and he had met several cars on the way out from town. The traffic is usually heavy around that time of the evening, he stated.

Defence Counsel's Argument

Mr. H. F. MacPhee, in moving for a dismissal on the grounds that there was no evidence whatever to support the charge, stated that it was the duty of the crown to show that there was evidence of a high degree of negligence in order to make it manslaughter.

He pointed out that it was the duty of the court to ascertain whether or not there was gross negligence or wanton misconduct before a man could be committed for a manslaughter trial. There must be an element of crime present, he stated.

There must be negligence which shows disregard for the sake of others, continued Mr. MacPhee. "In a case for civil damages you need only the lowest degree of negligence but in criminal case you need the highest degree of negligence."

He pointed out that from past cases it had appeared that there was a tendency to follow the temptation of committing a man to trial where a fatality occurred. He also stated that there was nothing in the evidence to show that Judge Tweedy had been violating the Highway Traffic Act.

Judge Tweedy's failure to pull out and pass the truck was an error in judgment, he added. He pointed out that the accident occurred at dusk which was a deceptive time for driving at any period of

Ottawa Professor Guest Speaker At S'side Rotary

Professor Scott Gordon, professor of Economics at Carleton College, Ottawa, was the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Summerside Rotary Club held yesterday at Copley's Restaurant. While Professor Gordon is in the Province in connection with an investigation being carried on in regard to the fishing industry he elected not to discuss his mission here as he has not yet accumulated much information on the subject.

He is a graduate of Dalhousie University and studied at Columbia University as well and he dealt with the inter-dependence of peoples and of nations in economic matters. He discussed his subject with regard to the individual, the region, the nation and the world at large, showing how impossible it is for any person, group or nation to live in isolation. Every country depends on other countries for important raw materials. He developed his theme in such a way that it was clear to all his listeners.

Rotarian guests were B. Graham Rogers of Charlottetown and Clarence Nickerson of Moncton. Other guests were Messrs. Fred Dunn and J. S. Turnbull.-S.

Interesting Films Shown At S'side

Several films were shown in the Capitol Theatre, Summerside on Sunday evening by two visiting priests, members of the missionary society of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, who are very active in working among the Eskimos in Canada's northland. The two films, Father Dunlop and Father Quinn, showed one film depicting the work of their order among the Eskimos.

A second film showed scenes of the Marian Congress held two years ago in Ottawa. A note of interest to local people in this film was the appearance of His Excellency, Bishop Boyle of Charlottetown, and Cardinal McGuigan.

The third film was slide scenes of the notifiable of the Oblates at Arnprior, Ont. where many island boys were seen in training for the priesthood. Among them was Ralph Bernard, son of Hon. J. A. Bernard, Tignish (former Lieutenant - Governor), Ronnie Blacquier, North Rustico, Boo Dalton, nephew of Mr. J. E. Dalton, Summerside, Adelaide Gallant, Miscouche, Alan Noonan and Bob Kelly of Charlottetown, as well as many other Islanders.-S.
