MOVED MANY TIMES.—According to a Nova Scotia exchange there lives in New Glasgow a man who has been married 32 years, and in that time has made 20 house "moves." We do not know how the old saying regarding the difference between moving and paying rent would fit this case.

BANK ROBBERY.—More bank burglars—this time in Vancouver, B C. They attempt to enter the Bank of British North America, but were frightened from the vault, where $200,000 was lying, by Fred Salisbury, the night clerk, who appeared with a revolver. It is also said that some of the bills stolen at Winnipeg have turned up in Vancouver.

THE STORM WAS FUNNY.—The last big gale, while responsible for great loss of life and property, seems to have been, in certain districts, of a humorous turn, says a Digby paper. After levelling with the ground the barns of two neighbors of Captain McGrath, of Victoria Beach, the wind ripped the roof and sides off his barn, leaving only the stall in which was a cow standing, and then dropped on the startled Jersey a ton or more of hay.

DON'T WANT COLONIES.— Senator Vest, of Missouri, has introduced a joint resolution in the United States Senate declaring that the acquirement of colonial possessions, to be governed as such, is unconstitutional, and that these possessions must be acquired only for the purpose of of organizing territories for ultimate admission to the United States. This is the first note of all anti-expansionists at Washington, and the debate promises to be animated,

FAST RUN WITH MAILS.— The English mails ex S S Labrador, which left Halifax on the Intercolonial railway special mail train at four o'clock Sunday afternoon, were delivered to the postal authorities at Bonaventure station at 3.30 o'clock on Monday afternoon, the Intercolonial flyer having made the run from Halifax to Montreal, 837 miles, in the magnificent time of twenty-three hours and a half. This may be considered a record run between these points, as several stops had to be made for water, etc.—Montreal Witness.

FOLLOWED BY A LION.— A thrilling story is told by The British Central African Gazette, in which a cyclist and a lion participated. The wheelman was riding from Blantyre to Namazi at night, and while pushing his bicycle up a hill nearly had a fit on looking around and seeing a huge lion standing on the road. He somehow managed to get on his machine, and then pedalled up the slope for all he was worth, but the lion, with ominous growls, was surely overhauling him. The crest of the hill was reached just in time, the cyclist simply flew down the opposite slope, and the king of beasts gave up the chase in disgust astonishment.

A MOTHER'S PLEA.—A New Haven despatch says: Try to imagine the anguish of a mother who, to excuse her son, to explain his wrong doing, to earn his forgiveness, is forced to cry: 'Tis my boy's blood. He is the victim of heredity. The sin is not his. It is the man's whom I call husband; it is his father's. The boy inherits his wilfulness. Such is the unhappy position of Mrs Slayton, mother of Frank Slayton, the young man who posed as Gen Lee's son, as a West Point cadet, who was welcome at the clubs here, who forged the name of one who had been most hospitable to him. She is bending all her loving energy to save her boy from the consequences of his newest crime. Mrs Slayton married Dr Slayton, of Oswego, N Y., and afterwards left him on account of his dissipated habits,

A NEW MILLIONAIRE

Frank J Gould, the Youngest of the Family, Receives His Fortune

NEW YORK, Dec 10.— Frank Jay Gould, youngest of the late Jay Gould's six children, was 21 years old on Monday and received a fortune of $10,000,000, his share of his father's estate. Frank Gould lives with his sister at Lyndhurst, Irvington. He works diligently every day from 10 o'clock in the morning to 3 in the afternoon, at the offices of the Missouris Pacific system, No 195 Broadway. Here he is under the eyes of his brothers, George, Edwin and Howard Frank Gould lacks 3 inches of being 6 feet tall. He is slender, but well knit and enduring. He is a typical Gould.

During his early youth he was under the care of a private tutor. For several years he attended the Berkeley school, and finally graduated at the University of the City of New York. He gave $4,000 worth of instruments to the engineering department of the university two years ago. It is understood that his fortune is held in absolute trust, and that he can spend only the accumulated and future incomes.

News Notes

Although President McKinley appears to have forgotten all about the Clayton-Bulwer treaty when he wrote the paragraph in his message in reference to the Nicaragua Canal the senate committee appears to have kept it in mind. A Washington despatch to the New York Herald states that an amendment by Senator Harris is to be added to the canal bill authorizing the president to negotiate a treaty with Great Britain for the purpose of guaranteeing the neutrality of the canal.

Kitchener's enthusiasm for a great college at Khartoum is not so strange when it is called to mind that he is a learned man. All the world knows the conquoror of Omdurman as a military genius, but few know him as a profound Oriental scholar, or as the author of a book of government reports on Palestine and the synagogues of Galilee, in which there are many quotations from the Talmud and and Rabbinical literature. "It is about the last book," says the Jewish Times, "one would expect a soldier to write."

The famous Valkyrie III, Lord Dunraven's challenger for the America's Cup in 1895, was hauled out at Greenock the other day. It is said that she is to be got into racing trim in time for the trial races with Shamrock, the 90 footer which will go to America in 1899 to sail for the cup which the Valkyrie failed to win. Valkyrie has lain idle for three years, and her bottom was found to be loaded with tons of barnacles that had eaten into the hard oak of the stern-post and keel, leaving them pitted as by small pox. The softer wood of her planking had not been nearly so much affected. The 90-footer will have to be copper-sheeted throughout below the water line.
