CST. AND MRS. JOHN GREEN

White, Red And Gold Hues Seen At Autumn Wedding

A very pretty double ring wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Charlottetown on Saturday, October 17, at 11.00 a.m. with Rev. Louis Elias officiating, when Elizabeth Louise, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. B. Anderson, was united in marriage to Cst. John Kirk Greer, formerly of Ottawa, Ont., now with the Alberton, P.E.I. detachment of the RCMP.

The chancel of the church was beautifully decorated in the autumn motif, with large baskets of branches of maple leaves and white chrysanthemums: the altar and organ console with vases of bronze colored mums and the pews with maple leaf and the pews with maple leaf sprays tied with bows of gold satin ribbon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a classic, elegant gown which portrayed superb simplicity in a sheath with detachable chapel train that swept into dramatic back fullness. Exquisite embossed embroidery in leaf pattern on the front of the skirt and neck was the only adornment on this classic floor length gown.

The neckline was a simple scoop and slender sleeves tapered to lily points. The fabric was of nylon crystalette.

The fluffy bouffant veil of clear nylon net caught at the front with a cluster of three roses completed the ensemble. The bride carried a cascade of white roses with stephanotis and ivy.

The choir in attendance preceded the wedding group up the church aisle singing the hymn, "We Lift our Hearts, O Father, to Thee our Voices Raise", which was followed by Purcell's "Trumpet March" played by the organist, Mr. George A. Thompson.

The tiny flower girl, daughter of Mrs. Roger Worth (matron of honor) was dressed in white with gold lace overskirt and carried a basket of white and gold colored baby mums.

The bridesmaids, Roberta MacPhee and Mina Livingston, together with the matron of honor, wore gold satin sheaths with gold lace tunic and matching headdress of sheer tulle caught at the back with bows. They carried crescents of white and gold mums.

The groom was attended by Cpl. Victor Cameron, RCMP detachment, Summerside. Ushers were Cst. William Dewsnap and Cst. Walter Pinsent of Charlottetown.

The bride's mother was charming in a two piece dress of black figured lace over Bristol blue satin with wide trimmed hat of matching blue, and mink stole. Her corsage was of white and blue tinted carnations.

Due to the severe illness of the groom's mother his family was unable to attend. His parents were represented by Dr. Nikolays Bruvels and Mrs. Bruvels, O'Leary, P.E.I. close friends of the groom and bride.

During the signing of the register the hymn, "Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven" was rendered by the choir.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at Motel Charlottetown. The bride's table, with three-tier wedding cake as centrepiece, was arranged by Mrs. Wallace Rodd, aunt of the bride, who was also convener of the reception.

Mrs. Allison P. MacLean of Summerside and Mrs. John F. Meisner of Lunenburg, N.S., aunts of the bride poured. Assisting in serving were cousins of the bride Mrs. (Dr.) John McKiggan, Halifax and Mrs. John Bragg, Collingwood, N.B., a recent bride, Mrs. Walter Pinsent, Miss Donna Molyneaux, Faye Sellick and the brides-maids.

Toastmaster was Cpl. Victor Cameron. Ralph J. Rupert proposed the toast to the bride, and Dr. Bruvels spoke briefly.

Sandra Rodd was in charge of the guest book.

For the honeymoon trip the bride chose a brown wool sheath, brown picture hat and coat of wool tweed. Her corsage was of Talisman roses. The couple honeymooned in eastern United States and Nova Scotia. On their return they will reside at Alberton where the bride will continue her teaching duties at grades nine and ten at the regional high school.

Out of the province guests were Mrs. Lewis B. Anderson, grandmother of the bride, Miss Belle Corbum, her great aunt. Mr. and Mrs. John F. Meisner and family, all of Lunenburg; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Anderson, Port Hawkesbury, N.S.; Mr. T. Gordon Taylor of Windsor, N.S.; Mr. and Mrs. Stuart MacArthur and Mr. and Mrs. Rexford J. Sperry, Truro, N.S.; Mrs. John McKiggan of Halifax and Mrs. John Bragg, Collingwood, N.S.

MARY HAWORTH

Wants Marriage Saved Despite Wife's Jealousy

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I don't know whether I am weak in relation to my wife, or what. But despite the hell we've been living in, I love her very much and I am sure she cares for me.

Also, if humanly possible, I would like to make a home with her for our child, a daughter.

We've been married over five years and she has left me six times, because of her obsessive jealousy, for which I had given no cause whatever, until after I had filed for divorce, a year ago. At that time I left heartbreak, despair and loneliness drag me down, temporarily, to the level she had always imagined.

Her father deserted her when she was a child; she was raised by grandparents. At 18 she married a man who left her within the year. All this probably has much to do with her mistrust of men.

Too, I am three years her junior (she's 31, I'm 28) which also figures in her jealous fears. Her fears make her cruel to herself and me. She has slashed her wrist, has taken an overdose of sedative pills, has assailed me with scissors has told married friends of ours that I go out with their wives, has said strangers telephone her about my infidelities and the like. My efforts to reassure her are ignored.

She won't talk things over with me but complains to the neighbors or to her mother. The latter then comes for her and takes her home. This is their stock solution of her "troubles." In the past I would go to see her after awhile and fetch her back. But after the fifth departure, I filed for divorce.

The suit is still pending and some months ago we began to talk of reconciliation. Knowing this was impossible in the mother's vicinity, I took our child and went to Canada, where my wife followed, after I phoned her. All seemed well. Then the mother showed up with a detective while I was out, and took them back with her. This was the sixth break.

At present she is hiding them, though she denies it. However, I think I could find them if I tried, as my wife is sending me notes and clippings. But if I try to reunite us again, I know she will simply go back to mother as soon as she is faced with another problem

She reads your column and will recognize our story. So maybe, with your advice, we can save our marriage. Please answer soon. V. B.

Dear V. B.: I've cut your letter to a fragment and disguised your initials as well as some of the details of your wife's rampages. This I mention so that she won't fail to recognize the story as yours — and hers.

Now as to a solution, the only possible way to save your marriage, if it can be saved, is for your wife to get specialist help, of both a psycho-analytic and a marriage counselling sort, in coping with her chronic emotional disorders.

The repetitive character of her jealous misery in relation to you, a regular routine of parasitical dependency, distrust, hostility and rejection which she runs through, time after time, indicates that her overall suffering stems from within herself.

As we say nowadays, she is a sick - sick personality. And in slashing at herself as well as you, in mood of raging jealousy dependency, she is reacting to the sickness within herself, rather than dealing with reality.

The fact that her mother is making outlandish threats, these days, to sow her daughter into staying away from you, suggests that it wasn't only the deserter father long ago, and the worthless bridegroom some years back, who did much to demoralize her emotional constitution. It seems pretty plain that her mother is also a contuting factor

A mother who would threaten suicide, and threaten to leave instructions, in her last will and - testament, that her daughter is forbidden to visit mom's grave, in the event said daughter returns to her husband against mom's wishes, is a mother who is also seriously sick - sick, emotionally.

As I see the picture, your wife hasn't a chance of outgrowing her nightmare bias, unless and until she gets specialist help in leaving her mother's womb, figuratively, and embarking on a lifelong process or becoming a responsible adult in her own right, no matter how rigidly her mother resists that effort and aim.

You, too, need first - hand family relations counselling, to get on firm ground in dealing rationally with the situation as it unfolds (for better or for worse). Meanwhile, confess your sense of sin, guilt and remorse, apropos your recent adulterous fling, to a clergyman empowered to transmit pardon and peace. M.H.

MOOSE KILL IS LOW

MONTREAL (CP)—The regular moose hunting season in Quebec Province ended last Sunday at midnight. But controlled moose hunting in some provincial parks continues to Oct. 31. Preliminary figures show that hunters bagged 7,397 moose. The Quebec department of tourism, fish and game had anticipated a kill of more than 12,000. In the Matane Reserve, hunter Roger Belzile of Matane, shot a moose with a 67-inch point spread.

Halloween Super Party Goblins Of Fun For All

THE VERY essence of hospitality centers around an open fire. If I had to choose between a more elegant home without a fireplace, or a simpler one with a real fireplace, I'd choose the fireplace home every time.

If one goes in for real openfire cooking, it's a good plan to equip the fireplace with a swinging crane and an old iron kettle for soup or stew.

But a tip to the wise: Make this ahead in the kitchen, and have it simmering temptingly over the coals when the guests arrive.

To look really professional lift up the cover the last minute and add a bit of seasoning or a hint of wine or whatever the recipe and imagination dictate.

Note: For guests, add a big kettle of bubbling corn chowder. Children will want to "trick or treat" on Halloween. So better be prepared with a tray of cookies, on popcorn bars and small red apples when they ring your door - bell.

Younger children would enjoy a Halloween "checkerboard" supper — no masks, nothing scary or ghost - like in sight—such as the happy early evening party an understanding grandmother we know gave for her little granddaughter and her friends, who love to play checkers.

After supper, the youngsters played games — checkers, of course — included — and carried home for a souvenir a paper jack - o - lantern filled with salted peanuts.

Checkerboard ice cream, by the way, is a newcomer now on sale nationwide. The design itself can be the highpoint and the conversation piece for a variety of occasions - not only a children's party, but a dessert bridge, a bridal shower, a formal dinner party or a teenage snack.

Fill hollows with 3-Way Whipped Sauce.

Serve on beds of tossed dressed lettuce. Garnish; pitted small ripe olives.

THE CHEF'S 3-WAY WHIPPED SAUCE

This sauce is delightful with cold meats or fish; or atop chicken, or other meat salad bowls. It can take the place of the usual tomato - based sauce served with shrimp or crab cocktail. It's a little "nothing" to make.

To do: Combine and stir together 3 tbsp. dairy sour cream, 1 tbsp. mild table- mustard and 1½ tsp. tomato ketchup.

BREADALBANE

A new house is being erected on the hill of what was formerly known as the Upper Breadalbane District (now amalgamated with the lower district). It will be occupied by newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Roy MacLennan (nee Helen Newsome.)

Another old landmark known years ago as The Murray Inn has been destroyed by fire. This old Century home which was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Murray, Fredericton, was full of irreplacable possessions such as old furniture, silverware, dishes and old maps, literally hundreds of antiques — the collection of a period of more than one hundred and twenty years. Most of these are now but a pile of ashes — the disastrous result of a fire which broke out on Sunday afternoon Oct. 11, 1964.

Lester Sellick, accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sellick, Charlottetown, visited Breadalbane on Saturday, October 17. Mr. Sellick, a retired naval education officer, has resumed teaching and counselling in Dartmouth Public school — the only round school in the Maritimes, known as John Martin Junior High School. He had come to the Island, after having attended the Maritime Guidance Association Conference, in Amherst, on October 16-17. Mr. Sellick who is secretary of the Rockingham Ratepayers's Association writes for several papers, especially the Dartmouth Free Press. He also teaches a night class in Citizenship and Community Development at Mt St. Vincent College. This is made possible by the will of the late Dr. John Tompkins, founder of adult education and regional libraries in Canada. On September 9, of this year, Mr. Sellick was chosen "citizen of the day" by radio station CJCH, Halifax. He also speaks frequently to various groups on community matters. Before joining the navy, he taught for seven years in rural P.E.I. He married Violet Shupe of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia. They have two daughters.

Just five days prior to the destruction of their home by fire, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Murray had returned from a vacation trip during which they visited friends and relatives in Halifax, N.S., Fredericton, N.B., Guilford, Maine, Henniker and Dunbarton New Hampshire.

Breadalbane has approximately a mile of newly paved road. The road which runs parallel to the Canadian National railroad has been paved this past month.

Oyster Specialty

Oyster Stew is always a wonderful treat on a frosty night, or for a party dish . . . easy to prepare, too, in this oyster-month-with-an-R. Just cook 1 pint fresh oysters (don't bother to drain them) in ¼ cup melted butter until the oyster edges curl . . . don't overcook them. Then add 3 cups scalded milk and ¼ cup light cream. Season with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce.

Sweet Treat

Want to make hot waffles extra special? Add a few chopped pecans to the waffle batter before baking and serve them with hot buttered maple syrup. Warm ¼ cup butter and 1 cup maple syrup together over low heat and stir to blend well. That's all there is to it! Delicious served à la mode too, with vanilla ice cream for a hot and cold combination.

Holiday Sundae

Another hot and cold favorite of ours, from now until Christmas, is a hot mince sundae. Just heat your favorite mince meat mixture, (the one you use for pies and tarts), thinning it down if necessary with a little orange juice. Add a dash of rum flavoring and you have the easiest ice cream topper to intrigue your guests in a long time.

Something Hot To Drink

Although we think it's hard to improve on good old-fashioned hot cocoa made with milk, here's a new variation the adults in the crowd will like. To make Creole Coffee, blend equal parts of freshly made hot coffee and cocoa. Float a mound of whipped cream on top and sprinkle with cinnamon . . . or try a cinnamon stick stirrer.

French Fare

French Onion Soup, a popular restaurant item now that winter is here, can be a family favorite too! For a quick version sauté 2 cups thinly-sliced onions gently in butter until tender but not browned. Add 2 tins undiluted consommé soup, season and simmer for a few minutes. Smells wonderful and tastes good too!

Parmesan Topper

To crown that Onion Soup, in true French style, toast thick slices of French bread. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle with plenty of grated Parmesan cheese and broil until the cheese is melted and lightly browned. Float a crusty slice atop each bowl of soup just before serving.
